Finest nature artists to display work at Wildlife Festival

Everyone can enjoy the work of some of Canada's finest nature artists and support Wye Marsh's conservation programs at the 1987 Wye Marsh Wildlife Festival On Sept. 18-20.

The art show, one of many attractions at the three-day festival, begins with a special Art Preview evening at the Centre on Friday, Sept 18 at 7:30 p.m. Feature Artist Michael Dumas, known as Canada's most authoritative artist on endangered species, will present a slide show.

"This was a very popular evening at last year's festival, so be sure to buy your tickets early," says Anne Connell, art program co-ordinator.

Wine and cheese will be served and entertainment provided. Don't miss this opportunity to meet the artists, enjoy their work and purchase your favourite pieces before the weekend crowds arrive. As part of this fundraising weekend artists donate 20 per cent of all art sales to the Wye Marsh Wildlife Centre.

And remember: there's still time to enter your own nature art work in the Festival's Amateur Art Contest. Organizers welcome entries from anyone who likes to draw or paint. Share your talent and your love of nature with the Festival's thousands of visitors. For more information, call Wye Marsh.

Pre-sale Festival tickets are available now at Wye Marsh. Grounds tickets purchased before Sept. 18, 7:30 p.m. will be eligible for a draw taking place during the Art Preview evening.
