

Siskins down Kings

Stayner Siskins rolled in to Penetanguishene Friday night and strode out with a well earned 6-2 victory.

Stayner led 2-0 after the first 20 minutes on a pair of power play counters, both scored by Sean van Alstyne and assisted by Rob Swanton.

Penetang got themselves back in the contest in the second frame with a pair of markers, while holding their guests off the board. Wayne Desjardins scored the first goal assisted by Perry Beausoleil before Roy Hildebrandt notched the tying marker a minute and six seconds later combining with Gilles Charlebois and Gary Lynch.

Unfortunately, that was all the offense Penetang was to exhibit in this contest as the third period was all Stayner.

The Siskins received goals from Bryan Henderson, Ralph Moore, van Alstyne and Swanton.

Brian Lethbridge faced 44 Stayner shots, while Steve Johnson handled 25 Penetanguishene shots.

Robbed!

Penetanguishene Huronia Chrysler Junior Kings robbed the Midland Stoneleigh Centennials of a goal in Sunday evening's Georgian Bay Junior C. Hockey League clash at Centennial Arena. Cents were trailing 3-1 at the end of the first period, but turned on the jets and outscored the visitors 6-2 the rest of the way.

Midland bridge

The game on Wednesday, October 14 played by the Midland Bridge Club was one restricted to players ranked by the ACBL in the Master class from playing and allows newer players a greater chance to win.

The bridge competition for first place was extremely close, with Bernie Asselin, Gord Stokes, just edging out Sylvia McLarny Henrick DeLaing, 62.5 per cent to 60 per cent. Other players were Mary and Bill Tucker 47.5; Frances Whale Ed Hill, 45; Hazel Boucher Jim Walsh 35.

Tomorrow evening is a Charity Championship Tournament, with a donation on a per player basis going to a Canadian Charity. The club will contribute to the Canadian Bridge Federation Charity Fund, which this year is disbursing the money to Alzheimer's Disease and Ileitis-Colitis. The ACBL awards extra points to the winners of the this championship, and what better way could a bridge player enjoy the game and have the satisfaction of contributing to charity at the same time.

Also tonight, there will be a handicap game. By awarding a handicap, all players are starting the evening on an equal footing with the pair that has the best record in their last three games. Thus, any pair that exceeds their average play, can come first in this game. New players are awarded handicaps by the director in accordance with his valuation of their past experience.

In Coldwater, in the evening Open Pairs Duplicate, Jim Hughes and John Dowling managed to edge a win over Friedel and Peter Shaw; Dorothy Pheasant Brad Osborne; Marie Kinnear Mary Bell and Bill and Mary Tucker. Coldwater players are looking forward to the Charity Open Pairs Championship in Midland and will have several players attending.

During the week, members of the Midland Royal Canadian Legion will be contracted and a date set for the first game of Contract Bridge. A game will be held on each Tuesday evening, with full access by the public. Lessons can be arranged.

Howard wins in Europe

Glasgow, Scotland- They're in the money!!! The Russ Howard Rink, on a month long tour of Europe, won a high stakes "skins game" in Glasgow over the weekend. Winning the first division final game, the 1987 World Champions put over $11,000 dollars into their wallets. Break that down to about $2800 a piece; not bad for a weekend of work.

Details from overseas are sketchy, but from talking to the Howard boys' father Bill, the guys defeated Norway in the final. While it is not known if former World Champion Eigil Ramsjfell was the representative from Norway, you can bet it was an exciting final with a thousand dollars per end on the line.

Bill told me that the team had a rematch with Roger Schmidt of West Germany, who lost to the Penetanguishene Curling Club team in the final of the World Championships this past spring.

Guess what? Russ and the guys didn't even make it close. They took all ten ends and all the skins from the West German squad.

So, after playing in their first spiel of the 1987-88 campaign, the Russ Howard team finds itself in an enviable position. They are probably about five or six thousand dollars ahead of what they won all through the curling season last year. And, it looks like the boys are on the right beam to maybe go all the way again this season after beating some of the best teams in all of Europe. This week the guys are touring Germany by bus, playing in a few exhibition games (possibly against Roger Schmidt again) and will end up in Berne, Switzerland this weekend for a 32 team, double knockout event sponsored by the Mercedes-Benz Corporation.

Following the Switzerland spiel, Glen Howard, Kent Carstairs and Tim Belcourt will return home because of work commitments and fresh troops will be sent overseas to help Russ in a spiel in Ayr, Scotland. Those recruits are fifth man Larry Merkle, Larry Snow from Toronto who viced for Ed Werenich last season, and an old standby, Bob Storey from Elmvale.

Good luck to all. And, we are looking forward to the pictures Russ' wife Wendy brings back of the team in action. She is taking them exclusively for Markle Community Newspapers and for our newspapers at the Penetanguishene Curling Club:

Teachers judge art

On Oct. 9 Ken Cowan and two retired fellow teachers, Dolly Heasman and Chris Thomson, journeyed to Christian Island to judge exhibits for the Native Thanksgiving Achievement Weekend.

The exhibits were most interesting, said Cowan, showing art and craft work from the children of the day care centre and on up through the Island Elementary School, as well as a few other exhibits by older people.

Part of the exhibits followed the Native Language and Culture theme. It was quite evident the native community is blessed with creative minds, Cowan said.

Before leaving the island the guests were treated to a lovely noon luncheon by Faith Marsden and her helpers at the day care centre.

The boat trip back across the water had its ups and downs - the wind had become quite strong and the waves tossed the visitors about somewhat. But the lovely new vessel, Indian Maiden, was most comfortable, said Cowan.

Unfortunately, the guests could not attend the rest of the Achievement Weekend, which was to include recreation activities for the young people, a parade, homemade cakes and pies (judged by David and Helen Plain, recently appointed to the Christian Island United Church Charge) and a Thanksgiving supper beginning at 5 p.m. on Sunday by the United Church Women.

"I wish I could have attended," said Cowan. "We enjoyed our two and a half hours of judging."
