Be on lookout as school begins

"The beginning of the school year is a time to be on the lookout," said Pat Curran of The Canadian Automobile Association.

"Youngsters who don't stop to think about safety rules, or who take risks in the traffic environment, are acting normally regardless of the danger they might put themselves in," said Curran.

Parents should review safe walking rules with their children and map out the safest walking route to school.

Every motorist must drive carefully when approaching a school zone and be alert for children crossing in excited groups, darting from parked cars or walking by roadways.

One last reminder: When you approach a school bus that has stopped to load pupils, you are required to stop your vehicle and remain stopped until the bus resumes motion, or the lights have stopped flashing. This applies whether you are in front of or behind the bus, unless you're separated from the vehicle by a divided highway with a median strip.

People behind scenes make business successful

Quality Auto Sales at 859 Yonge Street in Midland is entering its fourth year of business. When owner Jim Koch first started, he began with only eight cars. In the past three years, with Jim's business expertise, Quality Auto Sales has grown to the point where it has over 50 cars in stock at one time.

At Quality Auto Sales there are people behind the scenes that the customer never sees, people making sure every little detail is taken care of. Some of the staff members work over 12 hours a day just to ensure a customer is happy.

The vehicles sold are in excellent condition and meticulously cared for. The wide price range from $3,000 to $15,000 means there is something suitable for everyone.

The majority of cars are certified and Quality Auto Sales has its own mechanic on staff so every vehicle that leaves the lot with two opinions. Cars are usually sold with a warranty and there is no high pressure.

There is an opportunity for a potential buyer to take the car or truck for a test drive and then spend time with a salesperson making sure the vehicle fits the customer's needs in every way -- including financially.

Quality Auto Sales is there to supply the type of automobile that you are ready to purchase.
