Cancer treatment offered for Duval

Doctors will try chemotherapy to reduce Melissa Duval's abdominal tumor that was discovered last week.

But chemotherapy can't begin until four-year-old "Missy" recovers from the viral pneumonia she came down with last Saturday, Delva Lacroix, her aunt, said Monday.

Five days of chemotherapy will be followed by a two-week break, then by five more days of chemotherapy for the former Penetanguishene resident.

If the tumor shrinks, doctors at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children will operate.

If the tumor continues to grow, Melissa will be taken for treatment to New York or Amsterdam.

In its Saturday edition The Toronto Star corrected and apologized for a Nov. 8 story incorrectly stating that Melissa's Foundation to Save a Child is being investigated by the Office of the Public Trustee.

"That story never should have been printed," Lacroix said.

The Foundation, a registered charity, has no money. Fund raising will be in the future, Lacroix said.

"You spend a few days at Sick Kids and you realize how many parents out there need help," she said.
