ADVERTISING SALES

Good sales people are hard to find. Good advertising salespeople are even harder. To sell advertising you need to have a natural business instinct to be able to mix well with all types of companies and understand how their products or services are marketed and sold. If you don't know, you have to be a good listener and learn fast. To sell advertising you have to establish if a company's customers are also your readers. And since not all ads are "camera-ready", you have to understand that company's special needs and goals and help them to achieve them through suggesting various advertising strategies. To sell advertising you have to be an expert on the market your publication serves and, you have to be an expert on advertising itself. You need to know its possibilities and its limitations. You need to know the components of an ad and what will sell a product or service to your readers, which are also your advertiser's market. As if all of this weren't enough, to sell advertising you have to be resourceful, tenacious, know when to push and when to back off, have a burning desire to succeed at what you do, and be pleasant to work with so that your advertisers actually look forward to doing business with you and your publication. As you can see, good advertising salespeople are hard to find, if you feel you are one of them, and have a proven track record in any type of sales, we would like to talk with you. We're Telemedia Community Newspapers and we're building an elite team of advertising sales winners.
