You tread life's weary stage. I'll tell thee all, my youthful friend The good old man replied, Whate'er may hap I always look -Upon the brightest side. O'er all the land there's not a man, . How hard soe'r his lot, But if he will, can often find

I've lived and toiled for many a year Beneath the summer's sun, And in the winter cold and drear My labor still went on ; And in that varied course of years, Did much of ill betide ; But still I always strove to look Upon the brighest side.

A bright and sunny spot.

When sickness came, and hours of pain Dragg'd wearily along. And mourning sad and mucm'rings vain Drop't from my feeble tongue ; Kind hearts were there, and kindly words Fell softly on mine ear, And loving ones were always nigh. My fainting heart to cheer.

And through a long and varied life I've learn'd this lesson well, That in this world of care and strife There's more of good than ill. And e'en in poverty and toil Peace with us will abide ; Man may be happy if he will But see the brighter side.
