Those who go to law for damages are pretty since to get them. What church do you attend Mrs.

Partington? Oh, any paradox church where the gospel is dispensed with. The earth is a tender and kind mother to the husbandman; and yet at one season he always harrows her blosom, and at another plucks her ears. Bear with the frailties and imperfection of thy neighbor; consider how God bears with thine. If you do when you are alone what yo are unwilling to do in the presence of your acquaintances, you respect them more than you do yourself. A spirit of cheerfulness should be encouraged in your routh if we would wish to have the benefit of it in your old age. Time will make generous wine more mellow, but turn that which is carly on the fret to vinegar.

Men will sooner give larger sums to crect a monument, and endow hospitals embiazon Their names, than a cent to the miserable mendicant, asking alms at their doors. A cun of cold water in love ill be more favorably registered by Deity. than millions expended under the influence of vanity.

PAT AND THE WEDDED PAIR.— Last month General Sampson Dove, of Winepusa, married the daughter of the American Keounsel (counsi) to Dubin. American Keounsel (counse) to Johns Muss Jennina Fox. Dil you tver see her, stranger? 'ever,' I said. 'Well, that's a creel, pity, for, you would have seen a peeler, I tell you—a real confed gal, and no mistake. Just what Eve was, I guess, when she walked about the garden, and nords come to see her, and writ's o and angels come to see her, and wern't so everlastin' thin and vapory like simbeams. Well' they first went to Killarney on a wedding tower, and after they had stared at that lovely place till they burt their eyes they came down here to see the Groves of they came down here to see the Groves of Blarney and what not,—Well, the General didn't want folks to know they were only just married, for people always run to the winders and doors to look at the bride as if she was a bird that was only seen once in a hundred years. It's onconvenient, that's a fact, and it makes a sensitive, delicated ninded gal feel as awkward as a grog boot.
o says the General to Pat— Pat,' says e' don't go now and tell the lolks we are only just married; lie low and keep dark, will you? that's a good fellow, Bedad, never lear, yer honor, the divit a much they'll git out of me, I can tell you. Let me alone for that; I can keep a secret as well as ever a Priest in Ireland.'

- Well, for all that, they did stare, in a way that was a caution to owls; and well they might, too, for it aut often they see such a gal as Miss Jemma I tell you, though the Irish gals warn't behind the door when beauty was given out-that's a fact. At last the General see something was in the wind, above common, for the folks looked amazed in the house, and they dida't seem over half pleased either they must seem over man present charles who says be one day—— Pat, says he, I hope you did not tell them we were only just married, did you? Tell them you were Markbom, May 13, 1e69. Just married, is it, yer honor? said he; let me alone for that!—They were "He' me alone for that!—I key were mighty inquisitive about it, and specially the master, he wanted to know all about it, intirely Mayried, is it! says 1; they aint married at all, at all; the divil a person ever said grace over them!
