

with, and that it was their duty to place in the hands of the chairman a protest against this unfair dealing. The meeting was convened here in Markham, and Mr. Macklam was going to look after its interests entirely, it had the power, as the meeting was now constituted, of doing just what it pleased. The representatives of South Ontario were powerless against such odds, but they were satisfied that the people who were prevented by the state of the weather, and the confidence they felt in the people of Markham, from being present, would never agree to be disfranchised in such a manner as the meeting had resolved upon.

Mr. Resson said he regretted very much the position taken by Mr. Farewell. No one more cordially than he, had agreed to abide by the decision of the meeting. In the preliminary meeting held on the day of the Plowing Match, he drew up the first resolution, and agreed to the whole proceedings, and at that meeting this place was fixed upon. If the amendment had been voted down he [Mr. R.] would not have bolted.—Suppose Mr. Farewell were allowed to counter the protest, perhaps at the convention, on some pretext or other, he would repeat it. He hoped Mr. Farewell would reconsider his course.

Mr. FAREWELL said Mr. Resson was the man who ought to consider his course, and not himself. He said he was not going to do anything but what he thought right, and he had the power of doing it.—upon compelling South Ontario to go to a convention on such a most unfair basis, or to protest against it the next day. A large number of persons present did not vote at all, because, he took it, they did not wish to press such a unfair thing upon South Ontario.

Mr. W. H. ORR said that Mr. Resson ought to observe that the five persons present from South Ontario did not propose to enter a protest against the meeting, but to demand a majority in their own name, but in behalf of those who would have been present despite the unfavorable state of the weather. If they had once imagined that the people of Markham would attempt to take advantage of their absence to force a vote, and to demand a majority in their own name, instead of being in the middle of Markham, where Mr. Resson's friends had nothing to do but step in, and been in the middle, where South Ontario would have had a chance to be better represented.

Mr. Resson said that the meeting was held in the middle of Markham, where Mr. Resson's friends had nothing to do but step in, and been in the middle, where South Ontario would have had a chance to be better represented. W. S. POLLOCK, Assignee, Richmond Hill, May 17, 1860.

WANTED.

A MID OF ALL WORK. One who can do any kind of work, and who is willing to do it for no other reason, than to get the money. If there were an equal, or a better opportunity to do a good representation of the two sections of the Division present at the meeting, it would be the duty of all to abide by its decision; but there was no such fair representation, and the few present from South Ontario could not do otherwise than enter a protest.

Mr. Resson persisted in stating that Mr. Farewell was bound, upon his own words, to abide by whatever might be done by the meeting.

Mr. FAREWELL said he would withdraw his name from an election contest after he had been nominated by a convention, to prevent division in the party, and he was prepared to do it again if necessary.

Mr. Resson refused to agree to Mr. Farewell's proposal, and declared that he considered that the resolution which had been carried did not deal justly with South Ontario.

Mr. FAREWELL suggested that the decision as to which of the two methods should be adopted, should be left to an umpire, or, to the three members representing the Division in the Lower House.

Mr. Resson said that his opinion was wanted, it was already given in writing, as they had written to several parties in the Division suggesting the last course as the best.

Mr. FAREWELL said that they supposed the population would have increased as fast in the west as in the east, and many others more likely to know than they, had supposed the same thing until they were otherwise informed at this meeting.

Mr. Resson, however, declined acceding to the proposal, and Henry Miller, Jr., pressed for the adoption of a resolution which he had drawn up, naming a day for the election of delegates.

Mr. FAREWELL said the discussion was out of order, although, being a matter of great importance, he had allowed it to go on thus far. It would be in order he said, for some one who voted with the majority, to move a reconsideration. If that were not done, the resolution must stand. Or, perhaps it would be a good plan to adjourn, in order to afford persons from a distance a better opportunity of being present.

The second of the amendments here came forward to write out a motion for reconsideration, but all parties seemed to think it the better course to adjourn the meeting without further action at present.

Accordingly it was moved by John Phillips, Esq. of Pickering, and seconded by William Eckhardt, Esq. of Markham, That this meeting do now adjourn to meet again at this place at 12 o'clock, noon, on Saturday the 19th inst.—Carried unanimously.

HUNTING.—We have received a letter from Mr. John Perry of King, in reference to a hunting expedition made by him; during the past winter on the banks of the Pine river. We cannot publish the letter as received, but we learn from it that during the season he killed eighty-five deer, a fox, and a fisher. He is an old huntsman, and so great as been his success that several persons have doubted the accuracy of his statements. In order to settle the point he challenges his detractors and offers £100 to £13 on the result, to prove that he ever brought a deer during his hunting expeditions.

Two prize fights took place near Cleveland on Sunday last. Another is to come off next Sunday.

The son of Mr. John S. Kelley of Ottawa, aged ten years, was drowned in the river on Saturday.

The Hamiltonians are to have a couple of Russian cannon as well as the demizens of London, C. W.
