DIRECTION OF THE LATE EARTH-QUAKE.

From the Leader.

There has been some little speculation as to the direction of the late earthquake though not much has been said on the sub-ject. One thinks the direction of the sub-ject. One thinks the direction of the oscilation was from the north to south; another reports that it appeared to him to be from west to cast; and a third—Le Courrer du Canada—bolder than the Courrier du Canada-bolder than the others, speaks with great positiveness, but very sleuder information on the subject. "On observing the different "times at which the shocks were felt in the "different kowns mentioned below," says this very positive authority, "it is easy to asure one's "self that the direction of the more ment was "from the west. Thus, at Belle-wille, the last "shock took place at balf-past fixe "dock, at "Ouchee at the plane." past five o'clock, at "Quebec at ten min-utes before six; and at Bic at six precisely." The reported time in all these cases is the local time; and if the observations were accusts, the shock was felt at Quebec before it was felt at Belleville. The re-ported difference in local time between the occurrance of the phenomena at these two baces is twenty minutes; but the real difference in longitude is twenty-two and a half minutes. If, therefore, the local time was exact, in each case, and the obser-vation of it exact, also, the shock must have occurred at Quebee two and a half minutes before it occurred in Belleville. shock was felt at Bie precisely at six goes to show, not that there was any great difference in the time of the occurrance of the shocks, at different places, but that Mrs. J. Brooks and Oliver Phillips. they were about simultaneous. This Quebec, and six o'clock at Bic, accords almost exactly with the actual difference in 2nd John Nizon; 3rd Wm Bean. the time at these two places ; which in nine minutes and fifteen second.

There are other facts tending to the same conclusion. The telegram from Riviere du Loup does not give the exact time ; but states that it was "about six. The shock lasted about five minutes; some five or six chinneys were thrown down, and a great dread thrown over the minds of all the people. There is no part of America that bears such marks of convulsions as Eboule rearts and Baie St. Paul, though it is nearly two hundred years since such a severe shock has been felt.²
