

THE WORLD IS FULL OF BEAUTY.

There is a beauty in the forest
Where the trees are green and fair;
There is a beauty in the meadow
Where wild flowers scent the air;
There is beauty in the sunlight
And the soft blue beam above;
Oh! the world is full of beauty
When the heart is full of love!

There is beauty in the mountain,
Singing gaily at the play,
While rainbow hues are glittering
On its silvery, shining spray,
There is beauty in the streamlet,
Murmuring softly through the grove;
Oh! the world is full of beauty
When the heart is full of love!

There is beauty in the moonlight
When it falls upon the sea,
While the blue, foam crested billows
Dance and frolic joyously;
There is beauty in the lightning gleams
That over the dark waves rove;
Oh! the world is full of beauty
When the heart is full of love!

There is beauty in the brightness
Beaming from a loving eye,
In the warm blush of affection,
In the tear of sympathy;
In the sweet low voice, whose accents
The spirit's gladness prove;
Oh, the world is full of beauty
When the heart is full of love.

Miscellaneous.

Why is the seeing a sign a manifest token of sight?—Because it is a sign you see.

Sleep—A cloak drawn around us at the side-scene, as we leave the stage awhile.

What word is that which if you take away the first letter, all will still remain Ball.

The man who lives for himself lives for a mean fellow.

Wisdom is the talent of buying virtuous pleasures at the cheapest rate.

Literature is a garden, books are particular views of it, and readers are visitors.

If you laugh too long and too immoderately at a joke, others will laugh at you rather than at the joke.

"I am afraid of lightning," murmured a pretty woman during a thunder storm.
"Well, you may be," said a despairing lover, "when your heart is steel."

Never purchase love or friendship by gifts; when thus obtained they are soon lost as soon as you stop payment.

As in a letter, if the paper is small and we have much to write, we write closer, so let us learn to economize and improve the remaining moments of life.

Cleanliness may be said to be the foster-mother of love. Beauty indeed most commonly produces that passion in the mind, but cleanliness preserves it.

Men and women never struggle so hard as when they struggle alone, without witness, councillor, or confidant, unencouraged, unaided, and untried.

"Father," said a four year old, I think you are a fool."
"Why, my child?"
"Because you have brought that baby here when mother is so sick, and you have got a woman to take care of it."

Everything useful or necessary is cheapest; walking is the most wholesome exercise, water the best drink, the plain food the most nourishing and healthy diet—even in knowledge the most useful is the easiest acquired.

A STRING OF ANECDOTES.—In the "Autobiography of Miss Cornelia Knight, Lady Companion to the Princess of Wales" we have the following stories:—"Sir Edward Suggden, a celebrated lawyer who has lately come into Parliament, having heard that he had been turned into ridicule for being the son of a hairdresser, made answer: "So I am, and I am come into the House to give a dressing to the Whigs."—"I forgot who told me the following anecdote of the Marquis of Wexley, when Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland. He was at a table with a party of Irish gentlemen who were chiefly Orangemen, and in the dining-room hung a picture of the battle of the Boyne, which in that country is usually called the Victory of Boyne Waters. The company, wishing him to pronounce an opinion, invited him to change his seat. "Surely, my lord," said one, "you would not turn your back on Boyne Waters?" Lord Wexley answered, pointing to a bottle of claret that stood before him, "Oh, I never lo k at water when I can get wine."—"An old woman, who died a few years ago in Ireland, had a nephew, a lawyer, to whom she left, by will, all she possessed. She happened to have a favourite cat, who never left her, and even remained with the corpse after her death. After the will was read in the adjoining room, on opening the door the cat sprang at the lawyer, seized him by the throat, and was with difficulty prevented from strangling him. The man died about eighteen months after this scene, and on his deathbed confessed that he had murdered his aunt to get possession of her money."—"A celebrated surgeon, named Livous, who was in the French army, took compassion on a dog whose leg had been fractured by a shot during the siege of some place or other. He set the bone and cured him. Some time afterwards he found waiting at his door the same dog, with a companion who had a broken leg, and whom he eventually wished to introduce to him. The surgeon cured the second dog also, and mentioned the circumstance to the Countess de C., who reported it to me."

HAVING guarded against loss from Fire by insuring your property, consider if it would not be as well to make a little additional provision for your family in case of your premature death;—which would not be as well through the assistance of a Life Assurance Company, to provide a legacy for your wife or daughter, or if you have not the happiness to be blessed with them, think if the possession of a few hundred pounds additional might not be of advantage to yourself a few years hence. If you decide that would, write to the Managing Director of the PROVIDENT LIFE ASSURANCE AND INVESTMENT COMPANY,
30 Toronto Street, Toronto, for a "Proposal" form, and a copy of the Rules.
Or, possibly, the Agent of the "Beaver" may accompany you to his documents, which he can explain to you in detail, and give you a little information on a subject besides.
Fire Insurances can be effected for one, two, or three years, at moderate rates.
