SONG OF THE DUBLIN DAIRYMAN.

They may boast of Ayreahs, and Jerseys, and Kerries, And brag how good each of them is for the pail;

Miscellaneous.

There is a current belief that a wolf is never more dangerous than when he feels sheepish.

Missouri is one of the largest States in the Union. It contains 67,390 square miles.

"Bob, how is your sweetheart getting along?—Pretty well; she says I needn't call any more!"

If you are conscious of being green, and don't want folks to see it, try to be an invisible green.

Water isn't a fashionable beverage for drinking your friend's health; but it's a capital one for drinking your own.

An old man, when dangerously sick, was urged to take advice of a doctor, but object-d paying, "I wish to die a natural death."

"Goodness me!" cried a nice old lady the other day, "if the world does come to an end next year, what shall I do for snuff?"

A countryman, giving his evidence at Court, was asked by the counsel if he was born in wedlock. "No, sir," he replied, "I was born in Scotland."

A little girl hearing it said that she was born on the Queen's birth-day, took no notice of it at the time, but a day or two after asked her father if she and the Queen were twins.

Early Study.—Force not a child to premature study. The footpath may be soonest green in the spring, but afterwards they are but sere and yellow tracks through the blooming meadows.

A THOUGHT OF MARTIN LUTHER'S.—Luther remarked that there were three things on which he could not bear to dwell, without Christ—lies, sins, death, and the day of judgement.

An Octogenarian Rope-dancer.—Madame Sansui performed on the tight rope at the Paris Hippodrome, lately. Although now eighty-three years of age, she danced with considerable vigor and grace, and was loudly applauded.

Sports and Pastimes of the Americans. It seems to be a favourite pursuit among the Americans to get hold of a poor editor, who has the courage to differ with them, and to tar and feather him. If asked what kind of a nation America was, we should feel inclined, after hearing of the above blackguard propensity, to exclaim "tar nation!"

In the English co-operative mill societies, workers are non-shareholders fellow-operatives. "A friend of mine," says a writer, "told me that in a factory in his neighborhood, a sharp young woman was saying angrily to a great lout of a fellow: 'I'll tell thee what, Jem; this consarn's part moine, an' if thee doesn't keep them ends up I'll get thee bagged (dismissed), theaw lazy, dirty poue!'"

Practical Science.—Two scientific men, father and son, had invented a very ingenious spinning-jenny, but, alas! when put together, the machine would not work. The village blacksmith was called into consultation. "Tom, do you think that machine could be made to work?" Vulcan carefully examined the machine and gave a favourable reply. "How?" "Ay, ay, that's the secret." At last it was agreed that he should have half the profits, provided he could tell them how to make the jenny work. "Well, now tell us what we must do to make it work." "Oh, it's the two men of science had overlooked so humble a part of the process.

Wit is not Wisdom.—The chief bar to the action of the imagination, and step to all greatness in this present age of ours, is its mean and shallow love of just and jery, so that if there be in any good and lofty work a flaw or falling, or undipped venerable part, where sarcasm can stick or stay, it is caught at and pointed at, and fixed upon and stung into, as a recent wound is by flies, and nothing is ever taken seriously or as we meant, but always, if it may be, turned the wrong way and misunderstood; and while this is so, there is not and cannot be any hope for the achievement of high things; men dare not open their hearts to us if we are to broil them up on a thorn fire.

WIT AND WISDOM OF SYDNEY SMITH.

MORAL EQUALITY OF MAN. All honest men, whether Counts or Cobblers, are of the same rank, if ciassed by moral distinction.

RELATIONS OF MANKIND. By what curious links and fantastical relations are mankind connected together! At the distance of half the globe, a Hindoo gains his support by groping at the bottom of the sea for the morbid concretion of a shellfish, to decorate the throat of a London alderman's wife.

AMERICAN EXPECTORATION. We are terribly afraid that some Americans spit upon the floor, even when that floor is covered by good carpets. Now, all claims to civilization are suspended till this secretion is otherwise disposed of. No English gentleman has spit upon the floor since the Heptarchy.

PRACTICAL PIETY. The honest and orthodox method is to prepare young people for the world as it actually exists; to tell them that they will often find vice perfectly successful, virtue exposed to a long train of afflictions, that they must bear this patiently, and look to another world for its rectification.

OCCUPATION OF WOMEN. Nothing, certainly, is so ornamental and delightful in woman as the benevolent affections; but time cannot be filled up and life employed with high and impassioned virtues. We know women are to be compassionate; but they cannot be compassionate from eight o'clock in the morning till twelve at night—and what are they to do in the interval?

SERMONS. Preaching has become a byword for long and dull conversation of any kind; and whoever wishes to imply in any piece of writing, the absence of everything agreeable and inviting, calls it a sermon.

THE RULE OF PUBLIC CONDUCT. There is one principle of public conduct—Do what you think right, and take place or power as an accident. Upon any other plan, office is shabbiness, labour, and sorrow.

THE PLOUGH AND THE LOOM. The plough is not a political machine; the loom and steam engine are furiously political, but the plough is not.

LEARN FROM THE EARLIEST DAYS to inure your principles against the perils of ridicule; you can no more exercise your reason if you live in the constant dread of laughter, than you can enjoy your life if you are in the constant terror of death.

ELDERLY PEOPLE. The Scythians always ate their grandfathers, they behaved very respectfully to them for a long time, but as soon as their grandfathers became old and troublesome, and began to tell long stories, they immediately ate them; nothing could be more improper, and even disrespectful than dining off such near and venerable relatives; yet we could not with any propriety accuse them of bad taste in morals.

THE MEMORY OF HAPPINESS. Mankind are always happier for having been happy; so that if you make them happy now, you make them happy twenty years hence by the memory of it.

MATIMONY. Did you ever hear my definition of marriage? It is, that it resembles a pair of shears, so joined that they cannot be separated, often moving in opposite directions, yet always punishing any one who comes between them.

BEATING DOWN PRICES. Some people pride themselves on a certain sharpness in making bargains. They buy everything at a trifle cheaper than their neighbors, because of a certain tack in beating down prices. It may turn out in another world that this is a very short sighted economy, for as Mr. Gough says, it leads many sellers to vicious courses. Mr. Gough said in one of his lectures upon information derived personally from English convicts that not a few of that unfortunate class of persons had formerly been vendors of vegetables, fruit, matches, and such like small wares, and by that humble means had tried hard to gain an honest livelihood. And they ascribe their failure and their fall to the fact that their customers were so persistently in the habit of beating them down in their prices, that they found it impossible to earn a living by fair and honest dealing, and were at length tempted to a course of double dealing, which led them step by step into lying, cheating, and stealing, and finally to public degradation and the prison. We think that there is more than a grain of truth in this. At all events one of the minor morals is, to give a poor man a fair price for his labor or his wares. Beating down is wholly excusable. If the price asked is too high in itself, or too much for your pocket, leave the article and try another dealer. One price and no abatement should be the rule.

FACT No. 2.—These Machines make the lock-stitch—like on both sides—and use a little less than half as much thread and silk as the chain or loop-stitch machines.

FACT No. 3.—These Machines are better adapted than any other sewing-machines in the market to the frequent change and almost endless variety of sewing required in a family. They will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Muslins without stopping, and make every stitch perfect. They will even sew from the finest gauze to the heaviest cloth, and even stout, hard leather, without changing the feed, needle, or tension, or making any adjustment of machine whatever. Is not such a machine best adapted to family use? and if best adapted to family use, why not for every variety of light sewing manufacture? For work too heavy for our Family Machine, we recommend our larger sizes.

FACT No. 4.—These Machines make the most elastic goods, or goods of any kind, on a bias. They will sew from one to twenty thicknesses of Muslins without stopping, and make every stitch perfect.
