THE PRIME MINISTER OF NOV SCOTIA ON THE TRENT AFFAIR

THE Hon. Joseph Howe, Prime Minis ter of Nova Scotia, recently addressed meeting at Ashton-under-Lyne, England His remarks on the American civil war were strongly in favor of the South. As regards England and America, he said England, her flag, and institutions were in bad odour in America. The events of the past week had given an extraordinary and startling commentary upon the whole position of affairs. Two gentlementaken off British packet upon the high seas and ship, and his cars cut off—since the day when that mutidated Englishman carried his ears to the bar of the House of Commons, and provoked a war, he knew of no outrage in all our history equal to that perpetuated upon this country within the last month. John Bull was said to look surly at a doubtful compinient; but Jonathan's knuckles had been this time planted so fairly between John Bull's eyes that he could not wink, even if he were so disposed. [Laughter.] God forbul that they should rejoice at this! But Englishmen had been taught to regard certain thing as essential to national honor; and the right of asylum was not only essential to national honor; and to the civilization of the world. Would they allow a French privateer to violate the British flag, and take from a ship an Orleans Prince or any other fallen man; and should it be said that for love of cotton and peace they would allow that to be done in the present day which they had held sacred and inviolate down to the present hour? [Cheers.] What did he think of the chances of peace. The inself was so gross that it was just possible that public mean in America might yield to the pressure of circumstances, and retire before the storm. But from what he knew of the country he had his fears. be believed that the mob of New York would tear the men limb from limb before they would be given up. What then? With a clear conscience, and with an eye turned to the Almighty, they might accept the gage of battle flung down. This was no ingult thing for the colonists in America, wha, with a frontier of 1.500 miles along the borders of the United States, would have to bear the first Drunt of the battle; but they would fight to a man for the British flag. [Cheers.]

THE CASE OF MR. SHAVER

The line of policy pursued by President Lincoln in the treatment of British subjects that falls into his which he professes to entertain towards Great Britain. The account given by Mr. Shaver, a native of Canada, recently released in a military prison in the United States, is anything but creditable to a people professing to hod a high position among civilized nations. In modern times it has invariably been considered dishororable to ill-treat prisoners of war, but how much more so, to treat with severity, those who are merely confined on suspicion. Mr. Shaver, acting as agent for the G. T. Railroad was travelling on business in the Northern States, when he was seized and hurried off to a loathsome prison, placed among the lowest characters, and refused the common necessaries of life. After a minute necessaries of life. After a minute search of his clothing, and after every reasonable ground for suspi-cion had been rumored, he was nevertheless still detained a prisoner, and only released after case had been made the subject of a diplomatic correspondence between Lord Lyons and the Secretary, Seward. He was refused an investigation of his case, and even threatened with worse treatment if he dared to procure legal assistance. Perhaps the worst feature of the case, was the attempt made to force a British subject to take the oath of allegiance to the Northern States, as the only condi tion on which he could obtain his release from an unjust imprisonraging in the Northern States, if a foreigner is discovered rendering aid to the enemy, it is but just and proper that he should be made to suffer the consequences of his acts. And it would be unreasonable to expect that British subjects should be dealt with more tavorably than others. But if persons transacting business in any party of the Union are made liable to scizure and de tention on the mere ipse dixit of irresponsible agents, business men will be very cautious about venturing within reach of such danger; and as a consequence, the spy system as at present carried out, will not only involve the probability of granted, serious inconvenience to the Govserious inconvenience to the Goveroment, but will entail incalcu- pearance since the last trial. lable injury on the already pros-trated commerce of the country. be disclaimed also. TORONTO WINTER ASSZES.

THE HOGAN MURDER. BROWN AGAIN FOUND GUILTY.

(Abridged from the Globe.) The Court opened yesterday morning at ten o'clock. Hon. Mr. Justice Burns presiding.

James Brown was placed on his trial a second time for the murder of Mr. John Sherridan Hogan, at the Don Bridge, on the night of the 1st of December, 1859 The facts of the case are so patent to the readers of the Globe that they do not require to be recapitulated. Brown was found guilty at the late Fall Assizes of the murder of Mr. Hogan, and sentenced to be hanged on the 4th Nov. last, but an application was made to the Court of Queen's Bench, by his Counsel, Mr. J. H. Dovle, for a new trial, on the ground that certain evidence had been rejected at the trial in the Assize Court which ought to have been accepted, and a new trial was

His Lordship then went over the evidence of sire to continue on friendly terms with foreign nations, his less pru-

In regard to the defence he would remark that the evidence of Doling had an important bearing on the case so far as regarded Sherrick's precase so far as regarded Sherrick's pre-sence at the Don Bridge on the night in-dicated, and a question might arise in their minds that if she had been mistaken about man named Bell, had caught fire Sherick, might she not also be mistaken about through, we understand, the careless disposal of ashes. In a very short time it was consumed, and he had made to be true. The learned had communicated with adwellingbudge concluded his charge to the Jury

The jury then retired to consider their verdict at half-past nine o'clock at night, and returned into Court at twenty-five minutes to ten. When they entered all eyes were turned to the box, and the pri-soner earnestly scanned the features of each juryman as be trok his seat.

The learned Judge said this was the second Jury who had found the prisoner guilty. It had been submitted at the up-per Court that certain evidence had not been allowed at the previous trial, and the case was sent for a reconsideration. That econsideration had been had, and the jury had given their decision on the evidence submitted on both sides. The prisoner had had a fair trial, and before passing sentence, it was his duty to tell the prisoner to prepare himself for death. He could hold out no hope for him, and as he had been previously warned to prepare himself, he would just remind him to do so without repetition. His Lordship then, in the usual form, sentenced the prisoner to be execu-ted on Monday, 10th March next. He appeared much affected while passing the dread sentence of the law.

The prisoner looked pale but calm while the Judge was addressing him, and shook hands with several persons in the audience before he left the dock to be conveyed to gaol.

The trial occupied thirteen hours, and the Court adjourned about 11 o'clock, till this morning at balf-past nine.

In this action the plaintiff sought to re cover damages for injuries sustained by the upsetting of his sleigh, which he alleged was caused by the negligence of the lefendant. From the evidence it appears that the plaintiff was driving his team on the Toronto and Vaughan plank road, and that his sleigh was loaded with stone. That the defendant in endeavoring to pass with a load of hay struck against the plaintiff's horses which caused them to shy to one side and upset the plaintiff's horses which caused them to shy to one side and upset the plaintiff's sleigh into the ditch, the plaintiff being underneath the stone. On being removed it was found that he had received severe injury, so much so that he was unable for several mouths to follow his usual occupation, in fact he is not yet perfeetly recovered.—Verdict for the plain $240.

MILITIA GENERAL ORDERS. HEAD QUARTERS, Quebrc, Jan. 10, 1862. No. 1.

It has come to the knowledge of the ommander in Chief that doubts have crisen as to the object and affect of the General Order of December 20th, 1861, which proposes to raise by means of Volunteers, one company from every battalion of Sedentary Militia within the Province.

The object of that order was to enro certain number of officers and men, who rould hold themselves in readiness to turn out, at short notice, for active service and the effect of the enrolment would be to perfect the preliminary arrangements for lacing the men on permanent duty, so as or enable the Commander in-Chief immediately that the necessity should arise, to call out the force for actual service. Should it be found expedient to call the force out for permanent duty, the men would be provided with lodgin and paid, clothed and fed.

No. 2.

The Commander-in-Chief desires to im ress upon officers commanding corps of he Active Force that the great coats now being issued to the force are public pro-perty, and should in all cases, be treated in exactly the same manner, as regards use and custody, with the arms and accourre-ments of the men. They should be kept in the building appointed for keeping the arms, and should not, on any pretence, be worn except when the men are engaged in drill or duty. Commanding officers the held personally responsible for the en-forcement of this order.

A MAN ROASTED ALIVE .- On Thurs day morning last, a shocking occurrence took place on the farm of Mr. S. J Crooker, in West Flamboro' near Millgrove. A man rained John Enwright, a labourer, who lived in a shanty, came home on Thursday quite drunk, and after quar-relling with his wife and family, turned them all out of the shanty. The family we understand, went into the bush, and after being there some time their attention was called to the shanty by seeing it in flames. The oldest girl reached it first, names. The oldest girl reached it risk, and, opening the door, she called to her lather, who answered, when she rushed in and pulled him out by the arm, he having been lying on a bed. When takee out it was found that every stitch of clothes that he had had on was consumed, his body being litterally rousted from his head to his feet. He lived for about four bours, suffering the most excruciating pain.
Another added to the long list of victims which that most accursed of agents has brought to a horrible death.—London Prototype.

MURDER AT SARNIA .- We learn that Government, we are then forced to the conclusion that there must be something radically wrong in the system of administration which gives into the hands of the most incompetent persons nower to expect the conclusion to the conclusion that there must be something radically wrong in the system of administration which the conclusion that there must be the conclusion that there must be something radically wrong in the system of administration which the conclusion that there is a very lucid manner, and said that although the woman McChilich was an abandoned character, she was a competent persons nower to expect the conclusion that there must be the conclusion without experiencing any obstraction. The route we have been describing is that which our troops will avail themselves of at present, but as it runs upon the borders, the British Government have, however, and that his family had some weeks, and that his family had some a murder war committed on Saturday last some weeks, and that his family had suffered much from the want of the necessaries of life. On the evening in question, he had gone home late in the evening, and seizing his wife by the hair of the head, he dragged her from the bed, kicked her in the stomach, and finally turned her out of doors. She went to a neighbor's, where she remained all night, and early next morning she died. A post morten ex-anination was held by order of the Coro-ner, when it was found that the unfortunate woman had died from the effects of the injuries she had received from her hueband and the jury returned a verdict accordingly. The prisoner was committed to stand his trial at next Assizes .- Spectator.

She was recued from her perilous position by Dr. Hallowell and Mr, Potts, and carried into the station. By the use of restors/tres she was soon in a condition to be convoyed home. She is quite recovered, and appears flet to have suffered much from the cold ducking. Persons should be very careful in venturing on the ice of the Hay at the present time,— Globe of Wednesday.

More Iron-Clad Frigates .- The MORE ROW-CLAD FRIGATES.—The Shipping Gazette says that four new iron-clad first-class steam-frigates are to be built with all possible despatch.—They are to be to be steam-rams as well as steam-frigates. The projecting stem under water is to be twenty feet in advance of the standard programment. the stem above water-line. Their arma-ment will consist of thirty-six Armstrong 100 pounders on gondeck and twenty-one on spardeck; two pivot guns at bow and stern to throw 200 pound shot. As com-pared with the Warrior, they will be eighty feet longer and only eighteen inches proader.

Busdar Schools.—On Now Year's day, presents to the amount of $22 were distributed by the incumbent, the Rev. J. H. McCollum, to the children of the Aurora and King Sunday Schools. Upwards of minety premiums, consisting of Bibles, Prayer-books, mural and religious works, were given to the young members of the two congregations, much to the delight of themselves, their teachers, and parents—many of the last being present and taking a deep interest in the welface of the schools. The happiness of the day was much increased by the pleasure felt at seeing the Rev. W. H. Stewart, the former incumbent, present, greatly improved in health, who, in affectionste and carnest terms, addressed the teachers and children in whose welfare ne still takes a deep interest.—Echo.

THE MELTIA.—We believe it is the intention of the Government to introduce a bill to amend the Mithia-Act, during the coming session of Parliament. Some amendment is very much required. In the tacantime, however, woold it not be well to issue a general order declaring that no person should hereafter receive promotion in militia rank without proving his competency to perform the duties he undertakes to perform. Many officers are taking great pains to perfect themselves in drill; but some entirely neglect it. If her Majesty's commission is not worth that trouble, it is not worth holding at all, and should be resigned. We trust that the officers commanding battahous will report those who work and those who do not. It is high time that our militia organization ceased to be a more force.—
It should at least be effectively officeradr—Montreal Tacette. THE MILITIA .- We believe it is the intention

Another wife murder has been committed near St. Catherines. The Journal says:— We are informed that a coloured says:— We are informed that a coloured man (whose name we could not ascertain) was arrested this morning at the Ten Mile Creek, on a charge of having murdered his wife. It appears that about a week since the man beat his wife so severely, that she died yesterday from the effects of the interior asserted. Conspire Huff we that she died yesterday from the effects of the injuries received. Coroner Hutt, we believe, has summoned a jury to investigate the matter."

Mr. Russell, the correspondent of the London Times, it is said, will return to England early in February. He complains of ill health and of bad treatment at the hands of some of the American people, who insist upon visiting upon him the independion they feel at the recent editorial articles in the "Thunderer" in reference to the United States,

The New York Heroid says that American capitalists have $160,000,000 invested in cotton and wested milk; and the profit on manufactures of these stricles, during the last aix months aloue, has been over $20,007,000, and that $2,500,000 have expended in wages for making up aimy clothing alone.

EXTRAORDINARY LEAP. - Mr. William rison, of Wharram-le-Street, on the Yorkshire Wolds, when hunting with Lord Middleton's fox-hounds at Settington on the 12th, jumped, on his famed chesnut gelding Garibaldi, the immense distance of 31 feet over high posts and rails.

ELOPEMENT OF AN HEIRESS WITH A VALET.—
The Morning Chronicle states that a young lady of high rank, and aged mineteen, had eloped with the yalet of a gentleman who was a visitor at her father's house. On attaining the age of wanty-one she succeeds to a fortune of £700.
