BY ALEXANDER M'LACHLAN.

'Tia Sabbath morn, and a holy balm Drops down on the heart like dow, And the sunbeams gleam Like a blessed dream Afar on the mountains blue, Old Hannah's by her cottage door, In hor faded widow's cap; She is sitting alone On the old gray stone, With the Bible in her lap.

An oak is hauging o'er her head, And the burn is wimpling by, The primroses peep From their sylvan keep. And the lark is in the sky, Boneath that shade, her children play'd. But they're all away with death, And she sits alone. On the old gray stone
To hear what the spirit saith.

Her years are o'er three score and ten, And her eyes are waxing dim; But the page is bright With a living light, And her heart leaps up to 111m Who pours the mystic harmony,

Which the soul can only hear; She is not alone On the old gray stone Though there's no one standing near

There's no one left to cheer her now,

But the eye that never sleeps
Looks on her in love From the heavens above, And with quiet joy she weeps. She toels the balm of bliss is pour'd In her worn heart's deepest rut; And the widow lone, On the old gray stone, Has a joy the world knows no

BUTTER.

From Akin & Kirkpatrick's Market Circular

Much has been said and writter about Butter-making, and though some good, it is to be hoped, has re-sulted from these efforts—still v very large proportion of the butter that comes to this market is of inferio quality, and consequently can only be sold at low prices, entailing need-less trouble, loss and vexation on all who handle it. The correction of the country Merchants themselves, and if they would remedy it they must exercise discrimination in buy ing, distinguishing between good and inferior by giving a higher price for a really good article, and either rejecting altogether, or only taking at a proportionately low price, the poor trash that offers under the name of butter; thus giving a pre mians for the manufacture of go In furtherance of this most desirable Pic-nic Parties & Tea Meetings onject, we would add a few words of advice, the result of many years experience, as to the making and putting up of Butter for the Montreal market. ireal market.

GUTTA-PERCHA ROOFING,

No article ever before introduced to the public has equalled the Liquin Gutta-Percha for coating tin or other roofs, new or old. One gallon, costing $1.50, duly acknowledged. will thoroughly coat from 200 to 300 feet of roof, and this coating will render the roof perfectly water-proof, and will last three times as long as white lead or other paint. For covering roofs, either new or old, we repeat, it has no equal for durabi-
