RICHMOND HILL, OCT. 12 1866

Fall Assizes.

On Monday last, the 8th inst., the Assizes for the United Counties of York and Peel were opened by Mr. Justice John Wilson. As there are about ninety prisoners now in Gaol awaiting their trial, as Fenians, we have no doubt that considerable interest will be taken in the proceedings during the sittings of the court; the Judge's charge to the Grand Jury is common-sense and moderate, and as there are particular points in it deserving of special notice, we copy them from the Globe of Tuesday, for the benefit of our readers. We have no doubt but that these misguided men, who are now awaiting their trial, will have justice done them, and if proved guilty of the charges, they must abide the consequences of their own acts. As Judge Wilson very properly says "the law presumes these men are innocent," and directs the Grand Jury to consider them so "until, by legal evidence, their guilt appears," we forbear making any comment until the evidence is given, and our legal tribunals have fixed their guilt or innocence beyond a doubt,—if guilty we say let the law take its course, for the lives and good property of our citizens must be protected, at all hazards; and no threats from the other side of the line forty-five, such as has been fulminated by the Rochester Union, should deter our authorities from making examples of men who may be proved guilty of invading our peaceful and happy homes.

The following are the extracts from the Judge's charge, to which we have referred:

"Professing, as the American people do, to be a people who respect themselves,—professing to be a nation which respects national rights—it seems a matter of amazement that this conspiracy, whose objects have been loudly proclaimed, has not been frowned upon by the American people, and denounced by their press as an atrocious especially upon us, which has no parallel in ancient or modern times, and as one dangerous to their own peace; for an organization formed to commit atrocities in one place, may by an easy transition, become one to commit outrages in another place, to which its directions may be turned.

"I mention these things to dispel erroneous opinions respecting the events which underlie and surround your enquiries on the present occasion, which for any other purpose would be out of place here, but they extenuate rather than aggravate the conduct of these men, whose impudent crime will form the subject of your investigation. The accused are said to be chiefly of that young, reckless, unthinking class, but in part of an older and more depraved one, which are seen in the principle cities of the United States, and probably most of them joined this nefarious enterprise with the approval of those to whom they naturally looked up, as a cause worthy of true manhood, the prosecution of which would yield, at least, excitement, and its consummation applause and renown.

"These considerations, and others which they suggest, will, I hope, tone down your minds to judicial calmness in the investigations now to come before you. Remember the law presumes these men are innocent, and your duty is to consider them so until, by legal evidence, their guilt appears.

"They are charged with having feloniously entered upon Canada on the first and second days of June last, with intent to levy war against Her Majesty, and with being found in arms against Her Majesty here. As you will presently see, they might have been tried by a Military Court Martial, but it is better they should be tried here, by the ordinary course of law, for excepting the late invasions, and the continued threats of their repetition, we are and have been in a state of profound peace. Moreover, war, its usages and tribunals are alien alike to our agricultural and commercial people, who would have been shocked when they reflected upon it, that men should have suffered death upon the sentence of a Court Martial.

"Now there is nothing in these trials to excite them in doubt or uncertainty. The simple question is whether these men or any of them entered or confined themselves in this Province contrary to the provisions of these statutes. In these cases, as in all others where the intent is a material question, it may be proved by declarations of intention, or inferred from acts, for the general principle is, that a man intended to do what he has done.

"The counsel for the Crown must prove to your satisfaction that war was levied, and men were in arms against Her Majesty, contrary to the statute, and that the parties accused were engaged in it, or associated with those who were.

"In case they are charged as American citizens, there must be evidence which satisfies you they are such citizens. If they are charged not as American citizens, the presumption is that they are Her Majesty's subjects until the contrary appears; and it will not probably be denied that they are subjects of Her Majesty.

"I shall abstain from alluding to what was done after war was levied, for except as affording evidence of intention, it is not the substantive offence charged upon these prisoners and your feelings ought not to be excited by unnecessary detail, lest you be unfitted for calm enquiry.

"In these cases, as in all others, the Crown undertakes to bring before you evidence to satisfy you of the guilt of every man accused. If it does not, ignore the bill. Do not hesitate a moment. Better far the guilty escape than the innocent suffer; better that no trial take place, which is not acquittal, or that the administration of criminal justice should be tarnished with the stain of a conviction which the law would not sustain.

"As the good people and true from among whom you came were above the weakness of fear, when in the midst of danger and conflict, and were ready sternly to defend their homes, and to repel aggression, so now let the feeling of resentment and indignation in your minds, in the enquiries upon which you are about to enter; and thus show that you can administer law in its pure and benign spirit.

"In this way alone can you acquit yourselves with credit and approbation, in the sight of good men, and satisfy your own consciences, in the sight of Him before whom all hearts are open.

"You will now retire, and I am confident that you will enquire earnestly and seriously into every case submitted to you.

Pass it Round!

We do not know that any of our subscribers are so unfortunate as to be in need of the following remedy, but should they have any dear friend whose appetite for strong drink is such as to cause them to fear that habits of drunkenness are likely to be contracted, we earnestly implore them to make one more effort to save their friend from going down to the grave of a drunkard.

We know that there are persons, who indulge freely, that would gladly quit the practice if they could,—but with them the desire for a stimulant has become a chronic disease, and although they are not willing to own it, they must feel within themselves that they are drunkards,—they think the world does not know it, perhaps they would scorn to enter a bar room and call for a glass, for fear—of what, gentle reader?—their neighbors might get to know that they drank! but it is useless to attempt to indulge in drinking spirituous liquors and suppose that your neighbors will not know it,—it tells upon itself, the drunkard's eye tells on him,—his face tells on him, his whole appearance and manner tell on him,—he cannot hide it even though he never been seen by his neighbors in a state of intoxication.

We trust that our readers will preserve the following receipt, and recommend its use to all such as they think are in need of it. We copy it from an exchange:—

CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS.

There is a famous prescription in use in England, says The Springfield Republican, for the cure of drunkenness, by which thousands are said to have been assisted in recovering themselves. The recipe came into notoriety through the efforts of John Vine Hall, father of the Rev Newman Hall, and Capt. Vine Hall, commander of the Great Eastern steamship. He had fallen into such habitual drunkenness that his most earnest efforts to reclaim himself proved unavailing. At length he sought the advice of an eminent physician, who gave him a prescription which he followed faithfully for seven months, and at the end of that time had lost all desire for liquors, although he had been for many years led captive by a most debasing appetite. The recipe, which he afterwards published, and which so many other drunkards have been assisted to reform, is as follows:—Scal-plate of iron, 5 grains; magnesia, 10 grains; pepper mint water, 11 drachms; spirit of nutmeg, 1 drachm; twice a day. This preparation acts as a tonic and a stimulant, and so partially supplies the place of the accustomed liquor, and prevents that absolute physical and moral prostration that follow a sudden breaking off from the use of stimulating drinks.

Of Doubtful Parentage—Very like Twins!

From the Ottawa Citizen of the 11th Sept. 1866. The most satisfactory evidence of the increasing wealth of the country is afforded by the fact, that our local institutions are enabled to reduce their rates of interest, and can now afford to advance money on as favorable terms as those which obtain in England. Terrible Disasters at Sea.

NEARLY THREE HUNDRED LIVES LOST.

A telegram from Savannah, Ga., dated the 8th, announces a terrible disaster at sea by which nearly three hundred lives were lost.

The steamer Evening Star, from New York bound for New Orleans, foundered one hundred and eighty miles east of Tybee, with two hundred and fifty passengers and fifty of the crew. Five of the crew and Frank Gerrard, a passenger, were saved.

LATER—The boat from the steamer Evening Star has arrived at Fernandina. It left the steamer with eighteen persons, including Captain Knapp, one lady and a child. The boat was capsized nine times. As the steamer Sylvan Shore left Fernandina, a boat was reported to be coming in with the pursuer and engineer of the Evening Star. Four boats left the steamer as she sank. The other two are supposed to have been swamped.

The schooner S. J. Waring, from New York for Apalachicola, put in distress, having thrown overboard part of the deck load. The Waring brought the chief engineer, purser, two passengers and six of the crew of the steamer Evening Star, picked up at sea.

A despatch from Fortress Monroe of the same date says:—The British steamer Queen Victoria foundered at sea on the 4th inst., during the recent storm in lat. 33° 3', long. 70° 30'. The passengers and crew were picked up yesterday by the brig Pomfret from New York. Thirty-five were transferred this morning to the steamer James Carry, from Wilmington to Baltimore, which arrived in Chesapeake Bay this afternoon. The engineer died from exposure and the mate was washed overboard. The storm commenced on the second and the steamer sprang a leak on the morning of the third.

THE LATEST DISPATCH.

New York Oct. 9.—Among the passengers on the Evening Star were the op. a troop of Paul Arhaisu which arrived here just before the sailing of the Evening Star on the steamer Ville de Paris from France. There were fifty-nine members of the troupe. Dr. Spaulding's circus company of thirty persons also took passage on the Evening Star.

A return has just been published, which shows that since 1854 the amount of taxes repaid and reduced in Great Britain and Ireland was over £30,000,000.

The Drill Shed Again.

A few weeks ago we announced to our readers that the Government had decided upon erecting a Drill Shed in the County of York, and, very naturally, concluded from the central position in which Richmond Hill is located, that this would be the point selected. For some reason or other—it may be partially owing to the absence of a little wholesome pressure being put forth by the inhabitants—Aurora was selected, to which we did not feel inclined to raise any very serious objection. We are now taken by surprise to find that Aurora is to be put on one side, as well as ourselves, and Newmarket is to be selected for the purpose.—an arrangement that will be exceedingly unpopular, and calculated to create general dissatisfaction. In by-gone days we recollect, it was the annual custom of the Newmarket folk to hoist the American flag every fourth of July, as a symbol of their Republican proclivities,—and when we chanced to pay a casual visit to that obscure spot, we felt that our loyalty to British institutions was in an unbecoming atmosphere; now that it plays to be loyal, we find their Republicanism suppressed, and favours showered upon them, to which their past history gives them no claim. We learn that Mr. Wells the member for North York, is the person to whom Newmarket is indebted for throwing Aurora overboard, but we cannot understand what the representatives for East and West York have been doing to let the influence of one M.P.P. seize the prize from their grasp,—for we feel morally certain that, if Mr. Wright and the Minister of Finance had brought their influence to bear, Richmond Hill would have been selected in preference to either of the other places,—as being the most central part of the county,—as well as the most healthy. We expect that something will yet be done to prevent the Drill Shed from being placed so far from the centre.

The King of Prussia had issued a letter expressing thanks for the numerous and well-merited assurances of fidelity, devotion and readiness for every sacrifice for King and country which have been addressed to His Majesty from all quarters on occasion of the victorious conclusion of the war. The letter declares that the unmistakable union between the sovereign and the people will in the new epoch contribute all differences and all oppositions, and turn them to advantage in love for the common fatherland and the accomplishment of the Prussian mission in Germany.

There is nothing further, as yet, to report in regard to the definite and final settlement of accounts and territorial boundaries between Austria and Italy. But the whole tendency of events is towards a pacific adjustment of affairs.

The gist of the Circular of the Emperor of the French addressed to European powers is given in two paragraphs, both exceedingly significant, and likely to provoke comment. His Imperial Majesty says:—

"An Europe more strongly constituted, and more homogeneous by better defined territorial divisions, is a guarantee for the peace of the continent, and is neither a peril nor an injury to our nation. France with Algeria, will soon number 40,000,000 inhabitants; Germany, 37,000,000, of whom 29,000,000 will be in the confederation of the north, and 8,000,000 in that of the South; Austria, 35,000,000; Italy, 26,000,000; Spain, 18,000,000. What is there to disturb us in this distribution of European forces?"

"An irresistible power—can we regret it?—impels the peoples to unite themselves in grand masses and is causing the disappearance of secondary states. This tendency springs from the desire to place general interests under the most efficacious of guarantees. Possibly it is inspired by a kind of providential foresight of the destinies of the world. While the old populations of the continent increase slowly in their restricted territories, Russia and the republic of the United States may each within the next hundred years number a hundred millions of men. Although the progress of these two great empires is not for us a subject of solicitude, while rather we applaud their generous efforts in favour of central Europe not to remain broken up into little states without either force or public spirit."

Accident at Dundas.

DUNDAS, Oct. 9. A dreadful accident occurred at the railroad bridge, near the Great Western railway station here, last night between 7 and 8 o'clock, to a horse and wagon containing two women and two children. The wagon was loaded with apples. The horse took fright and ran against the bridge upsetting the wagon and throwing them all out, killing one woman, and cutting the others fearfully. One woman, it is supposed, will not recover. The two children and the other woman were recovering slowly at last accounts.

The Liverpool Chamber of Commerce had voted an address of congratulation to Capt. Anderson, of the Great Eastern, and his conductors, and had resolved to give them a grand banquet. Sir Stafford Northcote, President of the Board of Trade, was invited to preside, and not being able to do so before the 1st of October, the banquet had been fixed to take place on that day.

The London Times says: Owing to the firm attitude of Prussia the peace negotiations between Austria and Italy have made important progress. The Italians agree to pay 75,000 francs on account of the Austrian debt for Venetia. Some settlement has also been made with respect to the rectification of the frontier of the Trent district, though perhaps not such as to remove all causes of future dissension. The Italians will have Rivar and all the northern shore of Lake Garda, but will lose Gorno or the mountain passes above Bergamo, Brescia and Vicenza.
