COMING HOME.

O brothers and sister, growing old, Do you all remember yet, That home, in the shade of the rustling trees Where once our household met?

Do you know how we used to come from school, Through the summer's pleasant heat,

With the yellow fennel's golden dust On our tired little feet? And how sometimes in an idle mood, We loitered by the way,

And stopped in the woods to gather flowers,

And in the fields to play? Till warned by the deepening shadow's fall, That told of the coming night, We climbed to the top of the last long hill, And saw our home in sight?

And, brothers and sisters, older now. Than she whose life is o'er, Do you think of the mother's loving face,

That looked from the open door. Alas, for the changing things of time! That home in the dust is low, And that loving smile was hid from us, In the darkness long ago.

And we come to life's last hill. From which our weary eyes Can almost look on that home that shines. Eternal in the skies.

Till the march of life is done. For that mother, who waited for us here, Wearing a smile so sweet, Now waits on the hills of Paradise,

For her children's coming feet.
