Poetry.

My Wife and I.

A sky of azure, a bit of heaven, An hour of bliss to mortals given. A church, a dainty dress by my side, A solemn service, a kiss-a bride, Then thronging friends, A last good bye; And so we are married-My wife and I.

Long hours of rapture, long days of joy, Time passing unheeded-without alloy, A tour, where everything looks its best, A river in Autumn glory drest; No thought of trouble, Nor care, nor sigh, For we are so happy-My wife and I.

A slow awaking, as from a dream, A drifting once more into life-work's stream, A little respite from toil, and then The world with its hopes and fears again But a home and a love That shall last for aye, For now we are settled-My wife and 1.

And as hours vanish in time's quick flight, And our life's fair morning grows to night, As carking cares with our pleasures stay, And our heads are streaked with silvery grey, Yet shall love increase As the days go by; And we live for each other—

My wife and I-

Odds and Ends

Triffice make perfection, but perfection itself is no trifle

Em is wiser to prevent a quarrel than to rorenge it afterwards.

How to spoil a child-Send him to fill a lighted kerosene lamp.

In maliciously pointing out the faults of another, you excite him to the discovery of

Don't touch the lute when drums are re sounding: a wise man remains silent while fools are speaking.

SEX OF EGGS .- The round plump eggs will hatch hens, and the slender ones cocks, invariably. So says an exchange.

LET a man be treated as a brute and he will become more brufish than a brute; but as a rational being and he will show that he

ONE of the sufferers by the late Vermont railway accident, rushing wildly about, was asked if he was hurt. "No," he said, "but I can't find my umbrella." SOMEBODY says there are two things about which we should never grumble; first those things which we can prevent; and secondly, those things which we cannot prevent. Woolwich Arsenal is in the full tide of

ing day and night. WHEN danger approaches, men are wont to acknowledge the presence of God more strougly than at other times. Many pray, who never prayed before; and even th prayers of good men are more fervent than

FIELD MARSHALL, BURGOYNE, in a letter to | J. Ross Robertson. the "Times" in defence of Marshal Bazaine, says:-" As one of those who served with the Marshal in the Crimea, I feel called upon to repel the attacks made upon a gallant fellow soldier, whose military reputa-tion has been assailed in so inconsiderate a mauner by political enemies,".

It is a remarkable circumstance that nine-tenths of the slanders uttered are aimed at individuals the least deserving of it, and who have given the least cause. If we were to length and breadth of Canada during the past have given the least cause. If we were to trace the venom to its original source, we should generally find that the human reptile since the establishment of The Glore in Tofrom whom it sprang was so utterly worthless, and so far beneath anger, as to occasion to sensible men more of astonishment than any other feeling.

DAUGHTERS .- There is nothing more de sirable in a daughter than an intelligence joined to a gentle spirit. The mind is fahioned and furnished in the main at school. But the character is derived chiefly from home. How inestimable is the confidence of that mother in producing kind feelings in the bosoms of her children, who never permits herself to speak to them in a loud voice, and in Earsh, unkind tones.

Poor Fellow!-A Chicago man was attacked one night, and injured by what he supposed was a vicious dog, and thinking the dog was mad, he applied the madstone to the part affected for two weeks, at an ex pense of $200, and was cured. What was his surprise to learn that instead of being bitten by a rabid dog, he had been butted in the rear by a Billy goat. How they do bother him about it! How can the farmer form an intelligent opinion of the products of his fields, the profits of his stock, the propriety of this or that mode of farming, without keeping accurate accounts of his business in all its parts? No mechanic, manufacturer or merchant ever thinks of doing business without scanning every branch of his trade. How can the farmer know that he makes any profit from Jis cows or other animals, if he does not know the product and the cost of keeping? Yet farmers do this.

MOTHER .- How sweet the reflection in after years of a mother's tender training. From the pens of popular authors, will appear It were well that to a mother this duty were during the year. No expense will be spared confided, if it were only for the delicious in securing the very latest intelligence by pleasure of musing on it after many years means of Special Telegraph despatches, Marof struggle with the cold realities of life. Who is there that finds no relief in recur ring to the scenes of his infancy and youth gilded with the recollection of a mother's tenderness? And how many have nobly owned that to the salutary influence the exerted they must ascribe their future success, their avoidance of evil when no eye tinue to be only was upon them, but when rested on the heart, the warnings, the prayers and tears of a mother.

EFFECTS OF CLEANLINESS .- Count Rum ford, the celebrated practical philosopher, whose writings have been of greater value to mankind, than the abstruse speculations of a host of metaphysicians, thus describes the advantage of cleanliness: With what care and attention do the feathered race wash themselves, and put their plumage in order; and how perfectly neat, clean, and got up clubs, a list of which will be sent to any elegant do they appear. Among the beasts of the field we find that those which are the most cleanly are generally the most gay and cheerful, or are distinguished by a certain air of tranquility and contentment, and singing birds, are always remarkable for the neatnes of their plumage. So great is the effect of cleanliness upon man, that it extends even to his moral character. Virtue never dwelt long with filth; nor do I believe rately, and may be for any Post Office. there ever was a person scrupulously attentive to cleanliness, who was a consumute

STOCK'S EXTRA MACHINE OIL.

This oil excells all others for Lubricating purposes, both animal and vegetable.
We are prepared to have the merits of this oil tested against all oils now being used on machinery-both light or heavy; from a clock or sewing machine, to the heaviest of Steamboat shafis.

The following are the points in which it ex-Foll cells all other oils: It will not gum, hence machinery can be kept clean with but little trouble, and it will clean machinery that has been gummed by other oils. It will not congear or thicken in the coldest of weather—this is a quality of the highest importance, from the fact that an oil Gon not having tois quality will not labricate a cold shaft, such an oil may be applied in a heated Geo state; but the moment it touches a cold shaft it is congented, and it will not begin to lubricate Goo until the journal, by friction, acquires that temperature necessary to reduce it to a liquid state. In acquiring a higher temperature by friction, the journal expands, and the box is in-Hon jured. It is as impossible to use oil that will chill on a cold shaft without this result, as it is lius to mingle oil with water. Stockes' oil will lated lubricate the coldest machinery the moment it Intel applied . it is now used in establishments, and all unite in saying the rrefer it to Refined Sperm, or pure olive oil; it is tree from all objections urged against all other oil as it neither gams or freezes. Now, as the public are aware that many worthless things are pased into notoriety, in order to prove that this is no humbug, and at the same time to secure ourselves against the operations of unscrupulous oil agents, ; many | Leis of whom will not hesitate to palm off the mere offal of oil refineries, as being identical with Stocks extra machine oil; we prepose to those who are largely interested in the truth of those statements, to send to them on application by express, or otherwise free of charge, a sample of the oil that it may speak for itself, we will with the sample furnish applicants free of charge, with a few simple tests as effective, as those tests by which Gold is known from the base metals, and which will enable parties ordering to secure themselves against imposition, by enabling them to determine at I once, whether the oil forwarded is as good as sample. All parties interested in the lubicating oil trade, before purchasing elsewhere will do well to communicate with
