If We Would.

If we would but check the speaker, When he spoils a neighbor's fame.

If we would but help the erring,

Ere we utter words of blame; If we would, how many might we Turn from paths of sin and shame.

Ah! the wrongs that might be righted If we would but see the way!
Ah! the pains that might be lightened Every hour and every day;
If we would but hear the pleadings

Of the hearts that go astray. Let us step outside the stronghold Of our selfishness and pride; Let us lift our fainting brothers, Let us strengthen ere we chide Let us, ere we blame the fallen, Hold a light to cheer and guide.

Ah, how blessed !-ab, how blessed ! Earth would be, if we but try Thus to aid and right the weaker,
Thus to check each brother's sigh; Thusto talk of duty's pathway
To our better life on high.

In each life, however lowly, There are seeds of mighty good Still, we shrink from souls appealing
With a timid "If we could;" But God who judgeth all things, Knows the truth is-"If we would.

"Southwest of Lake Neepigon, between it and Thunder bay of Lake Superior, the country is represented as capable of cultivation, and the climate the counterpart of Quebec. Thence westerly to Lake Winnepeg and the Red river country, the country becomes more level. The drier part will produce wheat, and the clay land rye, barley and oats. Grass and vegetables are of the best kind, as has been shown by the gardens and pictures of the Hudson Bay Company for the past 100 years."

Night came on, rendering it so dark that it was ten o'clock before I found water for myself and beast. After much difficulty, and with the flame from my last match, a fire was kindled to keep off the grizzlies and lions, but unfortunately from the scarcity of trees and the quantity of dead wood lying around, I set fire to the whole ravine; this drove me out, so making a shelter of my saddle and mochilla, and wrapping myself in my saddle blanket, I crept underneath them covering my head and feet saying "now grizzly you must take saddle and all or none."
