denied, some people say lawyers are very necessary in committee meetings &c. It has often been stated, and once at least to our recollection, by one of the chancery firm that more lawyers were required than we even have now, as it required men of this class to get through bills! But if it is really necessary for country foiks to be represented by men of the legal stamp, in the House, let them take local men. But our opinion is that Saturday, the 26th inst. this class is getting too plentiful, like crows smelling carrien from afar, so these gentry of the long robe have a longing for office, a desire for plunder. Do on laws improve? is there not such a thing as having too much law? Once more we call upon the farmers in future to look more among themselves for representatives, and, if unfortunately the have to go out of their own ridings, at all events get men of some public reput: tion and not such small fry as are the sub jects of this article, and whose only re commendation are that they have th privilege of buzzing in and out of the Globe office, like flics in an out of an empty sugar hogshead on a hot summer day.
