RICHMOND HILL, JANUARY 17, 1873.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

On Wednesday, the 8th inst., the second session of the second Parliament of Ontario was duly opened. The holidays being passed, the county courts and the Municipal elections being over, Minister Mowatt, ex-Vice-Chancellor, has deemed it expedient and necessary that the people's representatives should be called together to legislate, for—we trust—the good of the dear people for whom the grills prefer to have so much affection, esteem and regard. May some be found, who have seats in our legislature, to call in question the illegal holding of office by Scott, McKellar, and Crooks. The Law seems quite clear that these gentlemen, after taking office in the reconstructed Reform Government, should have gone to the polls. The question is not whether it was expedient, or whether it is right or wrong, but the question should be how stands the Law, and by that alone be governed. For the sake of argument, let us for one moment suppose the same thing was done by what the Globe would be pleased to term a Tory Government. What think you dear reader? Do you not imagine, even now, that you are reading some of the awful sentences of wrath and denunciation that that paper is so capable of delivering when it imagines it has just cause for it. If then, it would be wrong in a "Tory" Government to act under similar circumstances the same as Messrs. Crooks, Scott and McKellar, how much stranger becomes the doing so when it is done by men professing to be such purists, such dear lovers of the people, such sticklers for truth and honesty, and every thing lovely and of good report. Let this important constitutional question be settled; it is worthy of some attention on the part of the public. We are perfectly satisfied on our part that Mr. Mowatt had power to have formed his cabinet of new men altogether; it therefore stands to reason that the three of the Blake Government must have resigned with the other two. Here is the Act, bearing upon the subject:
"The 32nd chap. Vict., cap. 4, says "a Minister does not vacate his seat on resigning, if he accepts office again within a month, unless the Administration of which such person was a member shall have resigned, and a new administration shall have accepted the said office;" and "further, "Whenever any person holding the office of Attorney General, Secretary and Registrar of the Province, Treasurer of the Province, Commissioner of Crown Lands and Commissioner of Agriculture and Public Works, and being at the same time a member of the Legislative Assembly, resigns his office, and within one month after accepts any other of the said offices, he shall not thereby vacate his seat in the Legislative Assembly unless the administration of which such person was a member shall have resigned, and a new administration shall have occupied the said office."

NOW AND THEN.

We have time and again, through the columns of our paper, called attention to the fact of the absurdity of having so many lawyers in the halls of our Legislature; in a province that boasts of its agriculture, it does seem, to say the least of it, out of place. In a government that professes to be Reform, in rulers that talk so lovingly of the people and the peoples rights, one would have expected to find some regard for their professions, but what is the fact? Not only does the ministry consist of four lawyers out of five forming the Government, but they must needs have two of the legal stamp to move and second the address to the Governor's speech. Our readers who have old files of the Globe by them may see by turning up that paper for 1863 with what gratification it condemned the idea of the people of East York having John Duggan, Esq., as a representative, merely and solely because he was a lawyer. Yet it must be fresh in the minds of all, how day after day the support of the same paper was given to Mr. Blain; notwithstanding, he likewise is one of the same stamp. It shows to every unbiased mind that papers of the stamp of the Toronto Globe have only one object in view, that is to have men in power whom it can sway to its own behests; they care not for consistency, they care not for truth, they only care to carry their own way. Every thing is all right so long as the people will follow what they choose to command, but the moment men begin to think and act for themselves, and act independently of the tyrannical sheet that issues daily from the "Globe Office," that moment they become troves, unfit for power, unfit for trust, it matters not whether their private characters are above reproach or not. They have come under the ban of the great George Brown—that is sufficient.

EMIGRATION.
MR. THOMAS GRAHAME, LATE M.P.P. FOR WEST YORK, AS EMIGRATION AGENT.
It is with pleasure that we learn from the Penritth Observer, that Mr. Thomas Grahame, is busy at work in his capacity as emigration agent for the Dominion. He is now in Great Britain, lecturing and otherwise diffusing information on the subject of emigration. The report given of his lecture on Canada, in Penritth, shows that he alluded in glowing terms, to the many advantages this country possessed over others for the British emigrant, and clearly proves that the Dominion has, in the person of Mr. Grahame, an efficient agent to advance the interest of emigration to its borders. It is needless for us to set forth the many inducements offered to emigrate to settle in this country, in the way of good wages, cheap living, reduced passages offered by the Government, low rate of taxation, healthy climate, free grants of land, and above all the advisability of remaining under "the brave old flag." Mr. Grahame is doing a good work, and we trust to see, as the result of his efforts, a large influx of agricultural and common laborers, artisans, women servants, and as well men of capital. We give below a short lecture, recently delivered by him, in the George Assembly Room, Penritth.

"Mr. Graham, agent of the Dominion, gave a lecture on the above subject in the George Assembly Room, on Thursday evening last. The Rev. C. H. Gem (curate) presided. In introducing the lecturer he spoke in the strongest terms of the advisability of people who did not intend to remain under the old flag, and emigrate to one of the Colonies, instead of going to Brazil, the United States, or other foreign countries. He spoke in very high terms of the progress of Canada and of the healthy nature of the climate.—Mr. Graham, on being introduced, stated that he was agent of the whole Dominion, not of any particular Province, and that he would be careful not to make any statement but what could be perfectly relied upon, as the country he represented wished that nothing but the truth should be told about its advantages. He stated that he was not desirous of inducing people who had steady work here to leave their employers, but it was a well understood fact in Canada that there was a large surplus population in British emigration from year to year to other countries, and it was to show the advantages of Canada to that class of people that he had come there that evening. After describing the manner in which the confederation of the British Provinces had been brought about, he brought before the meeting statistical information referring to the several Provinces showing the peculiar interest of each, and the progress which had been made of late years. He referred particularly to the large public works at present going on in the several Provinces, giving a description of the manner in which the Canadian Pacific Railway is to be constructed. The free grant districts in the several Provinces were referred to as affording peculiar advantages to settlers at the present time, from the large amount of capital which is being brought to bear in the construction of railway lines through these districts. From the description given of the new Province of Manitoba the attractions to the settlers are very great there, especially at the present time, when so many large amounts of land has, as yet, been taken up. The classes of emigrants whom he advised to go to Canada are the agricultural and common laborers, artisans, women servants, and men of capital. The wages paid are very high, and when taken into consideration in conjunction with the cheap rate of living, form a strong inducement to emigrants to make their homes in Canada. He alluded to the advantages married men with families had in settling in new districts, from the fact of children being a source of strength rather than weakness, as is generally considered here. The greatest facilities are given to emigrants on their arrival at Quebec for transportation into the interior, and very considerable assistance is granted in the way of reduced passages, the Dominion Government giving $25 towards the passage money of each emigrant. The system of government and the educational institutions were fully explained, as well as the fact of civil and religious liberty existing to the fullest extent in the country. The misstatements in pamphlets of American railway companies were exposed regarding the climate and the nature of the soil and timber, and a strong claim was put forth by the lecturer on behalf of Canada, from the fact of the British emigrant being entitled to all his rights of citizenship there; whereas if he went to the United States he would be deprived of many of these, and would be going to a land where, unless he took the oath of allegiance (directed particularly against Great Britain), in case of his death intestate, the property would revert to the State. He also showed that the taxation was exceedingly heavy in the United States, on account of the late civil war there, which was another reason for emigrants preferring Canada. At the close of the lecture he was loudly applauded by the audience, the usual votes of thanks being given to him and the chairman."

THE WAY IT IS DONE.—At the nomination for school trustees, held in the Town Hall, Yorkville, on Wednesday, the 8th January, Mr. Scott expressed his surprise at the idea of any one being proposed except those he and the ring had pitched upon, as being the proper persons to serve the ratepayers; and he had come with his disclaimer in his pocket, but, seeing some one else was proposed, he was determined to run. Such is the way things are managed here, a half-dozen have all the talents, and only those they name have any chance. It would save a great deal of trouble and expense if an Act of Parliament was granted giving them the power of naming the Council and School Board, without going through the form of an election. The poll was opened at 10 A.M., and closed before 3 o'clock, P.M. Our School Board now consists of six grills.—COMMUNICATED.

THE INTERNATIONAL S. S. LESSON.

(Communicated)
In accordance with our promise last week, we again refer to the International Sabbath School Lesson, which originated, we believe, with B. F. Jacobs, of Chicago, or rather to use his own words, "was of God, inaugurated and carried forward by the Holy Spirit." We do not intend to intimate that this was the first attempt at a uniform lesson, but that this is the origin of the present popular movement which is fast spreading throughout the world.

On the 18th April, 1872, a day which will be considered one of the most remarkable in Sabbath School history, the International Convention, held in the city of Indianapolis, adopted the idea of uniformity of Sabbath Lessons throughout the world. To carry out the object proposed the convention resolved that the following committee should be appointed, consisting of five clergymen and five laymen, chosen from among the most able and most experienced Sabbath School workers in the world: Rev. J. H. Vincent, D.D., New York, Episcopal Methodist; Rev. John Hall, D.D., New York, Presbyterian; Rev. Warren Randolph, D.D., Pennsylvania, Baptist; Rev. Richard Newton, D.D., Pennsylvania, Episcopal; Rev. A. L. Chapin, D.D., Wisconsin, Congregationalist. Layman: Professor P. G. Gillet, L.L.D., Illinois, Episcopal Methodist; Mr. George H. Stewart, Pennsylvania, Presbyterian; Mr. B. F. Jacobs, Illinois, Baptist; Mr. A. G. Tyng, Illinois, Episcopal; Mr. H. P. Haven, Connecticut, Congregationalist. Subsequently it was resolved to add two gentlemen of our New Dominion to the Lesson Committee, and the Rev. J. M. Gibson, M.A. of Montreal, Canada Presbyterian, and Mr. A. McCallum, of Hamilton, were sent by the executive of the Sabbath School Association of Canada. From these preliminary movements the fact is easily discernible that special care has been taken to make it entirely un denominational, and at the same time secure for the benefit of the whole the best talent of all the most influential denominations of Christianity. The Committee on Lessons held two meetings in the city of New York, one in May, the other in June; both of the representatives from Canada were present, and after overcoming a great many difficulties—owing to what may be called "vested interests," many Sabbath School associations having laid out plans, some of them reaching over series of years—decided on a course of lessons for two years, three months of which we gave in our last week's issue. When Dr. Vincent, one of the gentlemen on the committee, went to England to secure their co-operation in the movement he met with a very cordial reception, and the highest approval of the scheme of lessons adopted. The London Sabbath School Union had already chosen its lessons for 1873; but promised to enter on the International course in 1874. They adopted, however, what was formerly called the "Golden" or central text, or what is now called the International text. In Scotland one of the largest Sabbath School Associations with minor ones fell in at once with the movement, although their lessons for the present year had been selected and were in the hands of the printer. At the ninth convention of the Sabbath School Association of Canada, held in Montreal last October, delegates from all parts of the Dominion entered with great enthusiasm into the movement, and many testimonies were given not only to show its feasibility but its superior advantages to all other systems of Sabbath School instruction. The result of the abundant evidence in favor of the uniform series was the following resolution, passed by the Convention:

"That the Convention, having heard the Report of the work of the Uniform Lesson Committee, as given by the Rev. J. Munro Gibson, M.A., one of the Representatives of Canada in that Committee, expresses its cordial approval of the enterprise, and of the work so far as it has been done—rejoices in the large co-operation already secured, not only on this Continent, but also in England,—recommends the general adoption of the Lessons for 1873 by the Sunday Schools in Canada,—agrees to incorporate these Lessons in the Minutes, as also the International Texts selected by the London Committee, and suggests that the Members of the Convention use their influence to have the whole matter brought as fully and favorably as possible under the notice of the public, and of the different denominations of Evangelical Christians in the country; and, further, that the General Secretary be instructed to forward a copy of this Resolution to the various Editors of the religious press of the Dominion, asking their co-operation."

There is something very pleasing in the thought of the lesson of a single school becoming the lesson of a nation, from national that lesson becoming international, and then reaching on to intercontinental until it forms a circle which will ultimately reach around the globe, encompassing within its circle the six millions of children of the United States, the three millions of England, the many millions of continental Europe, and the half million of our own Dominion. Next week we will endeavor to show a few of the advantages arising from the adoption of the International series, with the hope that surrounding Sabbath Schools will become "links" and help to lengthen the chain of uniformity.

ON DIR.—Rumors come to us that the newly appointed Reeve of our town will not be allowed to take his seat on Monday next. It appears that Mr. Law has not had his citizen papers registered until the Monday after his election, although a resident of this country for about fifty years. It is a case of diamond cut diamond—and of course he will have to bear the consequences.

It will be seen by an advertisement in another column that Mr. Adam H. Meyers, jr., late of the firm of Messrs. Duggan & Meyers barristers Toronto, has commenced the practice of his profession on his own account. Many of his clients in this section will be anxious to know his whereabouts. They will find him at No. 12, York Chambers, South east Corner of Toronto and Court Streets, always prepared to give his best attention to their business.

MISSIONARY MEETINGS.—The annual missionary services were held in this town as follows: sermons were preached in the Wesleyan Church on Sabbath last, in the morning by the Rev. Lucian Taylor, D. D., and in the evening by the Rev. Mr. Hardy, to large and attentive congregations. A juvenile missionary meeting was held in the church on Monday afternoon, which was chiefly composed of children of the Sabbath School, who were addressed by the aforementioned gentlemen and the Rev. John Hunt, superintendent of the Yonge St. North Circuit. On Monday evening the missionary meeting proper was held in the church, Mr. John Duncan being appointed to the chair. The church was crowded, and the Revs Dr. Taylor, Mr. Hardy, and Mr. Cardus delivered very able addresses, advocating the cause of missionary enterprise. Just before the close of the meeting a collection was taken up, and subscription lists passed round, which, we believe, proved very satisfactory, there being somewhere about $208 subscribed altogether. The missionary meeting, in connection with the Presbyterian Church of this town was held on Tuesday evening last. There was quite a large number present, and Robert Marsh, Esq., presided over the meeting. After the Rev. Mr. Dick had read the Annual Report, the audience were addressed by the Revs. Messrs. Haigh and Breckenridge, in most eloquent and emphatic terms. The singing on this occasion was very good. A liberal collection was taken up at the close, after which the Rev. Mr. Breckenridge pronounced the benediction.

FROZEN TO DEATH.—Early on Thursday morning of last week, as two men were on their way to work, up the 2nd concession of Markham, they espied the body of a woman lying in the snow by the side of the road, nearly opposite the sidewalk running straight for the Elgin Mills. After waking up the neighbors, it was recognized to be the wife of Mr. Archibald Ramsay. She was carried to her own house, near at hand, but all indications of life were apparently hopeless. Her husband stated that during the early part of the day, she expressed a wish to go to the Elgin Mills to procure intoxicating liquors, but he would not permit her to do so; in the afternoon, however, he had occasion to go away, and whilst he was gone she had left the house, and pursued her way to the village of Victoria Square, a distance of about 2 1/2 miles east of her residence, and it appears that while there, she had taken a little too much intoxicating liquor and made the best of her way home until reaching the place (but a few rods from her home) where she was found frozen to death. An inquest was held at the Elgin Mills hotel, by Coroner Reid, and the jury returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts.
