RECIPROCITY.

A famous disciple of Soyer and Vattel who published a Cookery Book, had one chines together, it put me in mind of when I was up in Greece, to see Jews running noted recipe for "cooking a hare," which commenced with the very necessary preliminary hint-" first catch your hare!" The Grits might study this document to their own advantage, and to the delight of the community, and apply it with singular felicity to present circumstances by first getting their Reciprocity bantling through the Congress of the United States before gazing admiringly upupon its tremendous results, or crowing over the unalloyed blessings which it is about to confer upon the country. We do not wish to quarrel with them upon the thing itself, because it is well enough; at became an actual fact. It may pass through the Congress safely, unshorn of its present fair proportions! It may the guidance of Mr Savage, sr., who is from the "Land o' Cales." Between the guidance of Mr Savage, sr., who is from the "Land o' Cales." Between period, all we know is that it has not see all the wheels running and everyone even been submitted to the present one, busy. A deaf man is just as good in this and that the battle has not even commenced and will not begin until the Congress of 1875 sits, if it does then. There Grit Press are indulging in regard to an event which is so remote and which has with finishers and easting cleaning, and a to run the gauntlet of so many probabito run the gauntlet of so many probabilities. There is no doubt that a Reciprocity Treaty between the two countries would be highly advantageous to both, as their trade relations are most intimaamuch to see a fair and equitable adjustalso time-keeper in this large establishment Gibson, President of the Markham Farmers' ment of these trade relations, but we and his watch was never yet known to lose know what the Yankees are from time fammemorial and how hard it is to nail large and extensive building. We do not look upon , the negotiations as very promising, and we regard the delay with a suspicion which is thoroughly justified by past experience.

A RAT AND HIS PRICE.

The severe virtues of Gritism are ocrejuices in the suggestive cognomen of a County Judge. This man after displaying remarkable incapacity for keeping a small store, took to politics, He tal of 422. A large family indeed 1 worked hard against the Grits. He denounced them in the most violent language and made himself particularly obnoxious to them, but all at once a change remarkable and sudden took place in this man's behavioor. One would have thought that a political millenium was surely about to ensue when the immortal Peck actually began to imbibe the politics of the "Great Impracticable." But such was actually the case, the political rat smelt out the coming change, and his new friends promised him the present prize as the price of his renegadeism. Self-interest, of course, is the creed and paternoster of the political rat. That is the only stock and store of this man. his only recommendation to the high post which he holds is that be is willing to do any dirty work that is required of him by his masters, and no questions

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

To the Editor of the York Herald. DEAR SIR,-If our Village Council do nct give vent to their accumulation of progressive ideas I am atraid they may be attacked with a softness of the brain and be rendered unfit for further service. I am informed they talk of purchasing a "Park" building a "Town Hall" and such stuff. I would suggest that they should commence work and collect the amount the Village is entitled to from the Municipal Loan Fund and open up streets between Richmond and Mill Streets, and between Richmond and Boyle's Road. The inhabitants of the western part of the Village are having communication with their neighbors If streets were opened it would enhance the value of property and bring an additional revenue to the Corporation.

There are several Roman Catholic ladies on Richmond Street who cannot go to their Church without passing through the fields, wetting and destroying their clothes, mak-ing them uncomfortable during service, and perhaps seriously interfering with their me ditations. On the second concession there are quite a number of Methodists who attend Church here, and can not have the ad vantage of the plank walk on Richmond St. members of the Association, and Conservat without coming through the fields and losnestly requested as the By Laws of the As Council will stand who refuse to give such necessary improvements. Dr. Langstaff has made a very fair liberal offer of a road through his property for $75, which should be taken up by the Corporation at once. Do Modge No. 23, G.R.C., held in the Masonic they think the amount too much, or are they Hall, St. John the Baptist's Day, June 24th, afraid of giving the ratepayers a financial the following officers were installed for the surprise by expending so much money in improvements?
