I suppose there is not in the whole course of a Physician's experience anything in human suffering which calls forth his sympathy and pity to such an extent as to witness the excrusia ing pains of a poor mortal, suffering from that fearful disease, Rheumatism Heretofore there has been a considerable diversity of opinion among medical men, as to the true character of this disease; some locating it in the fibrous or muscular tissues of the system and others viewing it as an acute, nervous disease, but it is now generally admitted to be a ease, but it is now generally admitted to be a disease arising frem a poison circulating in the blood. The circulation of the blood is the life of the body, and its stoppage is death. No disease can be in the body without first being generated in the blood, and no disease can possibly be in the body if the blood is pure Rheuratism can never be thoroughly cured without exterminating the poison circulating. without exterminating the poison circulating in the blood by a constitutional internal remedy. We feel confident that none will feel better satisfied and rejoice more than the conscientious physician who has discovered that sure cure for this stubborn disease has been found.
