of dislike on the part of many of them to assisting in the present a ritation. In most of these places this objection has been removed because it is ascertained that the law, assisted by recent legislation, is more effective than formerly, and for the make of nore widely diffusing information on this important subject, and at the request of the General C mmittee, I take the laberty of asking you to insert a few of the reasons of our present action, and of the improvements effected by recent legislation: --1. The present License Act makes it the duty of all Municipal Councils to appoint special officers to enforce the laws in operaduty is equally incumbent on county as well as miner municipalities, and thus provides as at once with a staff of 25 special officers in these counties and towns, which could soon be increased to 50, it necessary. cannot be legally compelled to grant certificates for licenses for sale of spirituous or fermented liquors within the municipality (atter a prohibitory by-law has been passed.) " If the Council were to issue such certi-
