GOOD OLD REFORMERS!

Things are coming to a pretty pass down in Quebec. The Reform(?) party have come to the conclusion that their chances for getting a majority at the coming election are very small indeed; and they are, therefore, like their brethren in Ontario, leaving no stone unturned to get in their men. No action, however base, dishonourable or dishonest, appears too low or mean for them to undertake. Those Reformers (?) are very strange people. As long as they are in Opposition they protest against bribes of any kind; and all nefarious transactions, but give them a chance to get into power and this cloak of morality is thrown to the winds, leaving exposed to the gaze of the world all this hypocrisy and corruption which they had kept for years so skillfully covered up. Our readers are well aware how true this has proved in Ontario, both in the Dominion and Local House; and now we see by the Montreal Star, a thoroughly independent paper, that the Reformers (?) of Quebec are fast acquiring the lesson which their Ontario brethren have conned so well. Mr. Paré, an agent of the Joly Ministry, was accused at a public meeting in Arthabaskville of offering to sell the vacant registrarship of Three Rivers to Mr. Duval, in consideration of the sum of $1,500; which sum was to be used in securing the election of the Hon. Mr. Langelier, Minister of Crown Lands, for Portneuf. The Star says that if an ordinary person made the statement it would not pay any attention to it, but it was made by Dorais, a gentleman whose high reputation and respectability is vouched for by the Star. This gentleman stated in the presence of Mr. Paré that he would prove it by documentary evidence. This is only one instance, there are many more of similar nature; and still these men are Reformers, trying to put down bribery and corruption. Out upon such hypocrisy! There really seems to be no way of keeping these Reformers straight but by sending them to the Opposition benches, from which they will never get back. They have had their day.

WALLACE AND BLAIN.

The population of the world is made of some strangely constructed beings. In the West Riding of York; yea, even in Richmond Hill, we have persons so constituted, that they will actually argue that because Mr. Blain has a readier tongue than Mr. Wallace, therefore he is to be preferred to Mr. W. as our representative. When the Grits have to resort to such cries, their cause must be bad, indeed. Even setting aside the wisdom contained in the old philosopher's remark, "Speech is silver; silence is golden," surely men of ordinary intelligence will not give it as their honest opinion that a "bore," such as Mr. Blain has proved himself to be, is preferable to a gentleman holding such a reputation as does Mr. Wallace. He has already been elected to as equally—if not more honorable a position, than M. P. for West York. Holding as he does the position of Warden of the County of York, he represents the people of the whole County, (and is the first Deputy Reeve who had that honor), whereas the Member only represent one of the three Ridings into which the County is divided. Now, is it natural to suppose that the men who compose the County Council are not capable of judging the ability a man possesses; that they do not know whether Mr. Wallace is capable of creditably filling the position to which they appointed him? We think our readers will concur in our opinion that unless Mr. Wallace was in every way worthy of the honor, it would not have been conferred upon him. We do not want men in Parliament, who are merely able to get up and talk for an hour or so, without achieving anything besides retarding the business of the House. This is what Mr. Blain excels in. Time after time he has been openly snubbed by the leading men of both sides, but still he persists in forcing upon the members his weary platitudes. On many occasions his own friends have felt their cheeks burn with shame, on account of the nonsensical orations (?) which he continues to inflict upon them; while he furnishes the Opposition with ample amusement. In fact, it has simply come to this,—immediately Blain arises, the signal is given for a general stampede, and he is left to talk to many empty benches and but very few members; those who do remain, only do so for the purpose of either witnessing the fun, or keeping him in hand, so that he will not get altogether beyond bounds. The kind of man we want to represent us, are clear-headed, shrewd, men, who are paid attention to when they arise to address the House, and who can put their ideas into very few words. Such a man is Mr. Wallace. We do not wish to send men to Ottawa who have become the laughing-stock of the House. The following extract from the Mail will show how he has been conducting himself lately, and that even Metcalfe is preferable because; if he does not say much, he at least, does not reflect ridicule upon his Riding:—

Mr. Blain ought to be called the malapropos member of the House. It is not often that he does the right thing even by chance, but if he did happen to do it the right thing he would be certain to do it at the wrong time, and in the wrong way. He wasted a full hour this evening by his persistence in pressing, when the House was in Committee of the Whole, a point of order as to whether Mr. Irving's stamp bill was properly before the House. He contended that it imposed a new tax, and should have originated by resolution in Committee of the Whole. Put down time and again, time and again he jumped up to press his point. It was only after Sir John Macdonald had very clearly and conclusively shown that the duty of the Committee was simply to consider the clauses of the bill that the Chairman, Mr. Wood, ruled against Mr. Blain's point of order. The proper time to take the objection was when the Speaker was in the chair. Driven to the right course at last, the Member for West York had the grim satisfaction of finding the Speaker against him. This is but one of many exhibitions of a similar nature which Mr. Blain has made this session, both in the Committee and the House.

IMMIGRANTS WANTED!

A few weeks ago a large number of workmen interviewed both Premiers, and asked for assistance to go up to the North-west, and establish homes for themselves. These men represented mechanics of all classes, laborers, etc., who having been out of work for a long time, were unable to transport either themselves or families to the North west, unless they were assisted. They did not ask for a gift, but only that a sum be advanced, sufficient to pay their travelling expenses and purchase agricultural implements; and they were willing that the Government should hold a mortgage on the land until the amount advanced had been paid. In reality they asked for very little more than the Government gives every day to foreigners. But how did our truly parental Government answer them. The Premiers replied that they did not think it would be advisable or judicious to establish the precedent of moving men around from one part of the country to the other; and, furthermore, that it would cost a large amount of money to do so. Very good (?) reasons, we must say; it is a great deal better to let those men and their families beg or starve—and they must do either, for they cannot get work—than to assist them a little. But, how in the name of common sense, does the Government reconcile their answer in this matter to the policy they are pursuing regarding emigration. Over a quarter of a million of dollars was expended last year to bring into Canada all kinds of mechanics and laborers, many of whom threw up very good situations in the old country, hoping to do better here—as they surely would have done—if the Emigration Agents were telling the truth. But here they are, unable to get employment, and only augmenting the distress. How much better it would be, if instead of continuing to fill the country with such persons, the Government would aid those already here to settle and clear up the North-west. But, no that cannot be done; what would all those Grit Emigration Agents do then, if their salaries were withdrawn? They must get this pay in some manner, no matter how the country fares.

Editorial Items.

The impression is growing stronger that the Government will not bring on the elections until after harvest. Knowing that they have a desperate case to go to the country on, they intend to take advantage of what promises to be an abundant harvest, in hopes that their many short-comings will be forgotten or overlooked in the general rejoicing about the "good times."

The Dominion Government allows their officials to go down to Quebec and electioneer for the Reformers. When questioned about it in Parliament, Huntington said there was no work for them to do. Nice spectacle for a Reform Government. Blake condemned the action of the officials, and Jones said the Conservatives did the same thing. It was proved, however, that Jones was mistaken.

What have the Grits to say about the matter now,—when Sir John has entered a criminal action for libel against the Globe, and the Belleville Out-rio? The Hamilton Times and the London Advertiser may think themselves very fortunate if they get off with the loss of only a few thousands. The Advertiser has had to retract its statements about Mr. Plumb, and after the way it has acted in that affair we should not be surprised to see it take a back double-summer-sault about Sir John, and declare that not only was he not drunk, but that he was the only sober man within the House. Hard as it would be to do this, the Times would prefer it to losing the "hard cash."

Conservative Mass Meeting at Richmond Hill.

Mr. Foy said Lane had stated that the Local House passed more acts, and filled more books with their business than the Dominion had; but we do not estimate the value of our law as we do our wood or wheat, by the cord or bushel. The fact was apparent that no matter how many books they had filled, we have not received anything like value for our money. Lane went back to '58; but although deficits may have existed then, they are not a burden upon the people now, and therefore not what we are interested in. What we want is to remedy the state of things now existing; not what existed in '58. The Reform Ministers, since the Conservatives went out, had sufficient revenue to pay their expenses, but still they got heavily into debt. Mr. Lane attempted to show that Protection meant increase of taxes. This could not be substantiated. The policy of the Opposition is to re-adjust the tariff, by taking off the duty on one article and putting it on another. If the duty is taken off raw material and put on other things, it does not increase the taxes. There are three classes that make up the body of electors. There is the Conservative and the Reformer, and then there is a middle class of thinking men, who really control the elections. This class is not strongly attached to one or the other party. They read and listen to what is said on both sides, and then make up their minds how to vote. These are the men who turn Ministers out of power; and who, in reality, accomplish all the great changes. No doubt there are many of just such persons here. I will give you the views of many of this liberal class—the third party I have just spoken of.

Those of them who supported the Grits at last election expected to see the country ruled in a better manner than formerly; they hoped that those whom they had helped into power would fulfill their promises. Well, the first thing they seen was the extreme selfishness of those who asked their votes to get into power. When a good office was to be filled, they popped themselves into it, regardless of how the country fared. Four members of the Cabinet have secured offices with salaries of from $7,000 to $10,000 each; and Vail is expected to follow suit. Fournier and others also looked out for good situations. These are the men who wanted to govern the country; correct all abuses, and inaugurate great reforms. This third class, or really liberal party, did not approve of such actions, but it did not stagger them all; they still expected some great measures which would do good to the Dominion. Five years have passed away and they do not see any; they have now come to the conclusion that the Reform Ministry were as Blake had said, "a Reform Government with nothing to Reform." (Cheers.) But although many of this middle class turned against the Reform Government when they saw them acting thus, still there were many who continued to believe that they would do something. Those people thought we would have economy at least. But how has this turned out. There has been an increased expenditure in every department. They have recklessly squandered money in bringing immigrants into the country. This money should not have gone into the pockets of friends of the Government, but if expended at all, it should have been for the benefit of the immigrants. Another point which this middle class, these liberal men wished to see carried out, was purely well. They have seen it with a vengeance. With one exception, every petition filed against the Reformers, has resulted in the election being quashed, on account of bribery or illegal acts. And to complete the work of severing from them the third class, they have refused to do anything to alleviate the suffering at present existing in the country. Those liberal-minded men say they will not support such a Government any more, as every pledge has been broken, every promise unfulfilled, but they will go in with the Opposition who will give them such a policy as will build up the country.

Mr. Foy then highly recommended both the Conservative Candidates, and expressed his belief that they would redeem East and West York.

Mr. Boulbee, in reply to Mr. Lane, contradicted his assertions, and satisfactorily explained his reasons for casting his vote as he did on the overthrow of the Sandfield Government.

Mr. Davin spoke very strongly in favor of both Messrs. Wallace and Boulbee, and said there was no comparison between the latter gentleman and Metcalfe. After a vote of thanks was tendered the chairman, the meeting dispersed with three cheers for Sir John.

The Newmarket Era thinks "Emelius Irving, Esq., or J. Parham, Esq., would be good Candidates for North York in the Reform interest. It has no hopes for Dymond.

At a meeting held in Toronto on Friday evening last, Mr. John Macdonald was selected to contest centre Toronto in the Reform interest.

The Newmarket Era is certainly one of the best exchanges we have on our list. In neatness, general get up, and the ability displayed in its articles, it has very few superiors in Ontario, as a country newspaper. It concludes an ably-written article in last week's paper on the political situation in North York, with these words, which will be found only too true:—

"It is no news to many leading Reformers in North York to state that the political character of the constituency has undergone considerable change since last election—arising partly from the fact that new issues are now presenting themselves as of paramount importance, which heretofore were regarded as of secondary or minor character—arising also from the almost absolute certainty that no inconsiderable section of our voting population, who supported the reform candidate, will now be found acting in harmony with the Conservative party in the approaching contest.

Our town fathers will soon have to take into consideration the question of getting more accommodation for the pupils attending the Public Schools. We are informed that Miss Seager's department is over crowded, there being an attendance of between seventy and eighty children. As it was found to be almost impossible to teach in a satisfactory manner, with so many children confined in such a small room, a number of them were instructed to attend only during the forenoon of each day, while the remainder attend for the afternoon.

The Concert announced to be given by Prof. Compton on Monday evening last, was not well attended, in consequence of which the Professor decided not to give the programme. He was prevailed upon, however, to give a recitation, "Henry V at Haffeur," which was simply grand. Messrs. Edwards and Stanhope also sang a few songs, and rendered in a masterlike manner one or two piano solos. We were very sorry there was not a good audience, as we feel assured that our citizens would have enjoyed one of the best entertainments of this kind ever given on the Hill. Prof. Compton is certainly a first-class elocutionist, and we hope, if he ever pays us a second visit, that he will be greeted with a full house.

War News!

The Russians say the retirement of their army and the British fleet from the neighborhood of Constantinople is hindered by Turkish obstinacy which destroys confidence.

Last week Generals Jovanovsky and Zimmerman sent to Fazi Jashua at Schumla and Ahmed Kaiserli at Varna, formal demands for the surrender of those places. The answers were that no orders to do so had been received. Threats were then used. The Russians begged permission to occupy the outer lines, leaving the inner lines and the towns to the Turks. The Turks declined. The Russians pressed the point. Let us talk no more about this foolishness, was Ahmed Kaiserli's last answer.

A Berlin letter, semi-official, says it could hardly be expected that a foreign fleet would appear in the Baltic against the wishes of Germany.

A letter from England states that the British Government still considers it possible that Russia may appreciate to the full the English earnestness. In a contrary case England will take into her own hands at her own risk, the ratification of Russia's work in the Balkans, in the peninsula, and on the Asiatic coast of the Black Sea. Possibly before embarking upon this course, England will summon a Conference in London.

LONDON, April 29.—The Standard says:—It is understood at Aldershot that the Queen has expressed her intention of naming an early day to review the first army corps in its new complete state.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 26.—The extreme Mussulman party asked the Sheriff of Mecca and the Muftis of Tunis and Morocco, whether Turkey should join England in the event of an Anglo-Russian war, and the Muftis replied in the affirmative, and the Sheriff promised to submit the question to a council in the event of an outbreak of hostilities. The Mussulman insurgents are approaching Philippopolis and driving the Bulgarians before them. The spread of the insurrection causes much disquietude even at Adrianople, some soldiers having been assassinated there.

LONDON, April 26.—It is reported from Chatham that a powerful ironclad squadron will be immediately prepared to be in readiness for operations in the Baltic.

The Beecher Business.

After four years slumber, the charge of immorality brought against the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, is again revived, and this time in a more definite and positive shape than before. Mrs. Tilton now deliberately confesses that she and the reverend pastor of Plymouth Church are guilty of the crime imputed to them. Mr. Beecher promptly confronts her confession with an "explicit and absolute denial." The Herald rumours that Beecher has startling evidence of conspiracy between Moulton and Tilton, and is about to begin the offensive.

The scoundrel, E. H. Goff, late manager of the Canada Agricultural Insurance Co., is being used by the Grits of Montreal for charging Hon. Mr. Baker, late of the Provincial Government, with corrupt practices while in office. Mr. Baker has had the editor of the Herald, Stewart, arrested, and he is now out on bail awaiting his trial. Goff was arrested on Tuesday. The case of the Grits must indeed be desperate when they employ such a man to damage the characters of their opponents. "Birds of a feather," etc.

A telegram from Halifax states that it is rumored Hon. P. C. Hill, Provincial Secretary of Nova Scotia, will likely be appointed Lieutenant-Governor of that Province on the expiration of Lieut-Gov. Archibald's term.

In the case of the Queen v. McVicar, of the Sarnia Canadian for publishing a libel on the Hon. Mr. Mackenzie, the jury failed to agree and were discharged.

EPSS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epss has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage, which may save us many heavy doctor's bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strength enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frames.—Civil Service Gazette.
