THURSDAY, FEB. 10,

None of Their Business.

Some of our County Councillors have very peculiar ideas of their duties. They seem to think that the Council is a House of Commons, on a small scale, and that it is the duty of the members to discuss political questions, and censure or approve of the course pursued by the Dominion Government as they deem proper. If that is what they are elected for let it be clearly understood. The less we have of such seenes as took place on Friday last, the better for the count: y.

Mr Winchester, Reeve of Brockton, introduced a motion which, in effect, consures the Dominion Government for accepting the terms of the C P R Symdicate, and requests the Government to open the whole business again for competition. If Mr Winchester had not been certain that the Syndicate bargain would have been condemned by the Council, he would not have brought the matter up. If he had any doubt whatever, as to the action of the Council, he would not have brought the motion forward. He knew when he made the motion, that a majority of the Council were strong Reformers, who would condemn "the Government every chance they got, and on almost any question that could be brought forward, These Reformers were not elected because they were Reformers. They were elected to attend to County matters, because of personal popularity, experience in municipal affairs, or because better men did not think it worth while to run against some of them. Even where a slight political feeling was introduced, no particular issue or question was at stake, and in no sense whatever, can it be said that these men at the County Council represent the opinion of the ratepayers of York, regarding the Syndicate terms. The real truth of the and thought the Syndicate motion offered too good an opportunity to be lost. Some of his friends, not desirous of taking a prominent part themselves, persuaded him to make a little cheap glory for himself, and make some capital ior the Opposition. Mr Winchester is anxious ... to pose as a patriot, but his real motives are too apparent. We contend that as a County Council it is none of their business what the Dominion Parliament does. As ratepayers and citizens they have full liberty of action and speech, to stump the country as often and whenever they please, and condemn the Government on every question. But as County Councillors political questions dealt with by the Dominion Parliament is out of their iurisdiction. If this sort of thing goes on, the County Council will degenerate into a mere training school for blatent politicians, and the real business and welfare of the County will be neglected

The inquest on the Sheppard children, who are lilleged to have been killed by their mother at Whitevale recently, was concluded on Saturday. The jury brought in a verdict that the children came to their death at the hands of some person unknown. The coroner refused to take Mrs. Sheppard's statement as evidence. On Monday, 31st Jan., Mrs Sheppard died, after suffering great pain. The report that she and her husband were in the habit of quarrelling is denied.
