'The Senate and Scott Act.

There can be no doubt that the Tem-Act is the best means of making people total abstainers, or whether it would really do any benefit to the temperance cause is a disputed question. The impression of the great majority of earnest total abstinence advocates is that the adoption of the Scott Act would of being considered temperance men was a mass of water all day Saturday and have taken it upon themselves to abuse and villify Senator Almon and in fact and villify Senator Almon, and in fact around at the mercy of the waves. the whole Senate because the amend-it is impossible these Senators may have | cases came off. considered they were acting rightly in these injure any cause, and are a source of weakness to those they profess to of weakness to those they profess to assist. The following address:—

Mr. Frank Cosgrove,

DEAR SIR.—On the eve of this your retirement from business in the village, and the approach of your departure from aming us, it has been considered fitting and proper to present to you some gift as a slight token of the high regard entertained for you by your many friends and acquaintances. On behalf therefore of the present company, and numerous other friends who are unable to be present, with us this evening, I tender you this little present, feeling assured that I may also offer you the kind wishes and wannest regard of your fellow-citizens, in whatever walk of life you may subsequently enter upon. By your happy, kind and courteous manner towards all with who you have become acquainted, you have won their esteem and good will, and although in parting with you, we regret the loss of a kind friend and good neighbor, we bope that wherever you may go, you may make as many warm friends as those you leave behind.

Whatever fortune the future may bring you, we trust that your enjoyment of the delicate and delicious aroma of the fragrant Gold Flako, Virginia Leaf or Myytle Navy, as it arises in clouds of incense from this specimen of petrified sea foam, which we present to you this evening, will be increased by the renembrance of the pleasant faces now gathered around you, and that your thoughts will often revert to the many pleasant social gatherings held at the Robin Hood, which were rendered so cnjoyable by the esteemed host and his charming helpmate. Wo wish you and Mrs Cosgrove a useful and happy life, and hope that you may long enjoy not only health and strength, but also the esteem and good wishes of all with whom you may become acquainted.
