

The Boundary.

We believe Ontario is entitled to the Territory allowed by the arbitrators, but we cannot approve of the way in which the Ontario Ministry and their supporters have handled the case, and presented their claims. To all those who form their opinions fairly and squarely, regardless of party and other influences, it must have appeared when the Ontario Ministry first stated their case, that it was a strong one, and that the Dominion Government were not acting in a proper spirit. But one side of a story rarely, if ever, gives a fair and lucid statement of facts, and this case is no exception. While we thought, and still think, Ontario is perfectly entitled to the territory, we have nothing but strong condemnation for the threats implied about "going to war," "using force," and other weighty and bombastic phrases, used by the supporters of the Ontario Government in urging the Ministry to stand up for their rights. Even the members of that Government have not hesitated to in-ven-ture that confederation could not stand, if Ontario was not allowed what she claimed. The Government evidently thought they had a strong card, and were prepared to play a lone hand for the pile. But in the light of later events, their actions seem not only hasty but also very unwise. There was really no occasion for all the big talk and blustering of the Ministry.

The Dominion Government sent a despatch to the Ontario Government last month, stating their view of the question, and giving the reasons why they held such views. Mr. Mowat was asked to lay this paper before the Ontario House, that it might consider the reasons given, but he refused to do so. The "missing despatch," as it has been called, was laid on the table of the House of Commons on Thursday last, and it certainly knocks the wind out of the Local Government's sails. It points out that the position taken by the Dominion Government has been uniform from the beginning, and has been in favor of having an authoritative decision of the question from the highest tribunal approachable. Three times in 1872 the Ontario Government was urged to submit the question to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, but for some reason the proposal was not accepted, and hence the "delays and inconveniences," which Mr. Mowat and his political sympathizers so pathetically alluded to. This shows that the Dominion Government were anxious to have a speedy and authoritative decision. In 1874 a despatch from the Lieutenant-Governor contained a proposal to submit the matter to arbitration. The proposal was accepted by the Mackenzie Government, without Parliamentary sanction, which is considered not only highly inexpedient but as transcending the power of the Government of the day. From the course taken by the Ontario Government, it seems reasonable to assume that the arbitration was not intended to define and settle a true legal boundary, but that a conventional one should be laid down.

The award was made by the arbitrators on the Third day of August, 1878, and the Mackenzie Government took no action in the matter. A Committee of the House of Commons reported that the award did not define the true boundaries of Ontario, that the Ontario boundaries were run into Hudson Bay Territories, Indian Territories, and other lands which formed no part of Old Lower Canada or Upper Canada, or either of them.

The Dominion Government are now willing to allow the case to go before the Supreme Court of Canada, for legal settlement, or to an eminent legal functionary to be mutually agreed upon, or to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. They consider that the interests of Ontario are considered by the action which they advise as much and as strongly as the interests of any other province. Their only anxiety is that a legal question, in which Ontario is interested by itself, and in which it is interested also as a member of the Confederation, should be disposed of by a legal tribunal.

Ontario Railways.

What is the matter with the Toronto World? For the last week it has contained long and leading editorials on the Railways of the Province. The articles are ably written, and are all against the system of giving grants to railway lines, which serve no public good, and are bought up by the leading roads after a few years of a struggling and precarious existence. Close upon nine millions of dollars, of provincial and municipal money have been expended in peninsular roads, not counting the main lines of the Grand Trunk and Great Western, the Sarnia branch of the latter and the Buffalo and Lake Huron. There are now a large number of railway schemes before the legislature, seeking for grants. These lines were built to afford competition and they have been all absorbed by the large corporations. Truly the World says—"We might make a railway gridiron of the peninsula, and use up millions of money in doing so, without benefit to anybody but promoters, and lawyers, and contractors. Are not our railway follies of the past quite sufficient, without adding more and more of them to the record of costly blunders? The provincial legislature does not truly represent the people of Ontario if it does not call a halt and put an extinguisher on the promoters' railway boom."

The Political Post-Master.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR—It appears that Mr. J. Rupert is anxious for a little more of my attention than I considered his first letter worthy of. In your contemporary of last week, he has about half a column of reply to my letter, and really I fail to see why he takes so much space to say so little. I do not wish to descend to ridicule. Mr. Rupert is terribly sarcastic, and indulges in a ghostly and most soul-harrowing attempt at a joke at my expense, about "Jonah and the Whale." The public do not wish to be amused by such humorous (?) letters. If they have any interest in the simple fact, whether Mr. Rupert is not doing all he possibly can to injure the Government, and whether he is right in persisting in such a course, while holding the office of Post-master.

If I wished to adopt Mr. Rupert's style of letter-writing, I might say that he is not the only person who thought they were "assisting the Government and saving the country by their course of action." Mr. Rupert says he is doing so. Well, the poor, unfortunate wretch that is now lying in prison in the neighboring Republic for assassinating the President, says the same thing. But reasonable, intelligent people do not believe him, and I am inclined to think that Mr. Rupert is trying to impose on the credulity of the people, in making such a lame defence. It certainly seems a great pity that this talented (?) gentleman was overlooked, when Sir John formed his cabinet. Some people have wondered at the inscrutable designs of that statesman, but this last folly ceases every former one. Even Phipps himself, is but a mere fledgling to the mine of wisdom, genius and diplomacy that is situated almost in our midst, and only awaiting a proper chance to develop into the greatest and mightiest intellect of the age. Is it not a very sad thought, that in all probability this talented post-master will never have any greater opportunity to assist Sir John than in organizing parties to oppose him, and will never be able to assist in welding together this great confederation in any other way than by holding meetings at the Maple Post Office.

If I wished to continue this reply in Mr. Rupert's style, I might just ask him if he thinks it is kind and charitable to allow the Post Office to be turned into a Reading Room and have his replies to my letters read allowed by a near and dear friend to an admiring and sympathetic audience, until said reader is requested to retire into the house, by one who perceives the impropriety of allowing the audience to be delighted in that way. Now, I am a very sensitive fellow. Mr. Rupert, somewhat thin-skinned, and when such a master of sarcasm as you undoubtedly are, condescends to employ this merciless power against me, I feel as if I had no longer any work to do. As Mark Twain is credited with saying "I just want to go away somewhere, quietly and alone, and lie down and die." If you should ever have occasion to crush any one in the future, do not, I beg of you, do it with that "fish story." It is too, too, it is worn and weary, let it rest, or your fame in golden pages, penned by poets and by sages, shall go down dingy down the ages, when your form is in the dust.

I am sorry that I have to accuse my worthy friend of either a great mistake, or a deliberate falsehood. He says "Scrutator first charged me with having the meeting in the Post Office." I did not, I said the meeting was at the Post Office, and if Mr. Rupert will read my letter again, he will see that he is wrong. Some may say there is not much difference between the two statements, but to such a close and consistent reasoner as Mr. Rupert, even the slightest letter or word makes a great and appalling difference.

I again repeat, that I am correct in saying the meetings were held "at the Post Office." They were understood by all to be held there, it was in this form that the information was given to friends to attend, and even now, in speaking of those meetings, every one refers to them as being held at the Post Office. What is the Post Office anyway, and where is it, if not where the meetings were held. I have no feeling of enmity towards Mr. Rupert, and do not say anything against him holding what opinions he pleases on political questions. If he believes the Reformers are right, stick to them by all means, and I will honor him for doing so. But I have a fair cause for complaint if a Government official convenes meetings at the Post Office, for the purpose of organizing to defeat the Government. I am further informed that the Mail Carrier for Mr. Brown has been turned into a distributor of bills, giving notices of Reform meetings, and that the Post-master places political circulars in the P. O. for distribution, with out stamps being affixed. This is certainly making use of Her Majesty's Service, and to mistake! Mr. Rupert also requested me to sign the petition censuring the Government for making the bargain with the C. P. & S. Syndicate. He says he did not circulate such petitions. What is the difference? If a man cannot make a better defence than that, he should own right up that the statement is correct. It would be more manly course. Perhaps the Post-master will inform me that he only asked his customers in his store, to sign the petitions. Well, is the store at the Post Office or is the Post Office at the store. Maybe the Post Office is down cellar. All the twisting and squirming of a professional contentions, or an eel on a hook, will not enable my worthy friend to get away from the point while I have him in hand. Mr. Rupert accuses me of falsehood, I will not return the hard names, but I have clearly shown that he has not the profound reverence for the truth that he should have.

THE SCHOOL-HOUSE MAKING.

As I told you in my first letter, the Reformers arranged to hold a meeting in the School-House, of Section No. 5, Vaughan. When they assembled, it was found that the master, a very energetic and persevering instructor of the youth, was holding a night school for the benefit of some pupils. Quite properly he refused to dismiss the school, and the meeting had to adjourn to Mr. A. Credock's, who is going to Manitoaba, I believe. Whether the meeting was too much for him or not, I am not informed, but he is going away, all the same, and on it was realized—so simple and neat—A snowfall, with all its perils complete. Her hair was weary, and white, and wan. She did not smile, she did not talk. And what were her musings none might guess—Her words were "too utter" for words to express.

The Teston Post Office.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR—Some one over the signature of "Scrutator," states in the Liberal of the 17th inst., that political meetings have been held in the Post Office at Teston. This statement is false, unless it means that a discussion of political questions sometimes takes place between parties when they call for their mail. There are no private meetings held. If I was to give you a report of the doings of some of the Gists around here, the readers of the Herald would be surprised. I will at any time answer to my charges brought against me, at or in any public building which my accusers select, provided I have the privilege of questioning him.

G. WILSON.
Teston, Feb. 22nd, 1882.

Death of Rev. Dr. Ryerson.

At seven o'clock Sunday there passed away, at his residence on Victoria street, Dr. Ezerion Ryerson, aged 79 years. His death was not unexpected for, as the deceased had been in very poor health for some time back. He died surrounded by his family, in the quiet calm hope of a Christian. The funeral took place on Wednesday at 2 o'clock, with service in the Metropolitan church at 3:30 p.m.

Rev. Ezerion Ryerson was born in the township of Charlottetown, county of Norfolk, on the 24th of March 1803. He was a descendant of a family of U. E. Loyalists. He, along with his other brothers, spent his early years on his father's farm. At the age of eighteen he became a member of the Methodist community. Four years later he was appointed to the Niagara district, and afterwards filled a number of stations throughout Ontario.

When the Christian Guardian was established in 1829, the young clergyman was appointed associate editor. In 1834 the deceased was appointed Superintendent of the Public Schools for Upper Canada. It was in this position, perhaps that Dr. Ryerson has rendered the most lasting service to his native land. For 32 years he was at the head of the educational institutions of the province, and his zeal and untiring energy have left their indelible stamp upon them. In 1876 owing to increasing infirmities he succeeded his position as superintendent of education, and up to the time of his death lived a life of literary ease, occupying his time in preparing a "History of the United Empire Loyalists," which has already been issued.

MOTHERS! MOTHERS! MOTHERS!

Are you distressed at night and broken your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of Mrs. WIGGLES' SCORPIO SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. It is not a mother on earth who has overused it, who will not tell you of its efficacy. It is a simple, safe, and reliable remedy, and the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.

These remedies are unequalled throughout the world for bad legs, wounds, foul sores and ulcers. Used according to directions given with them there is no wound, bad leg, or ulcerous sore however obstinate or long standing, but will yield to their healing and curative properties. Many poor sufferers who have been patients in the large hospitals and under the care of eminent surgeons and have derived little or no benefit from their treatment, have been thoroughly cured by Holloway's Ointment and Pills. Fit glandular swellings, tumors, scurvy, and diseases of the skin there is nothing that can be used with as much benefit. In fact in the worst forms of skin disease dependent upon the condition of the blood, these medicines used conjointly, are irresistible.

AN AESTHETIC MARRIAGE.
She was a maiden of mountain mien.
Clad in a garment of sage, sage green.
With peacock's feathers strangely bedight;
Slightly was the skirt, and the sleeves full light,
No frivolous gown that mai-ten wore,
But a fan in her taper hand she bore.
Her hair was the color of the setting sun,
A snowfall, with all its perils complete.
Her face was weary, and white, and wan.
She did not smile, she did not talk.
And what were her musings none might guess—
Her words were "too utter" for words to express.

RETURNED FROM WINNIPEG.

Mr. Wm. A. Kinison returned from Manitoba on Saturday last and since that time William has been but-n-oh-ohed by every body, whenever an opportunity for so doing presented itself, to tell all about that wonderful country. He visited Winnipeg, Porage La Prairie and Brandon, and purchased lots in each place. In Winnipeg he paid $2,600 for a lot near the central part of Main street which may be considered a safe investment. He has a very good opinion of the country, and finds the gaieties and dissipations of fashionable life, in the social and commercial sense, rather slow and tame in this thriving metropolis, after living in that hub of the continent,—Winnipeg.

TESTON C. M. CHURCH SERVICES.

The Anniversary Services on the 12th inst., were well attended both morning and evening. The Rev. Mr. Howson gave a good discourse, with all his old force and vigor. The tea meeting on Monday evening, in the Church, was a successful and pleasant one. The tea was excellent, and the lecture by Mr. Howson, on "The Tongue, its use and abuse" was both interesting and amusing. The Choir sang very nicely, and the Band gave several selections in an able manner. The proceeds, after paying all expenses, amounted to $58.37. We congratulate our Teston friends on the success of their meeting.

R. H. BRANCH L. C. A.—A meeting was held in the Temperance Hall, on Tuesday evening 21st inst., for the purpose of organizing a Branch of the West York Liberal Conservative Association. There was a large attendance of electors. The following officers were elected:—Chairman, I. Crosby; 1st Vice, John Elliott; 2nd Vice, P. G. Savage; Treasurer, J. Brown; Secretary, W. Sanderson; Executive Com., J. Sanderson, J. Reynolds, D. F. Fairbairn, J. A. E. Switzer and the Officers. Speeches were made by the officers elected, and the meeting adjourned, until the call of the chair. At the next meeting it is proposed to have a debate on some interesting subject, relating to the political questions now before the electors.

Oysters will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock, p. m., in the Temperance Hall. Afterwards those wishing to dance will assemble in the Grange Hall. A first class quadrille band will be present. Tickets for Supper and Assembly, 25 cents.

TESTON C. M. C. AND S. OF T.—A subscriber writes us from Teston that the Liberal correspondent, "Church Member," is incorrect in stating that the C. M. Church ran their anniversary services and lecture in opposition to the Sons of Temperance. He says the C. M. Church Committee arranged for holding the lecture long before the Sons made any announcement, but when they heard of the latter's intention they decided to postpone the Church Tea meeting. The committee were informed, however, that the S. of T. had decided to hold over their festivities until a later date, and they accordingly went on as at first decided. The Sons in no way rushed their picnic on. He says the Church is eager and anxious to assist any temperance work, but Church members do not care to belong to a Society where so many frequently and openly violate their obligations.

Mr. Addison delivered an able and very impressive sermon, from Proverbs, xiv Chap., and the latter part of the 32nd verse "that the righteous have hope in his death." Referring to the deceased, he spoke of him as one who was wanted without coming away, unprepared, and as one who had been waiting to be called away for the last twenty years.

Mr. Harrington was born in May County, Tyrone, Ireland in 1790, and emigrated to Canada in 1820. He first settled between the 7th and 8th Con. of Markham and afterwards removed to this village, where he has since resided. He married Miss Hastings, a daughter of Mr. Thos. Hastings of Markham.
