door," but misfortune stalks in many times without knocking. Canadian Indians Seize an American Sheriff.

FORT ASSINIBOINE, MONTANA, March 9 .-There is a good deal of excitement in this section, caused by the capturing of sheriff Healy, his brother, and Mr. Talbot by Indians and half-breeds from across the Canadian. line. They had been camped along Milk River for the purpose of stopping illicit trade and arresting the offenders. It seems that some 30 miles east of the Big Bend on the Milk River, Healy found a camp of several hundrend families of half treeds and Oree Indians, they belonged to Canada and being without authority in the United States. At the same time upon an Indian reservation, Healy found many offenders of the law, and being a man of pronounced bravery and integrity where official action is wanted, at once rrested six of the head men known to be smugglers and law breakers, and seized about $5,000 worth of robes and other property. He prepared to return with his captives towards Fort Benton. In this little scheme he was defeated for the half breeds and Cree Indians surrounded him with sufficient force to bring about the disarmament and capture of Healy and his two followers. This all happened about the 20th ultimo, since which time the friends of klealy have been in ignorance of his whereabouts, and grave fears have been entertained by his friends as to his safety. Yesterday a telegram was re-ceived by General Ruger, commanding the district of Montana, and stationed at Helena. setting forth Healy's condition and danger, and asking for immediate help from the military authorities. The despatch was smuggied through the camp by the help of an old time friend of Healy's, who happened to have been camping with the half breeds. It is generally believed by the poople of this section of the country that Healy's chance must be really desperate when calling for help, for his reputation for coolness, bravery, and good judgment is beyond question. In fact he is a desperate man in the face of danger, one who can take care of himself under most circumstances. He was a veteran of the war, an of immense endurance, physical power and ambition. CRIME. He Kills his Wife and Mother in an Insane Frenzy. WATERBURG, March 14 .- On Sunday night

Michael McCafferie, aged 50 years, killed his wife, the same age, and his mother aged 80 years, and concealed the bodies in the cellar. This afternoon he brought his seven children to Waterburg Center from Cotton Brook district where he lived. His eldest boy, aged 14 years, gave the first intimation of the murder, saying that on Sunday night he heard terrible screams in the house and had not seen his mother or grandmother since. His father kept the cellar door tightly
