LOCALS

Succumbed at Last.

It will be remembered that some weeks ago one Scott, decamped with a horse and rig belonging to Mr. A. J. Rupert of this place. Nearly a week afterwards, the horse was found near Millbank, but in a very pitiable condition. Since that time it has not been worked, except a little moderate driving, and on sunday night, the poor animal died. Considering the time and expense in searching Mr. R. has suffered a heavy loss, which shows that the livery business, like most others is not without its drawbacks. It is to be hoped the cold hearted villain may yet be found and punished for the perpetration of such a deed as he richly deserves.

Spring Exhibition,

The Annual Spring Exhibition of the Richmond Hill and Yonge St. Agricultural Society will be held on the Queen's Birthday METHODIST CHURCH OF CANADA - Services and Stating and attentive hostiers. General Prayer Meeting every this house to connect with all passenger trains on the fair grounds, Richmond Hill, and promises to be the best ever held. Good prizes will be given for all all grounds at 2:30 p. m. General Prayer Meeting every this house to connect with all passenger trains on the fair grounds, Richmond Hill, and prizes will be given for all all grounds. Thursday evening in the Lecture Room. Revs. cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, farm implements, dairy produce, harness, and ladies' work, besides some special prizes. The Richmond Hill Cornet Band has been secured for the occasion, and the Fire Brigade will give an exhibition practice at 9.30 a. m. Entries may be made up to 10. a. m. on the morning of the fair, but exhibitors are re quested to have all entries in if possible not later than the day previous.

New Livery Stables.

Mr. A. J. Rupert's new livery stables and sheds, in connection with the Dominion Hetel, are comfortable and contain all the jewellery, and repairing of watches and clocks on | modern conveniences. The very handy plans devised for feeding the horses, together with the whole building, reflect much credit on Mr. - Brillinger, who superintended the work. The main building contains a large number of single stalls, besides three roomy box stalls, a harness room and a spacious compartment for cutters, buggies, and other conveyances. The grounds are now being graded and gravelled, and Mr. Rupert's many customers will find everything about his new premises as comfortable as possible, and may always rely on a firstclass outfit.

Court Day. Division Court was held in the village on Friday last, Judge Murphy on the bench. A number of cases were disposed of, the decisions on the one side giving general satisfaction, but, judging by the countenances of those on the opposite benches we imagined with His Honor. It is well we have a court of law to decide cases in dispute, but some people appear to look for opportunities of rushing into court with every dispute with their neighbors, no matter how trivial the difference may be. There are men in our village and vicinity, from whom the lawyers have never extorted a farthing, in the sense of which we are speaking, while there are others, whose presence at every court is almost as certain as the learned judge himself, with the latter class, there must be something radically wrong.

Methodist Church Concert

Programme for Queen's Birthday, May 24th, 1884, at the Methodist Church Richmond Hill. From 10.30 a. m., to 3 p. m., dinner will be served in the school room of the church by the ladies, in their usual excellent style. From 5 to 7 o'clock p.m. tea will be served in the same place. Beginning at 7.30 p.m., a grand .concert will be given by one of Toronto's most popular choirs, consisting of 35 voices, under the able conductorship of Mr. Jas B Baxter, assisted by Mrs Baxter, soprano soloist; Miss Alexander contralto soloist; Messrs Baxter & Spice, tenor soloists; Messrs Smith & Lee, bass soloists Misses Mara & Mitchell, Readers; and Mr W Jones, organist Bloor St church Tickets for each 25 cents This concert will in many respects be far ahead of any entertainment heretofore given on Richmond Hill. Parties attending the fair on that day will do well to arrange so as to remain for the Concert in the evening It will be a rare treat The Ladies intend to make their meals during the day all that can be desired, and kindly solicit a liberal patronage from their friends

By land or sea, out on the prairie, or in the crowded city, Ayer's Carthatic Pills are the best for purgative purposes, everywhere alike, convenient, efficacious, and safe. For sluggish bowels, torpid liver, bad breath, flatulency, and sick headache they are a certain cure.

REV. J. E. BETTS.

In sadness we mourn, since our pastor has left us Though we bow in submission to God's holy will; In His infinite wisdom we know He's bereft us, And knowing 'tis God we will try to" be still."

The 'house' of his 'tabernacle' here is 'dissolved, And his spirit antramme led by sorrow expands Has entered victorious, from all sin absolved, The house that's efernal and not made with hands.

And we know that a bright crown with gemsall

Is encircling his brow, while ineffable joy Breaks forth in glad rapture, no mortal can know, And hosannas to God his freed powers employ.

We ought to rejoice that his labors are ended; That nothing can mar his unspeakable bliss, That joyous thanksgiving and praises are blended And the rest that remains for God's people is his In labors abundant we always have found him;

Counting not his life dear, so that souls might be won

No plaudits desiring, no homage from men, But the Saviour's own words, "faithful servant well done.' In our fancy we hear him, in counsel most wise,

In earnest entreaties that our faith should not But beholding the Lamb, journey toward theskies, That wrestling like Jacob we are sure to prevail

We doubt not the power of our God to restore The dust of our loved ones in likeness most pure | corpse was being taken through the gate into the Like Jesus we'll know and be known evermore; With bodies like His through heaven's cycles endure.

In the hope of thus meeting our dear Pastor again We take up the thread that's been severed by And patiently toil on through trials and pain,

Till we land on the shore of eternal relief. Then let us take courage and with cheerfulness Ever trusting in God for the time that's to come Till we meet our dear pastor, at the pearly gate. And enter, triumphant, ever resting at home. Richmond Hill, May 18th. P. L. G.

of the Rev. J. E. Betts, Pastor of the Yonge St. North Circuit, aged 60 years and 2 mo's. After a short illness, succeeding a somewhat longer period of poor health, the highly respected and much lamented pastor expired | Mower Works of Messrs. A. Harris, Son & last Friday night at about 8 o'clock. On Sunday, the friends gathered in the after- room, where Mr. H. R. Hardy, the booknoon at the parsonage, where they were addressed by the Rev. Dr. Sutherland of Toronto, from the first five verses of 2nd. Corinthians. On Monday at 4 a. m., the remains were taken to Toronto, on their way lined. The salver bore in its centre the to Tilsonburg, where they will be placed by those of a beloved child. Our knowledge of the one just departed to join the great majority beyond does not extend beyond the term of his coming on this Circuit last June; but, from a tablet on a beautifully they, in certain points, differed in opinion | bound copy of the Scriptures lying in his room, on which was engraved the presentation of this token of love and esteem from leaving England, to become a minister in long should now be finally severed. Canada, we learn that early in life he was an active and earnest worker in the Master's courteous, coupled with a modest and unassumvineyard. The frequent mention of his ing demeanor, which has won our respect and name in Conference and in Circuit reports, also show him to have always been a zeslous worker in all matters conducive to the spiritual interests of the church to which he belonged. He had been on this circuit but a short | present with the hope that it may long be to you time when almost every family over which a reminder of the agreeable associations which he had pastoral care was visited, and which he intended assiduously to perform, but, dence may grant unto yourself and family long had to relinquish on account of failing | life, hap mess and success in your new home. health. During the recent revival in this place, his malady became worse, and pre vented him from preaching. He, however, during the day, induced many to seek the salvation of their souls. When urged, by labored, and to which he had devoted his life. But he has ceased from his labors and his works do follow him, for his ministrations from the pulpit were of so earnest and practical a character that they will not soon be forgotten. On Sunday, the 27th of April, Mr. Betts preached from John, 1st chap. and 29th verse: "Behola the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sins of the world." In the course of his remarks he said that if he was selecting a text for the last sermon that he was to preach on earth he would choose the one from which he was then addressing us. It was his last text, and his last sermon. His charge with life has been laid down. He lived the life of the righteous man, and he has died the death of the same.-Com.

THORNHILL

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Thompson having purchased the property, formerly rented by Mrs. Christian, is busily engaged in making improvements upon the shed and in the house. Mr Martin, an excellent workman of this place, is engaged in shingling the shed and doing the carpentering generally. By the time Mr. Martin and Sons get through with their work he will have a very handsome place-second to none on Yonge Street as a reside ice. Dr. Langstaff has Mr. Eady engaged constructing a temporary fence along the front of the lot. We understand the Dr. intends planting, inside the fence, a thorn hedge, which, when fully grown is to take the place of a fence, and will answer a good purpose. You must bear in mind the Dr. is very tasty about having things looking nice and respectable. On Thursday evening, May 1st., a Salvation Band from the City, visited this place. After marching up and down Yonge Street several times, and being followed by twenty or more boys, they wended their way to the Methodist church. So far as we could learn they were but very poorly appreciated. Above all things the drum and tambourine should be kept out of the church, for a length of time yet. They hired an express waggon in the city and an old plug of a horse, which, after driving some six or more miles, gave out and they were compelled to hire another larger, and, we presume, a little better one. They say the sight of them coming through the village will not soon be forgotten. After the Riebmond Hill, May 1st, 1884.

In loving remembrance of our Pastor, meeting was concluded, we are informed that tiey said now this is the best part of the meeting-meaning the collection. The ruling passion strong in death-Money! Money!

> Some very suitable improvements are being made about the English Church. The Wardens. together with Mr. Thompson, have pur haser. from Mr. Rankin, the lot just north of the church containing ? of an acre, for the nice little sum of $275. We understand that Mr. Thompson reserves a right of way through to some other property of his, and the remainder of the lot will be set apart for a burying ground. The Rev. W. W. Bates is a "live man," and intends having everything looking nice about the church, as well as about his own home.

The Mutual Improvement Society of the Methodist Church held their regular meeting on Tuesday evening. A question drawer was instituted, and some of the questions were very amusing. Several pieces of music were rendered very nice-1. There were over some sixty-five persons present. The interest in the meeting seems to be increasing.

(Crowled out last week.)

Jesse Cogswell, eldest son of Mr. Cogswell, a highly respected citize of our Village, after quite a lengthy period of illness seccumbed to his last enemy-death. He died on Friday night between the hours of twelve and one o'clock, On Monday afternoon he was conveyed to his "last resting place" by six of his former companions, who seemed very much to regret his departure. So far as we can understand Jessie was liked by everybody. The floral decorations upon his coffin were very handsome indeed. Just as his Cemetery, a number of young lady friends, assisted by Mr. Carman, sang the following as they marched to the tomb, "There's a land that is fairer than day, &c.;" which we think was very appropriate. After his burial the following hymns were sung :- "Sweet By & By," "Oh think of the home over there," "Shall we meet beyond the River." I may just here remark that a very large concourse of friends assembled to pay their last tribu o of respect to the deceased and exhibit their sympathy for the bereaved ones. We are sure that Mr. Cogswell and family have the sympathy of the friends and people generally of the Village and the adjoining neighborhood. The Rev. Mr. Totten conducted the burial services.

HONORING HARDY

We regret to have to announce the decease | What the Workmen at A. Harris, Son &

Co.'s Think of the Firm's Book-keeper.

On Saturday evening at 5 o'clock a large number of the employees in the Reaper and Co. (Limit'd) assembled in the large packing keeper of the firm, was presented by them with an elegant silver tea set, consisting of Salver, teapot, cream pitcher, sugar and slop bowls, the pitcher and slop bowls being gold following inscription :-

Presented to R. H. Hardy by the Employees of A, Harris, Son & Co., (Lt'd), April 26th, 1884. The gift was accompanied by the following address, read by Mr. James K. Wedlake: To Mr. H. R. Hardy,-

The workmen employed by the firm of A. Harris, Son & Co., (Lt'd) hearing of your intended departure, desire to express our regret that the children of his Sabbath School on his the pleasant relationship which has existed so In our intercourse with you we have invariably found your manner to be obliging, attentive and > esteem, and while we can but regret your departure we couple with it our earnest wish that you may in your new field, be successful beyond your most sanguine expectations. Kindly accept from us the accompanying gift which we have selected with a view to its usefulness as well as ornamentation and which we have existed between us. Trusting that an All-wise and benificient Provi-We subscribe on behalf of our fellow-work-

JAMES K. WEDLAKE, J. M. SMITH.

Mr. Hardy said he was more than surprised at this manifestation of the good will of the writer and others, to cease his labors for his fellow workmen. He did not need such the present, and try to gain strength for a magnificent, nor any, gift to compel him to future days of usefulness, he would very remember the friends he had made in these feelingly express his sorrows at the thought shops during the six years he had been here, of giving up the field, where he had so long but he should now remember them with s'ill greater feelings of regard whenever he looked upon the handsome gift. He would not value it for its intrinsic worth, but purely as a mark of their esteem. He could not express himself as he would, and concluded with a heart felt " good-bye." Rev. W. J. Maxwell addressed a few words to the men, congratulating them upon the pleasant relationship which existed between their friend and his friend, Mr. Hardy and themselves. A large number of the men bade Mr. Hardy "good-bye," and from the warm hand-shakes and good wishes one could not but see that the feeling of good will was genuine. Mr. Hardy is certainly to be congratulated upon gaining the esteem of so intelligent a body of men as surrounded him on Saturday night .- Brantford Currier. Mr. Hardy has accepted the position of bookkeeper for Messrs. Patterson and brother, to whom we would offer our congratulations, on securing the services of a gentleman so highly spoken of by those with with whom he has recently been connected and trust he may be held in the same esteem by the workmen of the Patterson firm.
