THE 'GLOBE' AND C. P. R.

How little faith is placed in that part of the Press which is avowedly partizan is shown by the construction put on the 'Globe's' change of opinion in regard to certain lands in the North West, owned by the C. P. R. The section in question has for years been represented by the 'Globe' as an alkali desert, utterly useless and beyond reclaiming. So persistently, and, as it appeared, so knowingly, did that journal, adhere to its assertions, that the C. P. R. has been unable to dispose of that part of its possessions, and a great loss to the Company has been the result. A week or two ago, however, the 'Globe' professed to have received new light on the subject. The first rays, it seems, scintillated from the Hon. Alex. McKenzie. This gentleman made a tour to the North West and during his travels, the C. P. R. people treated him with no little kindness and attention. As a natural consequence, Mr. McKenzie said a few words complimentary to both company and country. Then, as we have said, it first dawned on the 'Globe' that its verdict, given over and over might after all be wrong. Thereupon it reconsidered the matter, consulted other authorities, and has at last come to the conclusion, that while the much-abused land does contain traces of alkali, it is nevertheless very fair soil, that a few years cultivation would free it from all deleterious admixtures, that, in fact, the land lacks only one thing—Settlers.

It has been well and truly said that consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds. Having once expressed an opinion, most men are afraid to change that opinion for fear of being deemed inconsistent. The fear is childish and fatal to honesty. Consistency may, and should teach us to be extremely careful in all our utterances, but it ought not to be a millstone, hanged about our necks, which insures drowning should we happen to tumble into the water. Unfortunately, for the 'Globe,' its re-illumination occurred at the very time when the report was raised that it had passed into the hands of the C. P. R., a report which seemed to receive some color of truth from the fact that its terrific denunciations of the Syndicate suddenly ceased. The affairs stand thus:—The story was concocted by one of Mr. Riordon's papers, the News. That queer couple, the Toronto Mail, and the Montreal Gazette, swore that the story was true. The 'Globe' flatly denied it and accordingly, beyond a coincidence of two, there is absolutely nothing to prove it. For ourselves, we are content to walk out of the matter, impregnable to astonishment and surprise, and feeling that the only safe motto is that of Montaigne—What do I know?

HON. JOHN O'CONNOR.

The Hon. John O'Connor has taken his seat on the bench, but his advent to that high honor was greeted with no congratulations from the bar. The legal fraternity, no matter what their political leanings may be, have by their silence protested against making the bench a reward for aught but ability in law, joined to spotless character. Judge O'Connor may stand high in the latter respect, but, as a lawyer, he is simply a numskull. He is a judge to-day because he had the means of forcing Sir John Macdonald to grant the appointment. He has availed himself of his power, and henceforth, it may be reasonably concluded, the learning and integrity of the Canadian Judiciary will depend largely on circumstances. Sir John has set the fatal precedent, and friends and foes alike will not be slow to act upon it.

The Tory organs have nothing to say in favor of O'Connor's elevation, and their blind and interested devotion to Sir John prevents them from condemning it. Grit papers are bursting to make political capital out of it, but they dare not, because their party is not a little dependent for power in this province on the votes of the new judge's co-religionists. The triumph of party and of faction can go no further.

MOCK LOYALTY.

Certain Conservatives profess great indignation because Hon. Mr. Ross, our Minister of Education declared the other day that he was not prepared to stigmatise as traitor a man who expresses a preference for a republican form of government, or who even says that independence is the proper thing for Canada. The Mail, indeed, waxed so wrathful over what it was pleased to call the treason of a cabinet member, that it called on the Lieutenant Governor to order him off to instant death. Have these zealous loyalists forgotten the answer, made by the Mail, and accepted by the Conservative party, to the contention of Reformers that the N. P. might endanger British connection? It was—So much the worse for British connection! There is a difference between the two cases and it is this. Mr. Ross only said what every one knows, that British rule, freedom of speech but not of action is the right of all. This the Mail denies, contending that freedom of action (overt treason, for instance) alone is permissible. It would ill become us, however, to give the great Conservative party a lesson on the duties of good and loyal subjects.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

Here it is Oct. 9th, and yet what has been done in connection with our Mechanics' Institute for the present year? The time for members' tickets for use of the library expired on the 30th of Sept., therefore the Librarian may refuse to give out books till new tickets are issued. We have frequently reminded the Directors that many bills are owing by the Institute, and creditors have been calling loudly for their money. Wherein does the fault lie? At all events, nothing can be done till the President notifies the Secretary to call a meeting of the Directors. Then, if for the dollar paid for the ticket, members could be promised a rousing re-union, followed by a good local drama, and a few racy lectures, the interest of the Institute might still be revived and much good would be done thereby.

HAIR RENEWER

was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cure diseases of the scalp, and the first successful restorer of faded or gray hair, to its natural color, growth, and youthful beauty. It has had many imitators, but none have so fully met all the requirements needful for the proper treatment of the hair and scalp. HALL'S HAIR RENEWER has steadily grown in favor, and spread its fame and usefulness, to every quarter of the globe. Its unparalleled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire fulfilment of its promises.

The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never made an effort for its introduction.

The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER wonderfully improves the personal appearance. It cleanses the scalp from all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dryness, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and enables them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are not transient, like those of alcoholic preparations, but remain a long time, which makes its use a matter of economy.
