Runaway.

Last Saturday evening at about half past five o'clock, a team of horses, belonging to Mr. N. Stevenson, and having behind it a large load of ice, gave its driver the slip at the south part of the village, and ran up Yonge street at full speed. On reaching Centre street, an onlooker endeavored to stop them, but in doing so, turned them into the ditch, where one of them fell, and drew its mate with it. Much difficulty was experienced in freeing the animals from their intricate position. On being extricated, however, it was found they were not at all injured, but the harness was badly broken, and a couple of trees smashed opposite the Methodist Church. This is another accident caused by hard drink—a whole load.

Scientific Lecture.

Last Friday evening, Mr. C. A. Hirschfelder, of Toronto, gave a scientific lecture in the Masonic Hall, under the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute, his subject being "Prehistoric America." The lecturer commenced his remarks by giving a description of the early discoveries of America, paying special attention to Canada. He said this Continent was wrongly named, as it took its appellation from Americus Vesputius, but which properly belonged to Christopher Columbus. He touched upon the Indian tribes of North America, whom he considered, in the early times were strictly honest, but who gradually grew dishonest and treacherous on account of the deceit played upon them by the white people. He strongly condemned the white people for introducing to the Indians strong drink, which was the chief cause of their misery and degradation. He also referred to the war-like propensities of the different tribes, who were continually at war with each other, till the Iroquois exterminated their less powerful relations. The only remains of the Huron Indians, who formerly inhabited what is now known as Simcoe County, are to be found in the village of Lorette, a few miles from the city of Quebec. The minute description of places and the specimens which he possessed, showed that the lecturer had travelled and paid considerable attention to the subject. He spoke of the ossuary which had been discovered in Markham Township a few years ago, after which he mentioned the remains of the mound builders. He also described the remains of Central & South America, and showed articles to prove that centuries ago, a direct communication must have been carried on between the inhabitants of North and South America. The lecturer is paid by the Mechanics' Institute Association of Ontario, and although he gave much useful information on Friday evening, his mode of utterance, his illustrations and his appearance generally, are not such as would entitle him to be rated among first-class speakers. A collection was taken up at the close which amounted to $4.03.
