Our Canadian Winter.

No doubt most people are ready to say good-bye to the winter, which has been an unusually severe one, and are prepared to welcome Spring with the pleasant sunshine, followed by green fields, trees and flowers. Although extremely cold, many advantages are derived from such a winter. The sleighing has been remarkably good for several months in succession, which enables farmers, lumbermen and others to make rapid headway with their work, which, in an open winter, has to be done under difficulties. We should wait patiently for milder weather, and endeavor to enjoy what we have, for it is well to remember that it takes more than the scorching summer sun, annoying mosquitoes, and nesting flies to render us supremely happy.

McMahon amounting to $1.95 was read. Moved by Ed. Snider, seconded by Foreman Savage, that it be paid.—Carried. A communication was read respecting a tournament to be held in Brantford in June. Moved by W. Storey, seconded by T. F. McMahon, that above communication be laid over till some future time.—Carried. Moved by Foreman Redditt, seconded by G. Trench, that the By-Laws be read over section by section.—Carried. This being done by the Secretary, W. Storey gave notice of motion that the Company revise By-Laws at next meeting. Meeting adjourned.

The Professor will be ably assisted by Madame Reid in his wonderful performances. In addition to the above, a numerous company of ladies and gentlemen from Toronto, Thornhill, Richmond Hill and Bradford will contribute a splendid selection of songs, readings, &c., among whom are the following: B. Change of Time.

Last Saturday, our village bell-ringer, who usually conforms strictly to regulations, must have been "off his base" an hour earlier in the day, as at exactly 11 a. m., the ponderous clapper of the huge metallic vessel in the Methodist Church tower, struck heavily, and the bell pealed forth its melodious strains through the still clear air. Many of our citizens, who have not an ear for musical time, thought a fire had broken out, and made a rush for the Fire Hall. Some of the kitchen maids were heard to exclaim, as they peered in the oven, that the beefstake was not more than half cooked, whilst ambitious(?) tradesmen—who work by the day—tore off their aprons and were walking leisurely out of the shops, feeling happy that dinner-time had come so soon. The latter were much mortified when they found that another hour's work must be performed before they could satisfy their voracious appetite. It was lucky the mistake was made, as, on taking out the fire engine for practice an hour or two afterwards, some of the tubes were found to be frozen up, rendering the engine entirely useless for some time. Had a fire broken out at the time, several buildings might have burned down before a single drop of water could have been thrown on the blaze. The greatest caution should be exercised by the caretaker, in whose charge the whole fire apparatus is left, and whose duty it is to see that everything is kept in working order at the shortest notice.

Have you tried Holloway's Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences.

Temperance Sermon.

As announced in last week's LIBERAL, Rev. W. R. Barker, last Sunday evening, delivered, to a full house, his sermon on "Total Abstinence," closing for his text Prov. 23 Chap., 31st verse: "Look thou not upon the Wine, &c."

Having divested his congregation of any suppositions they might have that like many ministers he would treat his subject with timidity, (for he thought that on this matter there should be no trimming either in the pulpit or in the pew) he commenced with a confident assurance of right to denounce the drinking usages of the day, and recommended to all the counteracting influence of Total Abstinence. He contended that great reforms seldom succeed unless the church was interested in their success, and that it was the duty of the church to be interested in whatever was for the amelioration of man's condition. That the drinking customs of society were subversive of national prosperity and domestic felicity. That no government ought to derive a revenue from the vices of its subjects, and that as a source of real revenue it was a financial failure. Its evils were almost beyond exaggeration in Church and State.

Ministers and members assumed a terrible responsibility if they countenanced in any way our nation's acknowledged curse. He urged members of his congregation to cultivate that most difficult of all christian graces—self-denial—for a tipping christian's example has influenced many a young person to an evil destiny. His appeal to the younger portion of his audience ought to leave an ineffaceable impression. He wondered at any prudent young woman allowing herself to be linked for life to any young man who would not forego the seductive influences of the wine cup, when she saw portrayed before her every day the untold miseries of a drunkard's wife. A young man wedded to the one should not be wedded to the other. To young men he pointed out two roads, the moderation road strewn all the way long with casualties and wrecks, and the Total Abstinence line, on which there has never been an accident, with a guarantee of perfect safety, and a through ticket to prosperity.

Mr. Barker spoke for over an hour without the least sign of weariness on the part of his audience. The Rev. gentleman, without making any pretensions to oratory, is a clear, forcible and fluent speaker, with an irresistible eloquence in the earnestness with which he endeavors to convince his listeners of the importance of his subject. Talent, ability, and voice such as Mr. Barker possesses should be well utilized in the coming campaign for the Scott Act in this County.

Jacob Lockman, Buffalo, N. Y., says he has been using Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil for rheumatism; he had such a lame back he could not do anything, but one bottle has, to use his own expression, "cured him up." He thinks it is the best thing in the market.

D. J. Macdonnell on Temperance.

To the Editor of the LIBERAL:
SIR,—Will you kindly allow me a little space in your valuable columns in which to express my surprise and sorrow at the position taken by Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, of Toronto, with regard to Temperance.
A Conference of members of Toronto Presbytery was held in Richmond Hill on Monday, March 2nd. After the discussion of Sabbath School Work, State of Religion, and Religion in the Home, the last subject on the programme was taken up, which was the important subject of the day, viz., Temperance. A very able paper was presented by Rev. J. Smith, who commenced by referring to a resolution passed at a meeting of the Presbytery held a short time since in Toronto, by which his remarks would be guided. He also called attention to the fact that the rules embodied in that resolution, were very similar to those advanced by Cardinal Manning, than whom no better authority on temperance matters can be quoted. The Rev. gentleman dealt with the subject eloquently, and carried his audience with him, and we listened with delight and thankfulness as we heard arguments advanced on behalf of the Scott Act, and objections to its passing and enforcement vanish before the speaker's eloquence and earnestness. We heard him with thankfulness to our loving Father, who has put it in the heart of our good brother to use his talents in this direction, and we thought what an onward stroke to our cause in Richmond Hill, where there exists a sort of carelessness and indifference, which is more difficult to deal with than open opposition. And we fancied we saw a long list of names of those, not heretofore in sympathy with us, who now would gladly give their signatures and support to the petitions shortly to be circulated.

But alas for our hopes, the Rev. gentleman named above, saw fit to rise in opposition, and advance ideas and arguments, which, we grieve to say, have very seriously injured the cause of temperance in our village. Shame, on the minister of God, who talks of enjoying his cup of good claret, when, by his words and example, he is encouraging church members and others to indulge in that soul-destroying habit. Good claret! rororoth. As well may his poor degraded brother, with palsied limbs and haggard face, talk of the injustice of depriving him of his dram of bad whiskey. Regarding the wisdom of sending a man with such views to a meeting where Temperance was to be discussed, we are not prepared to judge, but this we know, that the many benefits we may have derived from the Conference, have been dearly bought by the injury inflicted on Temperance by his remarks. We think that the Anti-men could not do better than engage him to defend their cause. E. King Dodds himself would be thrown in the shade by the eloquence and popularity of Rev. D. J. Macdonnell.

Obituary.

The death of Mr. Daniel Reaman, 2nd Deputy Reeve of Vaughan, which took place on Thursday, Feb. 26th, has caused profound regret in the Township. Not a fortnight previous he sat at the Council Board in his usual health. He contracted typhoid fever and his constitution, which had been shaken by a paralytic stroke a few years ago, made him an easy victim to the disease. The news of his death soon spread abroad, and on the day of his burial crowds of people gathered at his home to follow his remains to their last resting place. To the observer it was easily seen he was highly honored and respected, for among those present were prominent men of both political parties, Reeves of other townships, and ex-Wardens of the County.

He entered public life in the year 1865, when he was first elected by acclamation to sit at the Council, which place he occupied up to the time of his death, making 20 consecutive years in the Council. Few men have won the confidence of the people as he had, for he was repeatedly elected by acclamation, and when opposed by the strongest man that could be chosen he would poll a larger vote even than the Reeve. As a private citizen he was endowed with those virtues which make a man's memory revered after he is gone.

Mr. E. Riggins, Beamsville, writes—
"A customer who tried a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery says it is the best thing he ever used, to quote his own words, 'It just seemed to touch the spot affected.' About a year ago he had an attack of bilious fever, and was afraid he was in for another, when I recommended this valuable medicine with such happy results."
