Firemen Called Out.

Last Thursday afternoon, about 4 o'clock, the Fire Bell rang, and officers and privates soon had the engine and other apparatus in front of Mr. Jesse Grant's residence, where for a time, it seemed the house was in danger of being devoured. It proved that one of our modern chemists had been practicing some experiments when an explosion occurred. The loss sustained in some very expensive carriages will be considerable.

Vick's Floral Guide.

Vick's Illustrated Magazine & Floral Guide for the year 1887 comes to hand on a grander scale than ever. It is a book of nearly 200 pages, is printed on the best of paper, is beautifully illustrated, and gives a minute description of the innumerable kinds of seeds and flowers grown on the farm of this firm. We have done business with this firm, and feel confident that people dealing with them will receive just what their orders call for. Address, Rochester, N. Y.

Victoria Square.

The Rev. E. W. Hall, B. A., of Stouffville, preached eloquent sermons in the Methodist Church last Sunday. The annual tea meeting came off on New Year's evening and was well attended. The Elders were excellent. The choir performed the exercises of the evening with delightful music. Rev. Messrs Norman, Bethune, Beck and Chapman delivered appropriate addresses. Thos. Williamson Esq. made an efficient chairman. Financial results $130.

Firemen's Supper & Entertainment.

New Year's was the type of a pure Canadian village day. Notwithstanding the cold, however, the Firemen had a good turnout of their supper and entertainment in the evening. At seven o'clock they formed at the fire hall, and, headed by the home band, marched through the village, and gave a splendid exhibition of a torchlight procession. Banners were stuck up into the air, and displayed a beautiful variety of colors. After the procession, the people crowded into the dining-room of the Masonic Hall, where oysters and other edibles were beautifully served out by competent waiters. On account of the immense crowd, considerable confusion was experienced before the supper was completed, and many were compelled to wait until after the entertainment was completed before their appetites were appeased. The programme of the concert, though short, was well rendered, and reflected credit on the performers. Mr. and Mrs. Boutley gave a number of duets in capital style, and brought forth loud applause. The other performers were Messrs. J. H. Sanderson, A. J. Haime, W. D. Atkinson, and W. A. Sanderson, all of whom did his part well. Mrs. Boutley and Miss Wüey acted as accompanists during the evening. We regret to say that good order was not one of the prominent features of the evening. Before the concert opened boisterous youths were allowed to vociferously shout and blow horns, until at times it was almost deafening. The ladies and others in the front seats were pelted with candies until the floor was literally covered, and it seemed that no one thought it his business to interfere. The firemen of our village are held, as they should be, in the highest estimation, yet it is a fact that many ladies decline to attend their concerts.

From our own Correspondent. A football match took place here on Christmas Day between Hope and Edgely which resulted in a victory for Edgely by 2 goals to one. W. Walker, of Teston, refereed the match in a manner satisfactory to all.

The tea and concert held by the sabbath school at Kaiser's church was a grand success; tea was served between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock p. m. at the parsonage, after which they all repaired to the church which was jammed to the door. The Rev. Mr. Pearen occupied the chair. The entertainment commenced by an address delivered by Master L. Watson, followed by recitations, dialogues, and music by the school. Addresses were also delivered by the Rev. Mr. Campbell and the Rev. Mr. Large; proceeds in aid of organ fund.
