Is it Imaginary?

At the weekly meeting of the Ministerial Association of Toronto, held last Monday, the chief question was "Politics in the Pulpit." Among other things, Rev. John Hunt, a former superintendent of Richmond Hill Methodist Church, said: "Although I have always been a Conservative, I have continually been obliged to vote the other way because the Conservative candidates were drunken and Debauched." The quotation is copied from the Toronto World

Ladies, call at the Concrete and get a free copy of March Fashion Paper and inspect the Stylish Dress Goods and trimmings.

Petitioning Parliament.

A petition has been signed during the week which will be forwarded to Mr. Pope, Mini ster of Railways, asking the Dominion Government to grant a sum of money to assist in building the Branch Railway from Richmond Hill station to this village. Should the Government look favorably upon the request and deal liberally, we may expect to see the Iron Horse here before long. The Govern-ment will see the village is in earnest about the matter, as we have already passed a by-law favoring a bonus of $10.000. We trust the petitioners may be successful.

The Millinery Department at the Concrete, under the special charge of Mrs. Atkinson, who has secured a first class Milliner from Toronto to assist, will be parexcellence, this season. Ladies who patronize this Department will be more than satis-

Big Blaze in Aurora.

Early on Sunday morning fire broke out in Boynton's grocery store, situated on the west side of Yonge St., a tew rods north of the Methodist Church, and destroyed all the buildings between the church and Braund's bardware store. The houses on the oppo-site side of the street were damaged by the heat, and with great difficulty were saved. Six shops and three dwellings were totally destroyed. All insured but one. D.P. Ross lost the most of his hardware, and no insurance. W. Boynton lost all his stock; insured for full value. The other goods were saved without much damage, The total loss is variously estimated from $5000 upward. The buildings were old and in some cases was first estimated.

Sermons in Methodist Church.

Rev. W. R. Barker preached the first of a last Sunday evening to a large and interested congregation. His theme was the perpetuity of the Sabbath as a divine institution. His arguments were forcible and convincing showing clearly that the Sabbath was instituted at the creation of man, and that the obligation to keep it holy was perpetual and universal. He will preach the second of the series next Sunday morning at half-past ten. Such sarmons cannot fail to draw large congregations.

A Slight Change.

Before commencing his sermon on Sunday evening, Rev. Mr. Barker gave notice that in future the mode of procedure in the Methodist service would be slightly changed as follows. At the usual time the congregation will be asked to repeat with the minister the Lords Prayer. Also the prayer usually given at the close will follow directly after the sermon. The service will close with the benediction. Mr. Barker said the change had been recommended by the Conference, and had since been adopted in the city and many other churches. He thought the new ar rangement was probably better, and trusted the congregation would look upon it favorable if from the congregation would look upon it favorable if from the congregation would look upon it favorable if from the congregation would look upon it favorable in the ably, if for no other reason than to maintain uniformity with other churches and ministers,

Rennie's Sale.

Mr. Wm. Rennie having sold his farm, Lot No. 14 in the 2nd Con. of Markham, and a-bout three miles from this village, will sell by public auction the whole of his imported Clydesdale horses and inplements on Tuesday, the 5th of April next. The Clydesdales are a superior class of horses, and were re-lected in Scotland by Mr. Reunie himself. Many of them were shown at the Toronto Exhibition last fall, and in nearly all cases took first prizes. Among the rest is a Shet-land pony, one of the smallest and hand-somest in Canada. His implements are nearly new and in first-class condition. Parties wishing to purchase brood mares will do well to attend this sale, as severat will be sold of the pure Clydesdale Type. Intend-ing purchasers coming by train will be met at either Richmond Hill, Thornhill or Unionville stations, and taken back in time for the evening train, by communicating with the proprietor previous to the day of sale. No doubt farmers and stock raisers will attend from all parts of the province. The sale which commences at 12 o'clock will be under the management of Mr. Salem Eckardt the popular and well known auctionecr.

Dr. Gilmour Waited On.

Yesterday (Wednesday) a deputation consisting of Messrs. Frankland, Reeve of York; Andrew Russell, 1st Deputy Reeve of Vaughan; Isaac Reaman, 2nd Deputy Reeve of an; Isaac Reaman, 2nd Deputy Reeve of A. Muldoon, Thornhull; M. Naughton, Elgin Mills, and others, waited on Dr. Gilmour, M. P. P., West York, in reference to the removal of toll gates and market fees. The meeting was held in the library of the Parliament buildings. The idea was to arrive at som subsequently of the property of the p scheme which would be just to one part of the province without being unjust to the other. One discussion on the matter has already taken place in the House this session and the subject will again be referred to in a few days. Although it appears to be a difficult question to grapple with, public opinion seems to be strongly in favor of abolishing those lingering relies of barbarism. Luousands of dobars are annually paid out to toll gate k-epers on Yongs St. alone, who do nothing for their money but stand and collect it. If this money were paid into the treasury for taxes the amount would keep in repair a good stretch of the road. Gilmour thought a committee would be appointed by the House to investigate the matter, and endeavor to arrive at some fea-sible arrangement. The greatest difficulty will be with roads in the hands of joint stock companies.

A. O. U. W. Entertainment.

Last Tuesday evening, March 22nd, Ivy Lodge, No. 114, A. O. U. W. of this village gave an entertainment in the Masonic Hall to which were invited a large number of the citizens of the village and surrounding district. The invitations were cheerfully responded to and the hall was comfortably filled. Mr. John Brown, Master Workman, occupied the chair. At the opening he explained the object of the meeting and said the chief object was to endeavor to increase the membership of the Lodge which now consisted of about 40 members. He was sorry to inform the audience that two of their singers were unavoidably absent but the committee had, to the best of their ability, supplied their places. The musical part of the entertainment was taken by Miss Impie, and Mr. Cameron, of Toronto. The former sang a couple of songs in a clear, distinct manner which were well received. The latter though possessing a very fair voice might certainly have been more choice in his selections. Miss Wallace, of Temperanceville gave a couple of readings which were listened to with much attention. During the evening Rev. W. W. Bates delivered a lengthly address, showing that he was in thorough sympathy with the society. Mr. J. E. Miller, P. G. M. W. of Ontario gave a lecture on the benefits and workings of the order. was given in such a forcible and earnest manner that those present could not but be favorably impressed with the society. showed by statistics that the membership for the province was rapidly increasing. Since 1878, when the order was instituted, the membership is 180 000. The average cost per year is between $13 and $14, which insures the holder to the amount of $2000 In other words the tax would be about 52 cents for each working day in the year. He said the association embraced members from the President of the United States down to the laborer, who worked by the day. entertainment was brought to a close by Rev W. R. Barker pronouncing the benediction.
