MR. MEREDITH'S NEW ANXIETY

Every one knows that a short time ago Mr. Meredith's whole soul was bent to the task of robbing his native province of all and everything that by hook or by crook could be taken from it. Every one also knows that this course Mr. Meredith pursued at the bidding of his master, Sir John Macdonald, whose pet ambition was, is, and will be to harass Mr. Mowat, even if Ontario should go to the dogs. But Mr. Mowat, backed by the common sense and confidence of the people of Ontario, brought the schemes of both Macdonald and Meredith to naught. So far so good. Forget and forgive is the motto. But it is rather irritating to Liberals to find Mr. Meredith posing as the champion of Ontario's interests as against Mr. Mowat. The mines and timber limits that Mr. Meredith did his best to give to political sharpers, friendly to Sir John, and of course to himself—these mines and timber limits Mr. Meredith insists on now being at once developed and worked to their utmost capacity. So they will be worked, Mr. Meredith, but neither by you nor at your instigation. All in good time measures will be introduced by Ontario's friends to call forth the riches of our province. Better that those riches did not exist than that Mr. Meredith should have part or parcel in their management.

THE COMBINES.

It was well known that as soon as the Dominion Parliament was fairly opened, it was the intention of several members to bring before the House the present and growing evil of combines. Accordingly no surprise was felt when Mr. Wallace, of West York, moved the following resolution:—"That a select committee be appointed to examine into the nature, extent and effect of certain combinations said to exist with reference to the purchase and sale in Canada of any foreign or Canadian products, with power to send for persons, papers and records, and further with power to examine witnesses on oath." The committee is composed of ten Conservatives and six Reformers. We shall not speculate on the probable results of this resolution. We content ourselves now with pointing out that to a very great extent the authors of these 'certain combinations' are not only friends of the government, but are actually its makers. Given a limited market and an N. P., the combines follow as a natural consequence. Sickly industries are forced into existence by a restricted tariff; then ensues deadly competition, and then loom up loss and failure. Now it goes without saying that the manufacturers are not going to be the victims, so long as they have a patient and capable substitute. Thus it is that in order to give manufacturers large profits from industries that have no ground for being, Canada is rapidly becoming the most expensive country in the world to live in. We await with curiosity the result of Mr. Wallace's resolution.

MANHOOD SUFFRAGE.

Hon. Mr. Mowat has expressed his intention of giving manhood suffrage to Ontario. The bill will doubtless be framed with that astuteness and liberality that characterize all of Mr. Mowat's measures. It is likely that the only qualification made will be that of residence. Whether manhood suffrage is the best sort of franchise for our or for any other country is not now a question of much importance to Canada. What is of the greatest importance is that we should be freed from those highly complex and expensive schemes that perplex the voter and enrich the understrapper. Mr. Mowat does well, therefore, to protest thus practically against that monstrous perversion of political ingenuity, the Dominion Franchise Act. That act was planned to deprive Liberals of the franchise. If the storm of indignation which it raised kept the Revising Barrister somewhere near the bounds of decency, no thanks to his creator. Of quite secondary interest yet of considerable moment to a people whose national debt is rapidly increasing while its trade is being systematically crippled, is the item of expense. Under this head, the Dominion Franchise Act is a perfect leviathan in making the money spout. Never was an act equal in dishonesty and in cost of administration.

Whatever objections have been raised against the present Ontario Franchise Act, neither dishonesty nor expensiveness was among the number. Manhood suffrage will remove all cause of demur except from those that think that perhaps other qualifications than having lived for twenty-one years are needed in a voter.

DISASTROUS.—The most intense excitement is felt in the flourishing village of Richmond Hill and its surroundings, as facts are revealed, of numerous families who are dyeing, in the most beautiful colors; in fact all the colors of the rainbow, by using the popular Sun-Set Dyes, only five cents a package. Sold in the city only by Joseph Dilworth, the Druggist, 170 King St. East, between the Clyde and Nipissing Hotels, Toronto.
