

THE FISHERY DISPUTE.

Of the many questions which are to-day agitating the public mind in Canada and the United States, there is not one occupying the same attention as that resulting from the Fishery dispute. It is considered important, as on its satisfactory settlement depends not only great commercial advantages to two countries lying side by side, but perhaps the peace of two of the greatest nations on earth. It is lamentably true that a few of our journalists and politicians are indulging in the game of pretended bravery, but this class evidently have a greater ambition to display their vanity than to benefit their country by their ostentatious language. While they cry out to "let the Yankees come," "we're ready for them," "retaliation is what we want," they must feel they are endeavoring to teach that which is dangerous and contrary to all reason. There are very few Canadians who do not think that both the Democrat and Republican parties across the boundary line are making political capital out of the affair. They think it strange that the States only discovered on the eve of an election that Canada was such a very wicked country. They feel satisfied that the Americans are not acting the part of neighbors. But all this being admitted forms a poor pretext for treating them unneighborly in return.

Not long ago the fishery clauses of the Washington Treaty permitted the importation of free lobsters, salmon and all kinds of fish, but Congress afterwards imposed a duty on the cans in which the fish were shipped. All Canada cried out against the injustice, as it was never intended that such a technicality would be made use of. Yet horrified as our people seemed to be over this dishonest stratagem, they kept their breath tolerably well when they recently learned that the Dominion Government having agreed to admit American peaches and fruit free of duty, clapped a tax on the fruit baskets as an offset to the tin cans. If nations could be induced to study each other's mutual benefits, instead of flying at each other's throats when a disputed question arises, it would be more in keeping with the advancement of our so called civilization.

In this, as in most controversies, the views taken by the respective sides show too much of self. Even sections of the Dominion, especially those in the maritime provinces, express views which are antagonistic to the general welfare of the country. The inhabitants of Halifax and St. Johns are shouting for retaliation in the hope that traffic would be compelled to pass through their ports. This being the case it behooves the Government to make the best of the case for the majority of Canadians, without stooping to the meanness practised by the Americans.

We are firmly convinced that the suspension of commercial intercourse with our Southern neighbors would be injurious to this country both socially and from a business standpoint, and to all parties concerned, the simplest path out of the difficulty is by the door of Unrestricted Reciprocity.

TORONTO'S GREAT FAIR.

President Withrow and his associates who have labored so faithfully for years in perfecting the management of the Industrial Exhibition are to be congratulated on the great success to which it has attained. Every year finds the Fair better than its predecessor, whilst the stride between last year and the present is much greater than between any two previous years. Without a doubt there has been no exhibition on the continent which has made more rapid advancement in the last ten years. A few years ago the Provincial Fairs were looked upon as large institutions, but these almost sink into insignificance when spoken of in comparison with that of the Queen City. Every day up to the present the receipts have been larger than the corresponding day last year, and with continued fine weather this happy state of affairs will not show any falling off till the closing of the gates. And great as the exhibition has been there is every reason to believe that it will still grow and prosper till it becomes one of the best and most popular on the continent.

Trust our Mail Order Department with your purchasing. It is under skilful management and has an efficient corps. The interests are about equal. They try to please. You wish to be pleased. And they do please. The number of customers on their roll is daily increasing and now amounts to more than an ordinary store has the run of incity customers. This proves the faithfulness of their work.

Do you enjoy all the privileges afforded by the store? Its our one happy thought that you do. We've wearied and labored to make its comforts more and more homelike, and it pleases us to have them looked upon exactly as your rights. We would have you perfectly at ease wherever you go. See everything, examine everything, and put away the thought from you that our salespeople have an eye on your purse. Visit whatever department you will, from first floor to carpet flat. The new Fall and Winter things are surely worth the trouble.

Among the piles of carpets that are new for the Fall and Winter trade are a lot of Brussels and Tapestry that deserve a special word. They are best English and Scotch manufacture and of as good quality and as large a variety of patterns as rail or steamer ever carried. There's a large line of Tapestry at 27c. and from that to the best, at 78c. the value is surprising. Best Brussels with borders to match at $1.18 a yard. Kirkcaldy Linoleums are among the later arrivals 45c. to $1.05 per sq. yard. Floor cloths 28c. to $1.00 per sq. yard. Stair and passage cloths 10c. to 40c. a yard.

Silk Handkerchiefs have only a little corner of the store but they stand very well for what we're doing in the 'kerchief line. As softly, brilliantly beautiful as ever came through the Custom House. We chose them for quality, finish and neatness of design. The price scale don't hunt it. Pure silk from 50c. up a little way into the dollars. There's a line or two with the kind adjective prefixed, as Indian silks 25c. each, and colored brocade 15c. each, that have tumbled down the price ladder ever so far while the quality remains the best. Talk of getting a pure linen handkerchief for less than 10c. is often regarded, and rightly, as fiction. We call nothing "linen" that's not linen. Our Ladies' fine Irish linen handkerchiefs, white and hem-stitched, 3 for 20c., a finer grade 2 for 25c., and gent's full sized white linen $1 to $3 a dozen are genuine flax productions. There's a lot of children's colored bordered 'kerchiefs, fast colors, that we'll guarantee not to be linen, but stuffs as good in their own way, and with quality a long way ahead of the price—45c. per doz.
