him with some others.
The Rev. Mr. Egan calls in question my statement that the Jesuits ever came under the banner of the Pope, and demands proof. We shall certainly gratify him. Dr. Mosheim, in his Church History, page 710, says: "The Jesuits affect to be 'ave (and probably many of them thought) that Clement would not dare to suppress their Order. But in the fifth year of his pontificate, he resolved, in defiance of all clamour and menaces of the zealous to disembody the fraternity, and amalgamate its members with the unprivileged mass of society. He declared it to be his opinion that the order had ceased to answer the ends of its institution, and that the members by the impropriety of their conduct, their loose cruising, and their mischievous arts had forfeited all claim to further encouragement. A bull for the annihilation of the society was therefore promulgated, its colleges were seized and its revenues confiscated. Lorenzo Ricci, the refractory general of the order, was sent to the Castle of St. Angelo, and died in confinement." Is this satisfactory? The bull of Pope Clement XIV was dated July 21st, 1773. I would like to give to you in full for Rev. Mr. Egan's benefit, but it is too long for your space. I will give an extract or two. The Pope says: "We have omitted no care, no pains, to arrive at a thorough knowledge of the origin, the progress, the state of that regular order commonly known as the company of Jesuits." He then goes on to accuse them of having adopted, in certain places, certain idolatrous ceremonies in contempt of those approved of by the Catholic Church and with teaching certain doctrines which the Holy See had prescribed as scandalous and contrary to good morals. He then calls attention to the fact that his "dearly beloved sons in Christ, the Kings of France, Spain, Portugal and Sicily, found themselves bound to the necessity of expelling and driving from their states, kingdoms and provinces these very companions of Jesus, persuaded that there remained no other remedy to so great evils, and that this step was necessary to prevent the christians from rising against one another, and from massacring one another in the bosom of our common Mother, the Holy Church." He concludes as follows: "We do out of our certain knowledge, and in the fullness of our Apostolical power, suppress and abolish the said company, and that the name of the company shall be, and is forever extinguished and suppressed. Our will and pleasure is, that these our letters shall forever to all eternity be valid, permanent and efficacious."
We shall see what the Rev. Mr. Egan has to say to this well established historic fact. I warn him, however, not to follow in the footsteps of the Rev. Mr. Haud, and say that "this was only a piece of diplomacy demanded by the peculiar exigencies of the times." That's altogether too thin. He will have to manufacture something better than that. Perhaps, with his characteristic effrontery, he will deny the existence of the document. We shall see. These are the gentlemen who, having been deliberately kicked out of all Catholic countries again and again, by Popes, Princes and Kings, are now coming over to America, like the third plague of Egypt (your Bible readers will remember what that was), again to repeat the peculiar tactics for which they are justly condemned by the impartial testimony of history.
The Rev. Father Egan evidently has derived a great amount of consolation from the recent vote in Parliament on the question of disallowance (in fact I know of nothing that could give him greater pleasure, unless it be the repeal of the Scott Act), but its a long road that has no turn in it. This vote has not been an unmixed evil by any means. It has opened the eyes of the Protestants of this Dominion, and given them to understand clearly by whom they are actually ruled. It's worth paying a round sum for the possession of this knowledge.
This vote has not been looked upon as an unmixed good by many of the more intelligent Romanists, by any means. The Canadian, the leading Dominion Government organ at Quebec, and which is supposed to reflect to a large extent the views of Cardinal Taschereau, in a recent issue concludes an article on the subject as follows:—"The papal diplomacy in this instance has been changing, illogical and inconsequent. These vacillations, inconsequences, contradictions, have created a bad effect in this country, and we pray God that such a spectacle may never again be seen here."
The rev. gentleman concludes his letter with the following proclamation:—"If then to my knowledge statements are made within the limits of this parish, either from the pulpit or through the press, in which the doctrines of the Church are misrepresented, I shall be always ready in my humble way to take my place, shall I say for the defence of the truth." It is to be earnestly hoped that all Protestant ministers residing within the bounds of the parish afterwards will take due notice and govern themselves accordingly. Perhaps in his next the Rev. Mr. Egan will kindly define the limit or extent of his parish, so that those living outside it may breathe freely.
For the present,
Yours in defence of truth,
W. W. PERIVAL.
