That Protest

To the Editor of THE LIBERAL.

SIR,—Will thank you for space in your valuable paper to correct some gross mis-statements made by your correspondent who has seen fit to adopt the title "Fair Play." It is no wonder to me that he did not attach his name, for undoubtedly he would be ashamed of it.

It is quite evident by his letter that "Fair Play" was not on the grounds that day, or at least did not see the race in question, or he never would have penned such an untruthful letter.

He charges me with trying to mislead or deceive the public, while he with others put their heads together, and tried to induce me to share the money, and in this way lead the public to believe it was an honest and square trot.

Now, sir, I understand this is public money, given for "a proper test of speed," but instead of going properly about the race, they say, "let us drive leisurely round the ring and share the money," which I refused to do, and so their little fun is spoiled.

While this was going on he remarked, "that I wanted all the money going," to which I replied, "that if they would give me the second money, which I fairly and squarely won, I would be satisfied."

Now, I come to the race. He says, "In the first heat I was given second place." I beg to contradict this statement. Allow me to tell "Fair Play" that he is going by hearsay, for the old horse fairly and squarely won it, and that the judges could not help but give it. He says, "In the third heat that I ran my horse up to the mare's wheel, &c. Allow me to say that my horse did not run past any horse and that I did not claim the second heat.

He forgot to mention anything about the other horses running, when with them it was more like a running race than a trotting one. They make the flimsy excuse that it was because I used my whip. I can answer you—I was so far ahead my whip could have no effect on those behind.

He says, "I should have read the rules, and marked the line, 'the decision of the judges shall be final.'" That does not say that my horse did not take two seconds. Did "Fair Play" ever see in the trotting rules that the two outside horses should have two lengths ahead of the pole horse, as they had in this case?

He says, "He understands I have received a challenge to trot again if not satisfied." I have received no challenge from anybody. Does "Fair Play" know that the judges' decision is not considered final until a protest is considered? If a judge's decision was considered final, why, may I ask, are protests ever made?

Thanking you again for space in your paper,

I remain, yours truly, EDWARD GALLANOUGH.
