JINGOISM.

Mr. Goldwin Smith's lecture before the Young Liberal Club on Monday night was another proof of the broad mind of the speaker. His subject was jingoism, and, when it is remembered that a section of people are continually going out of their way in their endeavors to stir up strife between our citizens and those of the United States, was a very appropriate subject. The doctor, as it is generally known, is an advocate of political union, but while few Canadians are willing to go so far, a great many are ready to fall in with him when he shows that the commercial aspect of the question is worthy of the deepest reflection. He makes a strong point by showing that whatever Canada's political future may be in relation to her southern neighbor, her geographical position will always remain side by side with the great republic. Is it not therefore far better for us to be on friendly terms with the Americans than to be hostile to them? The lecturer protested strongly against the attempt to use the Public Schools as nurseries of party passion. Patriotism should mean something nobler than celebrating the anniversaries of battles where our fellow men had been slaughtered for merely obeying the commands of their superior officers, and perhaps party leaders. "What," said he, "do the jingoes want? Do they really wish to provoke a war with the United States? From their language and that of the leaders of their party at elections, we might think they did. Have they measured the chances of such a war, even supposing each of them to be a Paladin? Have they counted its cost? * * * Above all, let us ask again, who are to be the enemy? Those million and a half of Canadians and their children who are already on the south of the line, and whose numbers are swelled every year by the very flower of Canadian youth—are they to be fired on by their own fathers and brothers?" &c., &c.

Those who preach jingoism are enemies to this country, and nothing good can come of their rantings. Such people endeavor to justify their sayings and writings on the ground that the Americans in their rapacity are thirsting to devour us. At the close of the civil war the Americans possessed a large and victorious army and they showed no disposition to invade our country although the feeling towards England at that time was not one of the friendliest. No doubt Americans generally would welcome Canada if she went of her own accord, but it is a rare thing to hear of any journal expressing a wish to force her into the Union. Let Canadians, therefore, cultivate peace, and talk not of battles past or future. If the time should ever come when Canadians are forced to take up arms in defence of their homes and their country they will manfully respond to the call, but let it never be said they were the cause of anything so horrible to contemplate.

SEPARATE SCHOOLS IN MANITOBA.

The decision of the Supreme Court in reference to the Separate Schools of Manitoba gives the Roman Catholics of that province all they desire. It is well the question should be settled one way or the other as it has disturbed the citizens for a long time. It will be remembered that in 1890 the Legislature of Manitoba passed an act which virtually abolished Separate Schools. The validity of the act was afterwards tested before the Manitoba court of Queen's Bench, and the court decided in favor of the provincial act. The Separate School supporters then pressed the Dominion Government to disallow the legislation, but the ministers were afraid to deal with it, as there was a likelihood to offend the Roman Catholics on the one hand, or the Equal Righters on the other. Mr. Greenway has signified his intention to appeal to the Privy Council of England, but it is scarcely likely the verdict of the highest authority in Canada will be reversed in this case.

The question is a serious one both for the province and for the whole Dominion. When a section of people feel that they cannot conscientiously patronize a certain kind of school it may seem hard to compel them to support that school. On the other hand a great many people look upon it as folly to saddle a province for all time with a double system of schools one of which is strictly denominational in character but which draws taxes from the people as well as the other. If all Public schools were non-sectarian children would grow up side by side and would never know many of the prejudices that are now fostered by the lines of division. If the moral training of children could be left to parents and Sunday school teachers their faith could be safely guarded, whereas religious prejudices would be reduced to a minimum if not entirely obliterated.
