

AN ILLINOIS MIRACLE.

A Case of Deep Interest to all Women.

Saved Through a Casual Glance at a Newspaper—Weak Pale and in a Deplorable Condition When Relief Came—Another Remarkable Triumph for a Great Canadian Remedy.

Dubuque Times—

Among the peculiar conditions with which the people of the present age are endowed, is a remarkable capacity for doubting. A full belief only comes after a careful investigation, and after positive proofs have been presented. Current reports said there had been a remarkable cure in the case of a lady of Savanna, Ill., but as current report is not always accurate and as the story told was one possessing deep interest for the public, The Times determined upon a thorough investigation into the matter. The result of this investigation proved that not only was the story true, but that the case was even more remarkable than the public had been given to understand.

Mr. A. R. Kenyon is the fortunate owner of a comfortable house, well kept and with pleasant surroundings, situated on Chicago avenue, Savanna, Ill., and it was there the reporter sought him to learn of the sickness of his wife, and the cure of which so much is being said. In answer to the bell a lady appeared at the door, and to an enquiry for Mr. Kenyon said, he was employed by the railroad company, worked at nights and was asleep. "Is Mrs. Kenyon well enough to see me?" the reporter then asked. With a very suggestive smile she said: "There is no doubt of it," and inviting the reporter in, informed him that she was the lady in question. She told the reporter's mission she said: "The statement of facts as you have made it is quite true. I did not think my case was of special interest to anyone outside of my own family and friends, but if any information I can give you will be of any use to anyone else you are welcome to it. I own my present good health to a casual glance at a newspaper, and as with me some other woman may be fortunate." Mrs. Kenyon is an intelligent lady-like woman, and her home bears evidence of her great capabilities as a housewife. She told her story as follows:—

"I was born in Warren county, New York, thirty-three years ago. I was married when I was 19 and came to Savanna seven years ago. With the exception of being at times subject to violent sick headache, I considered myself a healthy woman up to five years ago. At that time I was very much run down and an easy prey to the ever present malaria in and about the Mississippi bottom lands. I was taken violently ill and during the succeeding five or six months was the greater part of the time helpless. The local physician said I had been affected by malarial and intermittent fever. I continually grew weaker and finally went to see Dr. McAvoy of Clinton, Ia., who is reputed to be one of the ablest physicians in the Mississippi Valley. He treated me for a time without beneficial effects, and finally told me he thought he could help me if I would absolutely abstain from work. That was not to be thought of. I able to go about I had to look after my household duties. I then consulted Dr. Johnston of Savanna. My stomach would not retain the medicine he gave me and he came to the conclusion that my stomach was badly diseased. Occasionally I would choke down and nearly suffocate. I then went to Dr. Maloney and he pronounced it a case of heart trouble. He helped me temporarily, but like the rest I must stop all work or nothing could be done for me. At this time I had grown weaker and paler until I was in a deplorable condition. I had a continued feeling of tiredness, my muscular power was nearly gone, and I could not go up half a dozen steps without resting, and often that much exercise would cause me to have a terrible pain in the side. Seemingly the blood had left my veins. I was pale as death; my lips were blue and cold and I had given up all hope of ever being better. About the first of April last a young man boarding with us received a Fulton, Ill. paper. It was his home paper sent him by his mother. I picked it up one day and in glancing casually over its columns came across an account of a marvellous cure through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Candidly, I did not believe the story, and when my husband suggested that it would do no harm for me to try the pills I laughed at the idea. He insisted, and I submitted, but I had no faith whatever in the pills. My husband sent for two boxes and I took them. When I had used these I was somewhat improved in health. I continued their use and I felt that I was growing stronger, my sleep refreshed me and it seems as if I could feel new blood coursing through my veins. I kept on taking Pink Pills until a short time ago and I now consider myself a healthy, rugged woman. My house is full of boarders and I superintend all the work. In other words I work all the time and am happy all the time. I am positive that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People saved my life, and I believe there are thousands of women who would find great relief if they used them. The sick headache I was subject to have disappeared, and have not had a single attack since I commenced taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

"Were there any disagreeable effects from the medicine?" asked the reporter. "None whatever," replied Mrs. Kenyon. "They are pleasant to take and the conditions imposed by the directions are easily complied with. In common parlance I took Pink Pills and they did the rest." Mrs. Kenyon stated that all her neighbors knew of her former condition and her restoration, and one of them was called in, and when asked of her knowledge of the case said: "I have been intimately acquainted with Mrs. Kenyon and know of her illness. I looked upon her recovery as something marvellous. It is surely the unexpected that happened in her case. Of my own knowledge I cannot say that the nature of her ailment was, but I know that she was reduced to a mere shadow; was the palest and most ghost-like person I had ever seen. Hers was a remarkable case. She would be helpless one day and the next would be supervising the work of her house, but all the time there was a noticeable loss of strength and the natural vivaciousness of her nature had disappeared. It was generally thought she must die as none of the physicians who attended her seemed to understand her case or help her in the least. I was told of the sending for Dr. Williams'

Pink Pills and of course thought it the whim of a dying woman, or perhaps a sign that her husband still insisted in hoping against hope. But you can see the result for yourself, and if miracles are not performed in these days I would be pleased to know how to describe a case of this kind.

It is a remarkable case. There is no reason to doubt the sickness of Mrs. Kenyon and in just the form she describes it. Hundreds of people in that immediate neighborhood are fully conversant with the facts of both sickness and cure, and discuss it with sympathizing earnestness. But few persons have gone so close to the dividing between life and eternity and returned; and from the facts stated there is but a single conclusion to be drawn—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People did it.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a perfect blood builder and nerve restorer, curing such diseases as rheumatism, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus dance, nervous headache, nervous prostration and the tired feeling therefrom, the after effects of la grippe, influenza and severe colds, diseases depending on humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipela, etc., Pink Pills give a healthy glow to pale and sallow complexions, and are a specific for the troubles peculiar to the female system, and in the case of men they effect a radical cure, in all cases arising from mental worry over-work or excesses of any nature.

These Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50 cts. a box, or six boxes for $2.50. Bear in mind that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are never sold in bulk, or by the dozen or hundred, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form is trying to defraud you and should be avoided. The public are also cautioned against the other so-called blood builders and nerve tonics, no matter what name may be given them. They are all imitations whose makers hope to reap a pecuniary advantage from the wonderful reputation achieved by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Ask your dealer for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and refuse all imitations and substitutes.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company from either address. The price at which these pills are sold make a course of treatment comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies or medical treatment.

THE WORLD'S WHEAT CROP.

Production and Consumption Keep Very Close Together.

The Hungarian Department of Agriculture, which is high statistical authority, reports that the wheat crop of the world in 1892 was equal to 2,125,000,000 bushels, or about 125,000,000 bushels over the average crop ten years ago, and as nearly as possible the same as the crop of 1891. The world's consumption being set down as 2,070,000,000 bushels, the crops of 1892 left a surplus of 55,000,000 bushels. The feeling that there was a surplus relieved the previous tension on the markets, and as compared with 1891 the price of wheat in 1892 at the chief centers showed a decline of from 15 to 25 per cent.

The feature of the wheat production in 1892 was the increased yield of the European wheat fields. In Northern and Central Russia the crop was below the average, though above the crop of 1891; in Southern Russia it was up to, and in some cases above the average. In Italy the crop was about 5 per cent. larger than last year's, amounting to something like 120,000,000 bushels, which would leave something for export. A fine crop, above the average, was harvested in Serbia, Roumania and Wallachia; the only Danubian country which fell below the average was Moldavia. Austria's crop is reckoned at 850,000 tons, and that of Hungary at about 1,800,000, which will leave a considerable margin for export. The crop of India was short—over 1,000,000 tons less than that of last year, and 650,000 tons less than the average. In this country the wheat crop is figured at 520,000,000 bushels, as against 612,000,000 in 1891; these figures correspond pretty closely to the returns of the Agricultural Bureau. Finally, the crops in England and France are both light. The wheat yield in France is reckoned at 315,000,000 bushels which will involve an importation of not less than 45,000,000 bushels; the yield in England is figured at 8,000,000 bushels less than last year, which will compel Great Britain to import not less than 170,000,000 bushels.

In figuring on the European demand for American wheat and flour it must be remembered that Russia now permits exports of grain from Odessa and the Baltic. Last year they were prohibited. It is yet too soon to figure on the crops of 1893. But it is really appalling to observe on how small a margin of surplus the world is running so far as wheat is concerned. A crop failure of 55,000,000 bushels anywhere unaccompanied by an equivalent increase elsewhere, would bring consumption to a level with production, and would cause as near an approach to famine as modern transportation facilities permit. In Russia last spring large communities actually endured the pangs of hunger. There were deaths from famine. Shiploads of wheat were sent to the Baltic to relieve the necessities of the people on the Baltic. No such straits would occur in a country provided with a proper system of transportation and an enlightened Government. But much inconvenience might arise without reaching the starvation point.

A Simple Heat Engine.

An ingenious motor for the utilization of the heat rays of the sun or coal direct, thereby obviating the necessity for intervening mechanism of transformation, has been put upon the market. It is said to be the first motor to obtain useful rotary mechanical energy direct from the sun. A large corrugated drum is filled with an expansible liquid or gas. Inside the drum are vanes, which, on being rotated by the expansion of the liquid or gas, communicate their motion to a pulley. On putting the apparatus near a fire or in the sun, where one side only of the drum is heated, or on applying a gas jet, varied expansion is caused inside the drum, and the pulley rotates forcibly.

Rust Preventer.

Many of the large manufacturing and engineering firms in Germany have adopted the use of a new material for the purpose of preventing rust on machinery. It is said to contain no acid injurious to metal, and does not turn rancid, as is the case with many greases. It is used especially for the bright surfaces of iron and steel manufactured articles, especially when they are stored. Unlike copal and other varnishes it never hardens, and can be easily removed with a cloth dampened with turpentine.

Cycle Starting Gear.

One of the novelties of the National Cycle Show in London was a starting gear, which is likely to be of great service to cyclists. The gear is a contrivance for enabling the rider to mount and start without "pushing off" or hopping, expedients which are very trying to beginners, and especially to ladies. The gear is actuated by a powerful spring, and can be fitted to any type of machine, and to any revolving part, preferably to the crank-axle or the driving-wheel. The spring is released automatically as the rider mounts the machine, and impels it a distance sufficient to enable the rider to settle himself (or herself) comfortably and to find the pedals. The inventor also claims that the gear can be made to serve as a temporary assistance in ascending hills.

The Lover's Lament.

Your face is like a drooping flower, Sweetheart! I see you fading hour by hour, Sweetheart! Your rounded outlines waste away, In vain I weep, in vain I pray, What power Death's cruel hand can stay? Sweetheart, Sweetheart! Why, nothing but Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It imparts strength to the failing system, cures organic troubles, and for debilitated and feeble women generally, is unequalled. It dispels melancholy and nervousness and builds up both flesh and strength. Guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it refunded.

The executive boards of the Iron-molders' Union of North America and the International Brotherhood of Machinery Molders are about to hold a meeting in a city to be mutually decided upon, for the purpose of discussing their existing differences, with the ultimate end of amalgamating the unions. If this is accomplished 20,000 men, it is claimed, will be under the head of one international body. The former union has a large and growing local in this city.

For the Good of Others

Rev. Mr. Williams heartily endorses Hood's Sarsaparilla.

We are pleased to present this from Rev. A. A. Williams, of the Sillsbee street Christian Church, Lynn, Mass.:

"I see no reason why a clergyman, more than a layman, who knows whereof he speaks, should hesitate to approve an

and worth, from which he or his family have been signally benefited, and whose commendation may serve to extend those benefits to others by increasing their confidence. My wife has for many years been a sufferer from severe for which she found little help. She has tried many things that promised well but performed little. Last fall a friend gave her a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It seems surprising what a simple one bottle could do for her. The attacks of headache decreased in number and were less violent in their intensity, while her general health has been improved. Her appetite has also been better. From our experience with

Nervous Headache

Hood's Sarsaparilla

I have no hesitation in endorsing its merits." A. A. WILLIAMS.

Destruction of Field Pests.

A paragraph has been going the rounds of the papers concerning the measures adopted by Prof. Loeffler in attacking the mice plague in Thessalia. From further accounts it appears that the process is a remarkably simple one, and can be safely followed by any person of average intelligence, especially as the mixture is quite harmless—to human beings and domestic animals—such as dogs, cats, fowls, etc. A pint of water to which a tablespoonful of common salt has been added, is boiled and allowed to cool. One-third of a tube of myoktanine is then mixed with two-thirds of this liquid, well shaken, poured into a pan and thoroughly stirred. White bread is then cut into small slices, and after being thoroughly impregnated with the mixture, is ready to be laid about the runs and holes of the mice and rats. It is said that in less than a week the largest colony of these pests can in this way be absolutely destroyed. A more direct if less subtle exterminator for the Australian rabbit has been devised in the shape of a slowly burning cartridge, which produces a poisonous gas. The cartridge is placed in the burrows, the apertures are closed, and in a very few minutes the rabbits are destroyed by the power of the poison in the smoke.
