Edgely.

Mr. David Murray, who has been ailing for some time past, is able to be around again.... The Misses Anderson of Toronto spent a short time under the paternal roof in this place.... Mr. Jeremiah Smith, the apprentice at Thornhill Station, having acquired sufficient information as regards telegraph operating, is prepared to receive a situation.... Mr. James Brown, of Toronto, spent a short time among friends in this vicinity.... Mr. Henry Brown, of Toronto Junction, was in the village a few days ago.... Mr. D. Smith & Sons are about to commence making shingles. On account of the good sleighing last winter they have quire a number of logs in.... The Patrons of Industry are flourishing. They meet frequently to discuss matters and perform important financial business.... The recent storm that passed over here did considerable damage, almost totally destroying the bush.

Dollar.

The citizens of this place seem very much interested in THE LIBERAL since some items appeared in its columns.... Mr. E. Elson, of Toronto, was home last Sunday; we are glad to see Edward looking so well.... Mr. George Drury was the guest of Mr. P. W. Boynton, last Sunday.... Mrs. Wm. Foote was calling on her brother, Mr. A. Hoshel, Sunday afternoon.... Miss Ada Elson has returned from Toronto, after serving her term of apprenticeship as dressmaker.... Mr. Bert Oster received the honors of the club, as Champion Checker Player.... Some tanks have been put in and a meeting of the citizens will be called to organize a fire brigade.... We notice Tom is driving his team of Cleavelands. I expect Jack will get a rest now.... I think Yankee has been very fortunate in securing Prof. James to train his horse Pat, to saddle or sulky. It would be wise for the Smith to give his driver lately known as Headford Nell, into the hands of the Prof. George says she can go like the wind.... I advise Sir Oliver not to make too many promises for next Sunday, as an extra X disappoints others.

A Memento.

A pleasing memento of a daughter's affection arrived in the village yesterday from St. Joe, California. It was a beautiful bouquet composed of red, white and yellow roses, and other sweet-scented flowers freshly gathered from the garden. They were sent by Mrs. Bell, daughter of the late Mrs. Hopper, to be placed on her mother's grave.

Amalgamation of 2 stocks at the Concrete, and unprecedented Bargains are now to be had.

(Special)

We have not much to report about the progress of seeding, as it has received little attention in this vicinity yet. But other incidents force us to write.

Our people are always awake to the subject of public works. The roads have received their attention recently, but one of the most recent developments we have is the erection of a handsome new gate, which promises to stand for years. It will not be subject to such wrecking influences as the old one, since a post has been erected to tie the horse to. The only improvement we notice in the south ward is the shingling of Mr. Geo. Leek's house, but a scheme for the projection of sidewalk is now absorbing the minds of our town fathers.

One of our respected citizens has blessed himself with a new wagon, and another with a road cart.

Mr. Dumond's cattle sale at Markham Village was a success.

There was no service here Sunday night, but most of the young people went to "meeting" just the same. A "quartette" took part in the services at Bunker Hill, but at most of the other churches there were only "duets."

The Olympic games were celebrated last week and the palm was carried off by one of the fair sex. The vanquished Atheuian attributed his defeat to a hindrance caused by a superfluous growth on his upper lip, and has since had it removed.

We are pleased to have Miss E. Craig with us again.

Mr. and Mrs. Rumble, of Patterson, were guests of Mrs. Thomson on Tuesday last.

The Misses Trudgeon spent a few days of last week with their sister at the Elms.
