

AN ARKANSAS MIRACLE.

A Remarkable Story of Interest to Every Woman.

A Young Woman Who Was Literally Fading Away—Physicians Pronounced Her Case Hopeless—How she was Saved.

From the Arkansas Democrat.

The story of renewed health told in the following article has been carefully investigated by the Democrat, and is of the deepest interest to all parents. The condition of Miss Clements is that of thousands of girls in our land, whose health and vitality is slowly but surely being sapped away. Pale, listless and sorrowful meet us on every side, and unless the same prompt measures are taken as in the case of Miss Clements, a premature grave is the inevitable result. Lulu Clements, the nineteen year old daughter of Mrs. Cora V. Clements, one of the most prominent residents of Lonoke, Ark., was attacked with a mysterious, wasting disease over a year ago, and despite the strenuous efforts of the local physicians she continued to grow worse. Her blood had turned to water, she suffered intense agony, and was almost ready to give up life when relief came. Her story is best told as related by her mother to a Democrat reporter:—

In the fall of 1892 my daughter began to show signs that some disease was wrecking her system. Despite the constant attention of local physicians she grew worse. Her complexion was pale, and she became almost as white as marble. She complained of heart palpitation. Her feet and hands were cold, and she was almost driven into hysterics by racking headaches and backaches and shortness of breath and other distressing symptoms. All these conditions betokened anemia or in other words watery and impoverished condition of the blood, which could not perform the functions of nature. She had no appetite; for many days she did not eat enough for a child to subsist on.

Her condition grew from bad to worse, and becoming alarmed, I sent her to prominent physicians in Virginia, Tennessee and Little Rock. All efforts of this nature to regain her health proved fruitless. Patent medicines of many kinds were tried and given thorough test, but without any apparent effect towards improving the patient.

"Myself and daughter had almost given up in despair, having almost concluded that a restoration of her health was an impossibility. In the Arkansas Democrat I espied an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, which claimed that they would give ready relief to persons suffering from a disease the symptoms of which were the same as in the case of my daughter. I purchased some of the pills, and commenced giving my daughter three pills a day. Before the first box had been taken an improvement was noticed. Color in her face was noticed, and her appetite returned. The terrible headaches and backaches ceased and she could breathe more freely. When the fourth box had been taken she was entirely well, and since then has enjoyed excellent health. She is now robust and full of life, making our family happy once more. Quite a contrast to the situation six months ago, when everybody thought she would die.

"I think 'Pink Pills' the best medicine in the world for the blood, and have recommended them to several citizens of this place, who have been restored to health by its use. Mrs. Henry Brown was in a very bad condition. She tried the Pink Pills, when she improved rapidly and is now a very healthy woman."

The discoverer of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People certainly deserves the highest tribute that pen can frame. His medicine has done more to alleviate the sufferings of humanity than any other medicine known to science, and his name should be handed down to future generations as the greatest savior to the present age.

Druggists say that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have an enormous sale, and from all quarters come glowing reports of results following their use. In very many cases the good work has been accomplished after eminent physicians have failed, and pronounced the patient beyond the hope of human aid. An analysis shows that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood, and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, nervous prostration; all diseases depending upon vitiated humors in the blood such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shape) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company from either address.

The numerical strength of the Church of England in England has been estimated at 13,750,000. The members of the Anglican Church in the United States number about 1,650,000.

They poulticed her feet and poulticed her head. And blistered her back till 'twas smarting and red. Tried tonics, elixirs, pain-killers and salves. (Though grandma declared it was nothing but "nerves.") The poor woman thought she must certainly die. Till "Favorite Prescription" she happened to try.—

No wonder its praises so loudly they speak; She grew better at once and was well in a week. The torturing pains and distressing nervousness which accompany, at times, certain forms of female weakness, yield like magic to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and adapted to the delicate organization of woman. It allays and subdues the nervous symptoms and relieves the pain accompanying functional and organic trouble. Guaranteed printed on bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

NATURE'S LOVE MAKING.

Birds and Insects Must Put on Frills When Courting.

The wooing of birds is most refined and graceful. Love tunes their respective pipes, and they seek to captivate their mates by their sweetest notes and most varied warblings.

The wood pigeon charms his lady-love by a series of aerial evolutions and a curious flopping of his strong winged feathers, puffing his breast and tenderly cooing.

At mating time the plumage of male birds is more handsome than at any other period—indeed, some birds assume different color in the spring.

Yellow-hammers charm their mates by displaying their tail feathers in the form of a fan; starlings chatter in the sunshine to show the metallic beauty of their breast feathers, and swallows circle and double in graceful flight before their lady-loves.

Bright shells, flowers, feathers and grasses are laid by the bower bird at the entrance of his partner's retreat; and tiny humming birds woo most assiduously, showing off their lovely hues and engaging in fierce combat with a possible rival, even bringing nectar from choice flowers for the delectation of their fairy brides.

Hen birds exhibit all the vagaries of their sex, and pretend to be indifferent to the exertions of their admirers.

Frogs have an original way of lovemaking, and as soon as evening shades fall, commence to croak loudly to their mates, sometimes great numbers of them combining in one unmusical chorus.

Courting among insects is often a very elaborate affair. A male spider will approach a female and will amuse her for some time with his antics. It is said that he twirls around and around, crosses his legs, erects his body and executes a sort of mazy dance to excite her admiration.

She is a very vicious lady and not always pleased with his lovemaking; sometimes he finds himself obliged to ward her off, for she has a painful mode of showing her displeasure, and it she entirely disapproves of his attentions will fall upon him and rend him to pieces.

One species of spider is said to have a novel way of making love, the sexes communicating by means of strands of web stretching from one retreat to the other—a sort of telephone, so to speak.

Glow worms, according to some naturalists, use their luminaries as love signals. The females of one species seat themselves among the grass, while the males, attracted by the light, dance attendance round them.

Concerning fishes—the sticklebacks occasionally resort to harsh treatment, attacking the females with open mouths and erected spines. As husbands their behaviour is certainly eccentric, for after the female has deposited her eggs within the nest that he has prepared for her, her lord and master drives her away and proceeds to hatch them himself.

To Deal With Drunkards.

The British Parliament has before it the report of a committee recommending a much more drastic method of dealing with drunkards than British law now permits. This committee was appointed under the Salisbury Government and has among its members several eminent physicians and the superintendent of the Broadmore Criminal Lunatic Asylum. Under an act passed in 1879 there were established some retreats or reformatories for the treatment and cure of drunkards, who chose to go to them voluntarily. This committee finds that a considerable portion of the drunkards who enter these reformatories are cured and that more would be if they would remain longer; therefore, they recommend that Parliament give magistrates the power to send these dipsomaniacs to these retreats for a period not exceeding two years. This commitment may be made on petition of the relatives of the inebriate or at the discretion of the magistrate, and it subjects the drunkard to a rigorous discipline and close confinement if necessary. A drunkard may still be admitted to these retreats on his own petition, but once in he must stay there until discharged as cured. He may select his own retreat whether sentenced or voluntarily going there, and such property as he has would be liable for his and his family's maintenance during his confinement. The poorer classes are to be provided for from the public treasury or in public asylums. The semi-criminal class of habitual drunkards with whom the police have to deal are to be subject to an indeterminate sentence, which shall not be less than a year, upon their third conviction for drunkenness or being proved guilty of ill-treatment or neglect of their families. It is also proposed to give the police in the large towns and cities the power to arrest without a warrant all persons found drunk on the public streets or in public places and lock them up until they can be tried before a magistrate. These last suggestions of the committee are regarded as bold and almost revolutionary, for the right of the Briton to be drunk on the streets has been regarded as an inalienable one. Public sentiment is said, however, to approve the recommendations of this committee which are largely based on the legislation in force in several of our States, and they are likely to be enacted by the Commons and probably by the Lords also.

Farming in England.

In times of commercial depression and social distress, Englishmen constantly make proposals for settling all their social troubles by getting the people "back to the land." There is a good deal of cant in the cry, and the people who make use of it do not know exactly what they mean. The remarkable fact is that the people are everywhere leaving the land and crowding to the towns. This is one of the greatest drawbacks to modern civilization. It applies not only to Europe generally, and to America, but also to new countries like Argentina, Brazil, South Africa, and Australia. The people prefer an urban to a rural life because the former supplies them with a large amount of interest and excitement, and also because they obtain better remuneration for their labor in towns than they do in agricultural districts. A great portion of the recent trouble in Australia has been in consequence of the people crowding to the cities and leaving the land. But the purpose of our remark was to show that even if the people were to get back to the land in England they would not find its cultivation a very profitable business. Some people have often urged co-operative societies to engage in the cultivation of land as well as in retail shop trading. They are the best able to do this, because they can find a market for their own produce. A Manchester co-operative society, not long ago, took an estate of 400 acres from Lord Vernon, and agreed to pay him £600 a year for it. The society, however, has never yet been able to make a profit by its cultivation. The total loss last year alone amounted to something like £4,000. The farm is largely a dairy farm, although some portions of it is arable. This is one of the numberless illustrations of how even men with unstinted capital at their command are not able to make farming pay in an era of low prices, high wages, and keen competition.

Harvest Slumber Song.

Sleep, little baby, sleep, sleep, sleep, Red is the moon in the night's still deep, White are the stars with their silver wings Folded in dreamings of beautiful things, And over their cradle the night wind sings Sleep, little baby, sleep, sleep, sleep.

Soft in the lap of the mother night, The wee baby stars, all glowing and bright, Flutter their silver wings and crow To the watchful winds that kiss as they blow Round the air-cradle that swings so low Down in the lap of the mother night.

Sleep, little baby, sleep, sleep, sleep, Red is the moon in the night's still deep, And the wee baby stars are all folded and kissed.

In a luminous cradle of silver mist; And ever they waken the wind-cry, Whist, Sleep, little baby, sleep, sleep, sleep.

—[William Wilfred Campbell.]

Mr. S. G. Derry.

I spent trying to find a cure for SALT RHEUM, which I had 13 years. Physicians said they never saw so severe a case. My legs, back and arms were covered by the humor. I was unable to lie down in bed, could not walk without crutches, and had to have my arms, back and legs bandaged twice a day. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon I could see a change. The flesh became more healthy, the sores soon healed, the scales fell off, I was soon able to give up bandages and crutches, and a happy man I was. I had been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for seven months; and since that time, 2 years, I have worn no bandages whatever, and my legs and arms are sound and well." S. G. DERRY, 45 Bradford St., Providence, R. I.

"German Syrup"

Martinsville, N.J., Methodist Parsonage. "My acquaintance with your remedy, Boschee's German Syrup, was made about fourteen years ago, when I contracted a Cold which resulted in a Hoarseness and a Cough which disabled me from filling my pulpit for a number of Sabbaths. After trying a Physician, without obtaining relief—I cannot say now what remedy he prescribed—I saw the advertisement of your remedy and obtained a bottle. I received such quick and permanent help from it that whenever we have had Throat or Bronchial troubles since in our family, Boschee's German Syrup has been our favorite remedy and always with favorable results. I have never hesitated to report my experience of its use to others when I have found them troubled in like manner." REV. W. H. HAGGARTY, of the Newark, New Jersey, M.E. Conference, April 25, '90.
