Our Ottawa Letter.

Once more quiet reigns in the great council chamber, the House of Commons, and until parliament meets again the duty of educating public opinion, of awakening the people to the form of government they are actually living under, devolves upon the press. The one must be taken up where our representatives in parliament left off on the day of prorogation.

There are many who, no doubt, are disappointed, who expected greater things of the Liberals this session. There are many who had pictured a political cyclone for the ordinary gust of wind; the ordinary breath of scandal, no longer impresses them; they have become calloused and hardened that they are only to be aroused by a political earthquake of force sufficient to make the parliament buildings tremble. We were visited with several shocks this session, yet apart from the few Liberals who nobly held the fort here the House paid little heed to them.
If the Tories experienced any fear they brazened it out. False courage is a Tory characteristic. They feel they are strongly entrenched behind a big majority, with lots of boodle extorted from the contractor (a la St. Louis) and the manufacturer to keep them supplied with ammunition, in the shape of votes, and they defy their opponents to dislodge them.

Although greatly outnumbered, in a fair, open fight, both armed with the same weapons, the coterie of Liberals would soon gain possession of the field. It must not be thought that because there has been no grand upheaval this session there has been no impression made on the Government's entrenchments. What more forcible evidence of incapacity and dishonest government is required than the plain unvarnished facts brought out in the Curran Bridge scandal, for in the evidence and disclosures in this case the Liberals secured a moral victory, a moral conviction, on both charges—incapacity and dishonesty—although by physical force, by the strength of their big majority, the Government rallied their followers and declared themselves "not guilty."

Read the official printed reports of the proceedings of the Curran Bridge investigation and note what contractor St.
Louis, a cousin of the Minister of Public Works, said:—
Mr. Haggart—Where are your account books?
Mr. St. Louis—They have been destroyed.
Mr. Haggart—Where is your cash book?
Mr. St. Louis—It has been destroyed.
I did not want to show what I paid for election purposes.

Subsequently St. Louis swore he had contributed over $2,500 to the Vaudreuil elections to help the Government's candidate. Was it honest of the Government to pay St. Louis a quarter of a million dollars in excess of the estimated cost of the work to enable him to launch out to assist them in their elections? Is it fair to the Liberal population of the country that the taxes they pay should be used to defeat them, killed with their own money every time. When the Minister of Railways declared he did not know this big steal was going on in his department he showed his incapacity to act as guardian of our public affairs. John Haggart, however, is not the man to bet on his hand without knowing what cards he holds. Probably the strongest proof of the Government's incapacity, in this case, was in showing their incapacity to conceal the facts and prevent the exposure of this gigantic robbery, the Curran Bridge steal.

The ministers are all packing up for their holidays and for a time little executive work will be done at Ottawa. Of course the machine goes on but any wire pulling will have to be done on the side.
The recent honor conferred to Clarke Wallace in London by the Orange order in giving him a second term, will greatly strengthen his claim to a position in the Cabinet. He towers high above Mackenzie Bowell now and his friends think that the time has arrived for Mr. Bowell to make way for younger blood.

Sir John Thompson is in a very trying position. He does not wish to offend Mr. Bowell and he knows he requires Clarke Wallace to keep Ontario in line.
Talking about Mackenzie Bowell it was thought he would have certainly received his knighthood long before this.
The colonial conference is over and there is no "Sir Mackenzie" yet. When he was passed over on the Queen's birthday it was said he would surely have his title when the conference was over, for the active part he took in bringing the colonial delegates together, but he is only plain every day Mackenzie Bowell today. It was expected he would take a trip to the old country to meet with the colonial delegates there but Sir Adolph Caron got ahead of him and Sir John Thompson has sent his Postmaster-General to London instead of his Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Everything points to the early retirement of Angers from the cabinet. He wants to go on the Supreme Court bench, but Judge Fournier, whom he was to succeed does not now want to step out.

The bill to allow the judges to retire on full pay was not pressed this session, and the passing of the act was the condition upon which three of the Superior Court judges had agreed to retire. The Liberals opposed the bill, for they did not see the necessity of adding to the burdens of taxation at this moment. There was a time when the Government would not yield a point to the Opposition. They are relaxing. Why?

OUR LACROSSE TEAM WHITEWASHES AURORA—3 TO 0.

Last Saturday our lacrosse team went up to Aurora to see what sort of a showing they could make against the team of that place, and succeeded in winning three straight games. The score, however, is not an indication of the game, as it was by no means one-sided, but spirited and hotly contested throughout.

There was a fair sized crowd in attendance at the game, which was played in the park. The Aurora people, of course, cheered the home team, but the spectators from Newmarket gave their cheers and encouragement to the visiting team.
When time was called the teams lined up as follows:—

RICHMOND HILL.	AURORA.
P. Powell.....Goal.....	W. Cherry
G. Glover.....Point.....	J. Mosley
J. Glass.....Cover Point.....	J. Yule
W. Savage.....	W. Lyons
F. Sims.....Defence Field.....	G. Cherry
W. Hall.....	E. Yule
G. Cooper.....Centre.....	B. Machel
T. Trench.....	W. Evans
W. Trench.....Home Field.....	A. Lloyd
A. Shierk.....	C. Boynton
J. Sanderson.....Outside Home.....	E. Yule
C. Lyons.....Inside Home.....	J. Ough
C. McLean.....Captain.....	G. McDonald
H. McDonald.....Umpire.....	A. Ashton
H. Lennox, Referee.

In the first game Cooper got the ball at the face-off, and passed it to T. Trench, who passed it to W. Trench, he passed to Sanderson who scored; time, $\frac{1}{4}$ of a minute. But Aurora was not prepared for anything so swift as this and had no umpire behind the flags, therefore the goal was not allowed. The umpire being put in his place the game was again started.
This game was very hotly contested, both teams playing to win, and when play had continued for some time Sims, of the Hill team, got hurt. This caused some delay, but finally Sims went between the flags and P. Powell took his place on the defence, and after 20 minutes play W.
Trench scored for the Hill.

The second game was a long one, and from one cause or another there were a good many stoppages. The ball travelled up and down the field pretty often, first Richmond Hill's flags would be in danger and then Aurora's. This continued for 25 minutes when Lyons did the necessary for the Hill.

The third game, like the other two, went to the credit of the Hill, J. Sanderson doing the scoring.

There was still some time left to play, so the teams played out their full time to give Aurora a chance to score, if they could, but when time was up neither team had scored, so this left the result 3 straights for Richmond Hill.

The teams so far as weight was concerned were evenly matched, if anything Aurora had the heavier team. Aurora had a strong defence or the score might have been larger than it was. The Hill boys played good lacrosse throughout and well earned their victory.

After the match the Aurora team entertained the visiting team to supper at Lemon's hotel.

Listen! Have you tasted the great new Tea, called Kalala Ceylon Tea? It's beautiful. If you call at Dilworth's Drug Store you can get a sample carton of it for nothing. It's the best and cheapest Tea we ever used.

after having been in the water about four weeks. The bodies were so disfigured as to be totally unrecognizable. A large number followed the remains to Humber-vale cemetery, where the Rev. Chas.
Inglis read a short and impressive service.
