Our thoughts are plants that never flourish in inhospitable soils or chilling atmospheres. Beef-Eating in Japan.

Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y.

A Japanese writer says: - "When I was a young boy, the custom of eating beef began to spread. As blood was regarded as unclean, and also as Japan had been a strong agricultural country, there was a deep-rooted disinclination to eat beef. In this, o course, one has also to recognize the influence of the vegetarian principle of Buddhism. But to anybody who had ever tasted beef, it was so delicious that he could hardly control his natural appetite by his religious scruple. My father was one of those who knew its taste, se now and then we used to treat ourselves to beef. But where did we eat it; We did not eat it inside of the house. We cooked it and ate it in the open air, and in cooking and in eating we did not use the ordinary utensils, but used the special ones kept for the purpose. Why all these things? Because beef was unclean, and we did not like to spread its uncleanness into our house, wherein the 'god-shelf' is kept, and into our ordinary utensils, which might be used in making offerings to the gods. The day when we ate beef my father did not offer lights to the gods nor say evening prayers to them, as he did usually, for he knew he was unclean and could not approach the gods."

Who Was the Goose?

If, before beginning a sentence, people would stop to see just how they are coming out, they would often put what they have to say into different words.

A lady had been looking for a friend for a long time without success. Finally she came upon her in an unexpected place. "Well," she exclaimed, "I've been on a perfect wild goose chase all day long; but "Be-because you stopped." [No cards.] thank goodness, I've found you at last."

Dr. Laviolette's Syrup of Turpentine? URPENTINE is a volatile essence extracted from the health giving pine tree. Its effects when used as a lotion or liniment are well known, but though long recognized as pessessed of wonderful healing properties its too stimulating action on the digestive organs and kidneys has prevented its use as an internal remedy. How to prepare it, rendering it safe and easy to take as a medicine, while still preserving its curative principles, has been a puzzle to chemists for generations. This chemical enigma has at last been solved by Dr. Laviolette after numerous experiments and an experience of 25 years as a practical chemist. He has succeeded in compounding a syrup whose active principle is turpentine, with all its curative and health giving properties intact, but with its irritating effects neutralized and removed. By the use of Dr. LAVIOLETTE'S SYRUP of TURPENTINE the cause of the malady is from the first attacked. No narcotics or poisons enter into its composition, it is as safe for the youngest child as for the robust and healthy man. It does not drugthe patient and trust to nature for a cure, but the wonderful healing balm of the turpentine is carried in the blood right to the sore spot which it at once soothes and a permanent cure is the result.

BEWARE .- Since the great success of DR. LAVIOLETE'S SYRUP OF TURPENTINE Many unscrupulous persons offer for sale, or prepare for their own use, a concoction of syrup and raw spirits of turpentine, which dangerous imitation they palm off as "the same" or "just as good."
