Charity.

To the Editor of THE LIBERAL:

DEAR SIR.—I take the liberty to write you a few lines complimenting the ladies of Richmond Hill for their kind remembrance of the poor. I am extremely glad to know that their entertainment in the shape of a carnival on Tuesday night last, to raise money for those in their village who are less fortunate than themselves, met with the hearty approval of the public, while I here desire to express my sincere appreciation of their good work, and my fervent hope that the giver of all gifts will bless and reward them for it.

Indeed it is edifying to know that the teachings of Christ are not only believed, but also put into practice. The first fruit of the Holy Spirit is charity—to feed the hungry, to give drink to the thirsty, to clothe the naked, to ransom the captive, to harbor the harborless, to visit the sick, and to bury the dead. In this charity there is no distinction. Every child of Adam, difference of race, language, creed, or personal merit, authorizes no distinction, and furthermore, this charity or love of your neighbor is determined by the scriptural words, "He that hath the substance of this world, and shall see his brother in need, and shall shut up his bowels from him, how doth the charity of God abide in him?" I rejoice to think that doctrines of this nature are bringing forth in your well-ordered village in no stinted measure works of living charity.

Charity puts on the highest value a human act can claim. It is the tribute of pure disinterested personal love from the Redeemed to the Redeemer. The Saviour of the world appears personified in the poor and in the sick. Their own merits or demerits sink out of sight, their faces shine with the beauty of Christ, their wants are the wants of Christ, and their words of gratitude to us are the words of Christ. "Amen, I say to you, long as you did it to one of these my least brethren, you did it to me."

If those who are blessed with this world's goods realized the true meaning of charity, to my mind there would be less misery and distress in the world. We do not do our duty by paying a tax to the state, or a committee to stand proxy for us, then omitting ourselves to come in contact with the poor. Charity is a love for the victim of sorrow, and love demands personal attention. It is the mission of christian charity to benefit both the giver and the receiver, and indeed the one that is the more benefited is the giver, whose nature is softened, refined by the exercise of the virtue—in whose heart pride and egotism are cut short by the sight of suffering and misery among his fellowmen. It is this personal charity let it be said that will prevent the estrangement of classes in society, and save us from social disruption that is likely to threaten us in these times.

These thoughts, my dear Mr. Editor, have been suggested to me by the charitable conduct of the ladies of Richmond Hill. I feel in my heart that all christian people will praise them for what they have done, and will ever pray that the work of benevolence will be compensated for by Him who, while he was on earth, clothed with our humanity, was the poorest of the poor, but who will not allow a cup of cold water given in His name to pass without its reward.

I remain, yours sincerely,

A SUBSCRIBER,
Thornhill, Feb 13th, 1851.

Edgely

There was a time when Edgely could boast of a live correspondent to our local paper, but of late he must have "gone west," so we are bound to look to our surrounding news correspondents for news items. We are not all dead, however, although pretty well snowed over just at present. Times are not overly brisk either around here especially during the past few weeks as it is impossible to move around. Every man you see carries a shovel with him to dig his way through the drifts, which are over the fences.

Mr. Winger has been busy hauling logs to Toronto. Our blacksmith is doing well, and our merchant is getting his share of the trade. Our hotel keeper keeps everything neat, clean and orderly, and the worthy hostess sustains her reputation for getting up a meal second to no landlady in the county. The public school has a large attendance this winter, and everything is running smoothly. The grist-mill, also, is kept busy, and turns out good work.

The population of this place is increasing, and to use an original (!) expression, Mr. Alfred Smith "now wears a bland smile, because he is the happy father of a bouncing baby boy."

We had no mail from Friday until Tuesday, and the baker had to give us the go by for several days, so bad were the roads. It is hard to get along without the staff of life, and the baker's patrons were pleased when he made his appearance.

Teston

The social and entertainment in connection with the Methodist Church has been postponed until Tuesday next, the 19th of February.

One of our esteemed townsmen in the person of Mr. James Malloy, was married on Wednesday of last week to Miss Gibson, daughter of Fullerton Gibson, Esq., of the 2nd con. Vaughan. The married couple is worthy of every happiness in their journey through life.

One of our neighbors has gone extensively into the purchase of seed potatoes.

A grand entertainment consisting of orations, recitals and songs, will be given in Teston Methodist Church on Friday, Feb'y 15th, at 7.30 p. m. Mr. J. J. Wesley Simpson and daughters, of Toronto, will be present.

One of Mr. John Vandenburg's sons got badly frozen while going to school on Wednesday of last week. It will be some time before he will be able to attend school again.

Mr. James Blackie, of Toronto, is visiting friends in Maple.

News Notes.

La Gascoyne, which was 8 days overdue, has arrived safely at New York.

Two disastrous railway wrecks occurred on Friday. Near Weston on the G. T. R., Mr. F. Joseph, of Toronto, was killed, and several others seriously injured. Near Unionville, on the Midland, the engineer lost his life, and others were badly hurt. In the first case the head train was stuck in a snow drift when the following train ploughed into it. On the Midland, a train ran into a snow plow.
