

ALONE IN LIFE.

The World of To-Day Is Not Unlike a Great Establishment.

A visitor to a woolen mill in a manufacturing town was impressed by the order with which the great bodies of men and women were drilled to perform their separate tasks. There was no jarring or confusion. Each class filled its special duty. The owner of the mill named each division of workers to his guest and the wages paid to them.

Presently the stranger saw a woman standing apart, idle but watchful. A boy at the bobbins held up his hand. She hurried to him and took his place while he went out. When he came back she stood again watching. A weaver at a hand loom tangled his thread. She patiently unraveled the knot. She kept tally for a clerk who was counting packages of finished work. She tied a broken thread here or picked out a flaw there.

"What is that woman?" asked the visitor. "Oh, only a supply," was the careless answer. "She is general helper. The looms must not stop. She is ready to help any worker who needs help."

"But she has nothing to show as her work on Saturday night?" "No; but she is paid her wages. She earns them," said the owner of the mill, significantly.

The stranger, when he had left the great mill, thought that the world in these later days was not unlike such an establishment. A great deal of good work is done in it, and done usually by drilled workers, who move together. Every profession and trade has its organization; there are countless busy guilds and clubs, artistic, charitable, and religious.

But here and there is a lonely woman who has not even family ties. She is an invalid, or poor and single. Possibly she is the grandmother, whose companions have died and left her stranded in a young, gay world. She is the maiden aunt, who is asked to make long visits in the house of her kinsfolk, and who nurses or cooks or sews for them without wages and sometimes without thanks.

Or she is the elder sister, who still feels herself young, but who is left at home when picnics or parties are given. These women will never, perhaps, belong to any large class of workers. They always will be "supplies." They are ordered to give a helpful touch here, a word there, that the looms may not stop. They will have nothing, perhaps, to show as their own work in the end.

But they will have earned their wages and will be paid them by Him who "came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

An Old Rhyme Reset.

"Affliction sore long time she bore
Physicians were in vain."
At last one day, a friend did say,
"You'd soon be well again"

if you would take, as I did, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for that is the cure for all the peculiar ailments of women. It is a safe, simple and sure remedy. It banishes those distressing maladies that make woman's life a burden, curing all painful irregularities, uterine disorders, inflammations and ulceration, prolapsus and kindred weaknesses. As a nerve it cures nervous exhaustion, prostration, debility, relieves mental anxiety and hypochondria and induces refreshing sleep. She took the advice and is well. "Favorite Prescription" is the only remedy for the delicate derangements and weaknesses of females, sold by druggists. A pamphlet free. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease because it is liable to result in loss of hearing or smell, or develop into consumption. Read the following:

"My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years and the disease had gone so far that her eyesight was affected so that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered severe pains in the head and at times was almost distracted. About Christmas, she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it." W. H. HOPE WAS APANDONED.

The Peculiar Case of Mrs. Hill, of Winchester.

The Doctor Told Her That Her Trouble was Consumption of the Bowels—There Was No Hope of Recovery—But Health Was Almost Miraculously Restored.

From the Morrisburg Herald.

Mrs. Hill, wife of RMr. Robt. Hill, of Winchester, not many months ago was looked upon as one whose days were numbered. Today she is a handsome healthy woman showing no traces of her former desperate condition, and it is therefore little wonder that her case has created a profound sensation in the neighborhood. To a reporter, who called upon her Mrs. Hill expressed a willingness to give the story of her illness and recovery for publication, and she told it with an earnestness that conveyed to the listener better than mere words could do, her deep gratitude to the medicine which had brought about her restoration to health and strength. "I feel," she said "almost like one raised from the dead, and my case seems to me little short of miraculous. About a year ago I was confined and shortly after I was taken with cancer in the mouth, and suffered terribly. Although I had good medical attendance I did not seem to get better. In fact other complications set in which seemed fast hurrying me to the grave. I grew weaker and weaker until at last I was confined to bed, where I lay for three months. My bowels were in a terrible condition, and at last the doctor said he could do no more for me as with the other complications I had consumption of the bowels. My limbs and face became terribly swollen, my heart became weak and my blood seemed to have turned to water. I became simply an emaciated living skeleton. At last the doctor told me that I was beyond the aid of human skill, and that further attendance on his part would do no good. One day, some time later my friends stood around my bedside thinking every moment to see me breathe my last, but I rallied, and at the urgent solicitation of a friend it was decided at this apparently hopeless juncture to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. In less than two weeks a slight improvement had taken place, and from that out I slowly but surely progressed toward recovery, until, as you can see for yourself, I am once more a healthy woman. It is impossible for me to express how grateful I feel towards Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which under God's blessing has restored me to health and family and friends. I feel that the world should know my story, so that some other suffering sister may be able to find health in the medicine which I believe will never fail."

The experience of years has proved that there is absolutely no disease due to a vitiated condition of the blood or shattered nerves, that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will not promptly cure, and those who are suffering from such troubles would avoid much misery and save money by promptly resorting to this treatment. Get the genuine Pink Pills every time and do not be persuaded to take an imitation or some other remedy from a dealer, who, for the sake of the extra profit to himself, may say is "just as good." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make rich, red blood, and cure when other medicines fail.

CARE OF CREAM.

After the milk has been carefully skimmed, the cream should be kept in a covered can with the temperature somewhat below fifty degrees, and stirred well each time fresh cream is added.

If the temperature of the milk room or cellar is not down to fifty degrees, the cream should be set in ice water, if it is separator or shallow-pan cream; but, if it is from deep setting cans raised with ice, there should be no difficulty in keeping it perfectly sweet in an ordinary cellar, because the temperature is low when the cream is taken from the milk. If the cream is cared for in this way, there will be no complaints about sour cream before it is wanted, and, if the farmer is a patron of a creamery, he will have done his duty in supplying the butter-maker with the raw material in prime condition for making gift-edge butter. Cream should never be set in open crocks or pails in cellars, pantries, or any other place where the air is not pure, nor where the temperature is above sixty degrees, as it is sure to sour and will often be in churning condition before it is wanted. When the cream can be emptied, it should be thoroughly washed and scalded and placed where it will get plenty of fresh, pure air before it is again needed.

ODD USE OF TURTLES.

There is a queer industry in London. It is the renting of live turtles by the day to restaurants. In a restaurant window will be seen a live turtle, indicating, apparently, that the turtle soup served within is genuine. The fact is that the turtle works by the day, and passes its contented life by being sent from one restaurant to another, earning money in this peripatetic way for its owner. A turtle in the window of a London restaurant does not indicate that genuine turtle soup is served to patrons. It simply means that the turtle is doing an easy day's work, which consists, in its ultimate analysis, of furnishing the public with a false impression.

Ryckman's Kootenay Cure.

Positive Cure for Rheumatism and Paralysis.

A Roman Catholic Priest at Ottawa Makes an Important Investigation.

Archbishop's Palace, Ottawa, 8th November, 1895.

Mr. S. S. Ryckman, M.P., Hamilton.

My Dear Sir,—In order to comply with your request, I visited no less than twenty-six persons of different ages and conditions residing in our city who had used your medicine called "Kootenay Cure." Upon my enquiry, some informed me that after suffering atrociously for many years from rheumatism under one form or another, they had obtained considerable relief from the above-named medicine, and were using it yet with the firm hope and almost certainty that in the near future all the painful effects would disappear. Others told me that they had been cured completely, felt no more pains, could digest perfectly, sleep soundly, had regained their lost weight, so much so that they could be said to have resuscitated and to have been transformed into new men. I met with five cases of skin diseases, where the medicine has produced wonderful results, especially in one case of at least nine years' standing. In several cases of Rheumatism and Paralysis eminent physicians, after careful study, has pronounced the case incurable. As rheumatism is such a common ailment, and as doctors have always much difficulty in overcoming it, I think it is quite proper to make known such a remarkable medicine to poor suffering humanity. I am pleased to have the occasion of recommending it to the public of the capital. Wishing you further success in your undertaking, believe me sir

Yours respectfully,
Eugene Groulx.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J.
