The Liberal.

RICHMOND HILL, Thursday, June 18, '96

Before our next issue the election agony will be all over. If the electors have learned wisdom—and we believe they have—they will make the following changes in the ministerial slate: Haggart will be replaced by Sir Oliver Cartwright; Wood by Sir Richard Cartwright; Wood by Mills; Tisdale by Patterson; Angus by Laurier; Desjardine by Sir Henry Jolly; Taillon by Senator Pelletier; Ives by Fisher; Sir Chas. Tupper by Davies; Dickey by Blair; Costigan by Fielding; Foster by Borden.

As regards Prior and Hugh John Macdonald, Mr. Laurier would not find it difficult to fill their places with men of at least equal ability and integrity. It will, I feel certain, strike the average elector that the change will not be an unhappy one for the country.

Sir Chas. Tupper, as Sir John Macdonald's lieutenant, in 1878 promised you that if you would forget all about the Pacific scandal and return a Conservative government to power they would run the country without taking a dollar more out of the pockets of the people than the Liberals were taxing you, and that in ten years the National debt would be reduced to $100,000,000. You trusted him and this is the result: annual expenditure increased from $23,000,000 to $38,000,000; national debt increased from $140,000,000 to $250,000,000. He also told you the Pacific scandal had taught them a lesson and that there would be no more political scandals. Are you satisfied that Sir Chas. has kept his promise.

There should be a fine on lacrosse clubs who disregard the rules by which they should be governed. At the two championship matches played in Richmond Hill this season the visitors arrived without the necessary certificates for their players and consequently the home team won by default. The neglect is no fault of our boys, but it is an injury to them, as spectators will not attend matches if they think they are only to see exhibition games. When the Richmond Hill team goes to neighboring towns to play their championship matches they will faithfully fulfil their part of the contract, and they should expect fair treatment in return.

The Mail-Empire of yesterday states that Mr. Rodgers, the Patron candidate who was elected in Frontenac by acclamation on Tuesday, is a supporter of the Government, being "in hearty sympathy with the National Policy." This is sheer stupidity as no Patron can be in sympathy with the National Policy. There is a plank in the Patron platform diametrically opposite to high protection.

Sir Charles Tupper, the great I, is well named. To a World reporter last Sunday he said that his triumphal march through the country knocked any of the late Sir John Macdonald's tours higher than Gilray's kite. Sir Charles Tupper has no mean opinion of himself.

In the law suit last Saturday between Mr. A. McKay and Mr. D. McMillan, of this place, the latter was defeated and has to pay $75 and costs.

On Sunday a load of our young people went to Nobleton to visit their friends, Mr. Wm. Breerton and family, formerly of this place.

Three evenings every week can be heard "The loud laugh that speaks the vacant mind," when the boys and girls assemble in the school yard to play ball and other innocent games.

Mr. J. Atkinson, a local preacher from Edgely, occupied the pulpit here last Sunday and preached an excellent sermon.

Mr. C. McMahon and family, of Hillsdale, have moved into Mrs. J. Vanderburgh's house at the corner.

West York Nomination.

A NOISY CROWD AT WESTON.—THE CANDIDATES ARE PLATT, BROWN AND WALLACE.

Nomination of candidates for West York took place on Tuesday in Dufferin Hall, Weston. After waiting from 12 until 2 o'clock, Returning Officer Dr. Rowe announced the following nominations:—Samuel Platt, John Brown and N. Clarke Wallace.

As it was found that the hall was not nearly large enough to accommodate the crowd, an adjournment was made to the grove directly west of The Eagle Hotel. As Mr. Wallace had secured the grounds he claimed the right to dictate as to who should speak first. His proposition was that Messrs. Platt and Brown should speak first, and then he would follow. This not proving satisfactory, Mr. Wallace said he would allow the former to again speak and close the meeting.

After a good deal of parleying Mr. Brown mounted a wagon which served as a temporary platform, and addressed the electors. He spoke with a good deal more force than he had ever before displayed in the contest, and received a tolerably fair hearing. He declared himself in favor of strictly secular schools for Manitoba, believing that to be the easiest solution of the troublesome question. He considered that although Mr. Laurier was a Frenchman and a Catholic he had taken a manly stand in resisting the coercion of the province, and as long as he kept on that line he would get his support. Mr. Brown also stood for tariff reform as advocated by Mr. Laurier, and contended that Mr. Wallace had done practically nothing for West York during all the time he was member. Mr. Brown would endeavor to reduce postage and railway fares, and pronounced strongly against the Military College at Kingston, and the Senate. If elected he would prove himself a worthy representative.

Mr. Platt, the straight Government candidate, was again asked to speak by the chairman, Mr. A. R. Fawcett, but upon declining, Mr. Wallace took his place on the wagon. After acknowledging his thanks for a handsome bouquet of flowers presented by a fair young damsel, he commenced his address. Interruptions soon followed, however, and the speaker requested Dan Bla and a few other stalwarts to remove "half a dozen blackguards who had been hired by the Tupper gang to break up the meeting." This being done the order was good for some time. Mr. Wallace continuing said that Dr. Orr had been hawking around a petition to bring out an opponent to the candidate of the Conservative Association. And why? Because he (Wallace) had refused to bow to Rome. Because he would not consent to the coercion of Manitoba. Mr. Wallace's remarks were directed principally against the Tupper Government, Dr. Orr, Jas. Thompson—another Conservative—and a few others. Who is this man Platt, said he, that the Tupper have brought out against me? Yes, I know him. For years after I became M. P. he bothered me day and night to get him a government position (Mr. Platt—You're a liar, Mr. Wallace!) Mr. Wallace scarcely touched on the tariff, saying that the school question must be settled before all other questions. He would vote against coercion even if it smashed the Government. He twitted the Platt gang, as he called them, with having $20,000 of the government fund to bribe the electors of West York, and he prophesied that some of the boodlers would be in jail by Saturday night. During the meeting there were several scimmages, and "the man with the black eye" was a prominent personage. Mr. Wallace ended a two hours' speech amid applause. The chairman then introduced Mr. Platt who commenced by saying that he was brought out by a requisition signed by 1,500 electors to support the government and the constitution. But just at this stage, and much to the disgust of those who wished to see fair play, some of Mr. Wallace's friends drew the wagon away, and Mr. Platt was obliged to dismount. Mr. Wallace was by the same party almost tumbled into the wagon and drawn away towards the village. It was evidently soon discovered to be a mistake and the wagon was returned, with an invitation for Mr. Platt to proceed with his speech. This offer he refused, and left the grove in apparent disgust at the treatment he received. For a time a row seemed inevitable, but finally the crowd began to quietly disperse. The whole trouble seemed to be between the Wallaceites and the Tupperites, and the breach is already wide.

Mr. Frandland at Thornhill

A most encouraging meeting in the interests of Mr. H. R. Frankland, the Liberal candidate for East York, was held in Victoria Hall on Friday evening. Mr. D. James, ex-reeve of Markham, presided, and in a fair and impartial speech introduced the speakers. Many ladies occupied front seats, and appeared to be very much interested with the political information they received. When Mr. Frankland was introduced two pretty little girls ascended the platform and presented the coming M. P. with beautiful bouquets of flowers. Mr. Frankland gracefully acknowledged the compliment after the manner of his able leader, the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier. He then took up the leading questions of the day, and the expressions of approval by which he was greeted clearly showed that the large proportion of the audience were in full accord with the views enunciated. As a man he would not say a word against his opponent, but the fact could not be disguised that many Conservatives and Reformers were opposed to the stand taken by Mr. Maclean in favor of Sunday street cars, Sunday newspapers and Sabbath desecration.

The candidate was preceded by Mr. Gibson, a clever young lawyer from Toronto, who ably handled the Manitoba school question of the Tupper party, and unmercifully scored the so-called National Policy which Mr. W. F. Maclean has been for years hugging to his breast.

Mr. W. J. Hill, reeve of York, followed in a capital speech. He referred to the noble career of the late Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, ex-member for East York, and felt convinced that after the 23rd of this month the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier would have an able representative in the person of Mr. Frankland. He pointed out that although Mr. Maclean spoke in favor of preferential trade with England, when a resolution was introduced by the Liberals favoring a reduction of duty on British goods, Mr. Maclean voted against it.

Mr. John Langstaff then took the platform, but his voice was not strong enough to be heard with satisfaction. He was heard to say, however, that the National Policy and Protection had done much for Canada, but that he had not much faith in the honesty of politicians. A voice rang out from the audience: "Has the National Policy made you rich?"

Cherry—Lemon—that the contract for the erection of a bridge on 5th con. at Humber be let by public competition, on the ground, on Thursday, June 25th, and that the clerk post the necessary notices.—Carried.

A. McCallum was instructed to examine sideline between lots 75 and 76, in the 1st con., and have same repaired to the extent of $25.

The council resolved itself into a court of revision to hear the following appeals:

Edward Watson failed to convince the court that his farm was assessed too high. but Benj. Rush was more successful. He got a reduction of $200; John Mably, $200 reduced; Wm. Fisher, $100; Hy. Fry, $200 off; Wm. Kennedy, $200. The assessments of John Morris and Edward Deacon were confirmed. The following were released from dog tax:—Thomas Atkins, M. Glancy, Chas. Sturdy, John Paxton, Wm. Watson, Chas. Sturdy, jr., John Honett, and Mrs. B. Sworth. Hy. Wilson's name was added to the roll as M. F., as well as his brother Leslie. The names of George and Alfred Tegart were added as freeholders on part of lot 34, con. 9.

After a few clerical errors were corrected, the roll was confirmed and the council adjourned to meet at Bell's Lake, 9th line, on June 27th.

Maple

The football team again went to Vellore last Saturday and defeated the team of that place by two goals to none. Judging from the marks that some of the boys carry there must have been some rough play.

The garden party at Mr. J. Constable's last Thursday evening was a success. After tea a good programme was given. Mr. J. T. Shuk sang several comic songs, which were well received. The North Toronto Glee Club contributed much towards the enjoyment of the evening. Teston brass band was also present and furnished some choice music.

A very acceptable lawn party was given on Tuesday evening on Mr. Parry's lawn by the friends of St. Stephen's Church. An excellent programme was rendered. The Glee Club sang a number of glees, and Teston band furnished music. Miss Dolan and Miss Peppiatt, of Newmarket, sang several solos and duets, and Mr. Amey, of Toronto, gave a number of recitations. Piano solos were given by Miss Annie McNeil and Miss Edith Keffer.

Mr. J. T. Saigeon and Mr. W. Speight attended the party at Pine Grove on Monday evening. One of the chief events was a fat man's race between Mr. Saigeon and Mr. St. John, M. P., which resulted in a tie. If Mr. Saigeon had not fallen he would have come out ahead.

A bus load from here went to Scarborough on Wednesday to attend the Centennial. R. B. Orr, M. B., and Mr. S. Platt, Conservative candidate for West York, were in the village last week.
