RICHMOND HILL, September 29, 1908

THE GOVERNMENT JUSTIFIED.

During the recent session of the Ontario Legislature Mr. Whitney and his Opposition followers claimed to have two strong points of attack from which they fired their shots against the Hardy Government. In the first place they endeavored to show that an outrage had been committed by allowing Hon. John Dryden and Hon. J. M. Gibson to hold their portfolios until such time as the courts could decide the protests entered against the declared elected opponents of the above named ministers. The court has already unseated Mr. Calder, Mr. Dryden's opponent in South Ontario, for bribery on the part of his agents, and there is little doubt that Mr. Dryden will carry the election which will take place in a few weeks. It would be difficult to find as able a man as the Hon. John Dryden to fill the position of Minister of Agriculture, and an outrage would have been committed had the important office been given to another man before the court had time to decide the case in point.

The other charge was that a number of Government supporters got their majorities only by the vote of constables who had served outside the polling booths on election day. Mr. Whitney claimed that the votes of such constables should not be counted, and that several members were not legally elected. A few days ago the Court of Appeal decided unanimously that the constables referred to were not disfranchised, and that the Ontario Election Act never meant to disfranchise them.

The ground appears to be speedily slipping away from under the feet of the Ontario Opposition.

Headford

Prohibition is the prevailing topic for discussion in our sober little village as I presume it is at the present time all over the Dominion. Although we have had no public meetings, on Sunday morning the Rev. G. McCulloch gave us a very spirited address in behalf of Prohibition, basing his remarks found in II Samuel x., 12. "Be of good courage and let us play the men for our people and for the cities of our God, and the Lord doeth that which seemeth him good." The speaker dealt not only with the moral side of the question but cleared up a number of doubtful points on the financial side. But, Mr. Editor your readers will have cast their ballots yea! or nay! on this great question before this issue of your paper reaches them. Further comment by me will be of no avail. But surely, the overwhelming arguments advanced during the present campaign against this extravagant and demoralizing traffic and the lack of anything really good said in its favor, should leave no one, with the moral, intellectual and financial interests of our beloved country at heart, long in doubt as to which way to mark their ballot on the 29th.

As no items have appeared from this vicinity for some time, we thought we would renew our correspondence to let you know that Langstaff has not dropped out of existence altogether.

Sunday evening a number of our people went to Thornhill Methodist church to hear a sermon on the Plebiscite delivered by Rev. F. Keam. He took his text from Judg. i., 19 and v., 23. Judging from the manner in which the Reverent gentleman handled the subject, he is no doubt a very enthusiastic worker.

The farmers of this place were pleased to see the rain of last week, as the ploughing will be some easier. We have not been favored with rain this season as some of our neighbors have been, but fortunately, we have also missed the storms which have done so much damage in many places.
