back the light from its many facets, dale bureau. 'If ever anything hap- keenly at pretty Nell, shook hands' and strange, brilliant colors shot from pens to me,' he said, 'don't lose a mom- with us both, and murmured: its depths. It was the finest stone I ent, but look into this drawer; throw had ever set in my life.

I was particularly pleased with my may be in the right." design for the setting. No other hand had touched it, and I felt that the frame, so to speak, was worthy of the picture.

was fit even to adorn the hand of Lady Gwendolen Forrest, the beauty and in my own Nell I had a girl as good and as pretty as any in the land.

was my employer's daughter, and his private house was upstairs over the ward large showroom in Clifford street. It was against all custom for Nell to come down to my workshop, for her father disapproved our engagement. But tothe temptation of having a peep at the Lambton diamond.

finger, and was dancing about twisting | into my head which startled me by its her hand, that the marvelous stone might catch the light, the door opened to defend Nell from a harsh reprimand closing the secret drawer, and contrivbut none came. Her father appeared oddly preoccupied, merely took the in Kent, managing to avoid the service and, snapping the lid of the case down upon it, placed it in his pocket and plan. walked away.

Next day I was sitting at work, when I saw a hanson drive up, and hastily into the room, which adjoined closed shutters. the one where I was sitting and where | When I saw my old employer in the Mr. Nugent was.

could scarcely believe my ears. "You him. thought to fool me easily by a false diamond I intrusted to you?" made any great impression upon Lord imitation. Another was not so posiinterrupted, and at last an ominous his glass, turning it this way and that, face and eyes, causing the loss of narrow the two stitches before these threat concerning the "police" reach- declaring that in all his experience he sight. ed my ears.

that Lord Lambton had deliberately ac- prepared to swear that it was false. off upon him an imitation diamond, yet had been thrown by the evidence upon and delivered it to Mr. Nugent only into the box, I was cool now, for the yesterday.

tween my handing him the ring and ing my personal honor. his transferring it to the owner he placed it by another, But for such a bold trick to succeed the imitation must be magnificently made, and the original diamond must have been carefully measured.

I had never known that Mr. Nugent kept any false gems about the place, and besides was it likely that a man in his position would care to run so ter- ine stone, and delivered the ring when rible a risk? Still, I could not help finished to the prisoner '?' remembering how haggard and irri- "I do." table he had been of late, and the keen interest that he took in the racing intelligence.

As I thus speculated on the astoundopened the door of the workroom. He since it left my hands." looked keenly at me as if wondering if it would be safe to trust me. "Did you hear anything of what passed in the next room?" he questioned.

I admitted that I had. "Of, course, I shall be triumphantly in a case has been reached. acquitted," he announced, clearing his throat huskily as he spoke. "Still, Lord Lambton can make things disagreeable. And look here, Wade, I haven't always been as friendly to you as I might, but I can trust you. You'll be an important witness. Do what you can for me, for the girl's sake."

The words sounded strange, but was given no time to answer, for at that moment Lord Lambton returned with two Scotland Yard men. My employer was given into custody and taken to the police station to be charged, the detectives remaining to search the premises.

Mr. Nugent being a widower, with only one child, the management of the business practically devolved on me as the detectives ransacked the place, they put many questions to me as to where the stones were kept. The safes were all pointed out to them, but they seemed disappointed with their operations. Late in the evening they came to me in the workroom, and, holding out the ring that I had made for Lord Lambton, one of them said:

"This is your work, we understand. Is that the stone you set?" I glanced at it, but I only replied: "I don't call myself an expert in precious stones, and all I can say is that this one precisely resmebles in size shape and appearance the one given me to set. While this statement was practically true, that one glance had been enough to show me that I was not looking at the Lambton diamond. The detectives left, saying that would have to tell all I knew in the witness box, and then, just as I was about to lock up the place for the night.

had been taken away,

there were dark shadows under the lashes.

wild to say all day, lest it should be as-a very-clever man?" ed to me that he had lost a great deal to my wife-the only daughter of the The famous Lambton diamond threw of money and he showed me how to late Mr. Nugent." away everything that you will find in the left-hand partition, and keep what

Together we ransacked the old bureau, and at length Nell touched the The ring, now that it was finished, spring which opened the secret drawer. I drew in my breath sharply, for the light of the candle which I held struck out a gleam from a pile of exheiress of the season. But I did not quisitely made false stones, which lay envy young Lord Lambton his fiance; in a partition on the left hand, while on the right was the Lambton diamond.

Involuntarily I betrayed the dreadful nature of the discovery by an ex-I was about to take the ring to Mr. clamation, for, left to herself, Nell Nugent when Nell herself ran in. She would not have understood. But she was quick to comprehend, and realizing the worst she swayed, staggering back-

"My poor father," she moaned, as I held her. "He is ruined forever-and I, too. The daughter of a convicted thief is no fit wife for an honest man.' "My darling, you are a wife for a day she had not been able to resist king, and as for your father, I swear to you that I will save him yet."

"You-you cannot." "I tell you that I can and will." For cattle. Just as she had slipped it on her even as I spoke an idea had flashed audacity. In a moment I had thought out every detail.

I made up the stones, Lambton diaand Mr. Nugent entered. I prepared mond and all, into a packet, carefully ing to get away without being seen, ring from her, examined it earnestly, of a subpoena. Thus I was not present at the police court proceedings, which would have meant ruin for my

Mr. Nugent was committed for trial, and meanwhile I stayed in the country; working each night in locked room. with the tools I had brought with me, Lord Lambton jump out. He came until the gray dawn filtered under my dock at the trial I was shocked at the "Scoundrel!" I heard him say, and ghastly change which had come over

The evidence at first went steadily stone; but I am as good a judge of against him. Lord Lambton swore jewels as you are. You are a thief, that the stone in the ring was not his sir!' What have you done with the diamond. One expert testified that not only was the stone he now saw Mr. Nugent answered in a lower not the Lambton diamond, but was not voice. What he said, could not have a genuine jewel at all, but a marvelous a farmer, struck the reptile with a Lambton, however, for he impatiently tive. He looked at the gem through had never seen a false stone so cleverly I sat still. I understood very well executed as this. Indeed, he was not

I knew that I had set the true stone Mr. Nugent's guilt; and then I went game I had determined on had cost me My employer himself was a skilled many a qualm of conscience. But I workman, though not a good designer, had no intention of cheating Lord and in the time that had elapsed be- Lambton, swearing falsely, or tarnish-

The preliminary question of the procould have removed the stone and re- secuting counsel brought out the fact that I had designed the ring's setting, and done all the work upon it.

"What sort of stone was it your employer gave you to set?" was the next question.

"An extremely valuable white diamond," I replied. "Do you swear that you set the genu-

"Do you consider it possible that stone might have been taken out and imitation one substituted?" "Certainly. But I could tell wheing accusation. Mr. Nugent himself ther the ring had been tampered with

> "Take this then, examine it, and inform the court if that is the stone you set."

The ring was handed to me, and a hush fell upon the court. The kind pounds, falling through the bed-slats. of lull which denotes that a vital point | The boy is six feet in height, and his

I put my hand in my waistcoat pocket for my jeweler's glass, and the sharpest eye could not have seen that I also drew forth a new ring, made in the secret hours of the night-an exact counterpart of the other, save that it contained the real Lambton diamond.

I pretended to examine the imitation with great care while all eyes were fixed upon me. At length I returned the glass to my pocket, and with it the ring with the false stone. I could hear my own heart beating, but, handing the court usher the new ring, ! said firmly, in reply to the snappish

"Well?" of the prosecuting counsel: "I swear unhesitatingly that the setting of this ring has not been tampered with, and that this is the genuine diamond which was given me to set." A rustle went round the court; the doubting expert pricked up his ears, the prosecuting counsel, with Lord Lambton and the treasury solicitor, were whispering over the ring. "M'lud," said the counsel, "I ask permission to recall the expert." I stepped out of the box and the expert stepped in. The new ring was put into his hand, a friendly ray of sunshine lighting up the jewel "This is very remarkable," he said at last. "It's the first time I have ever made a mistake. This stone is genuine. I cannot doubt it."

And so the prisoner was free; but when the verdict of "Not guilty" was pronounced a faint groan echoed it, and a dead man was taken from the dock. A spasm of the heart had proved fatal.

Nell came in. It was the first time she married. On our honeymoon we were ed. The experimenters conclude that had let me see her since her father walking in a lane near Ilfracombe, seeds, when in a dormant condition, when we came face to face with Lord have their vital machinery absolutely The face which I thought the sweet- Lambton, who was stopping with his stopped, and not merely slowed down est on earth was marble white, and bride in a neighboring country house, to an indefinite extent.

"Ah, Mr. Wade!" he exclaimed, "I haven't seen you since that very mys-"There's something I must say to terious case of mine. Do you know I you," she panted, "something I've been have always since thought of you-too late, but I dared not let anyone "Thank you," I said quietly. "Will suspect. A month ago father confid- you allow me, my lord, to present you open a secret drawer in his Chippen- Lord Lambton raised his hat, looked "Ah, I understand!"

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

A Few Paragraphs Which Will Be Found Worth Reading.

five to ten years.

Nine-tenths of the finest tea raised in China, is sold and consumed in Russia. Most of the next best grade finds a market in Great Britain. The golden tresses which adorn the head of Willie Reynolds, of Jersey Shore, Pa., are thirty-six inches in length. His age is twelve years. At a watermelon eating contest in Bridgeton, N. Y., the contestants being all colored boys, one little darkey ate twice his weight of melons. Samuel Webb, a Texan farmer, has in Eastern Cuba, and will there establish a large cattle ranch. He is about to ship thither, 2,500 Texan Vapor baths were recommended to Mr. H. T. Higgins, of Chicago, as remedy for hay fever. As he was that death resulted.

A novel exploit was performed by and went straight to my brother's house some thieves at Dover, Del. They audaciously broke into the jail there, stole considerable clothing and other valuables, and successfully got off with their plunder.

Cigarette smoking is a common practice among the washerwomen of New Orleans. It is a picture to behold one of them contentedly smoking while she is vigorously rubbing a garment on the washboard.

In France, when a convict is sentenced to death by the guillotine, the his presence, and he knows not when way down; then narrow on the right he is to be led forth until within fifteen minutes of the fatal moment.

During a fight with a moccasin snake at Decatur, Ala., George Miller, thick switch, bursting the poison sacs.

The street cars in Manila are 13 feet 6 inches long, and seat 20 passcused my employer of trying to palm This was the first ray of doubt which engers. They were all made in the United States, and were purposely are not much larger than Newfoundland dogs.

A shocking experience recently came to James Fish, of Tioga, Pa. Lightning tore all the clothing from the left side of his body, and rent it into ribbons. He became unconscious, and when he recovered his senses he found that his left arm and leg were paralyzed.

Japanese children are taught to write with both hands. there is a marked difference in the penmanship of each person, the better writing being produced by the left hand, while the right hand can turn out ten per cent. more work in a given period of time. earthquake, caused the parents of Harvey Reiff, of Maugansville, Md., to imagine that their dwelling was about age is fifteen years.

at Madrid comprise some of the most beautiful in the world. They number over 2,000, and are said to be worth $200,000,000. Among them are 10 by Raphael, 46 by Murillo, 64 by Velasquez, 62 by Rubens, and 43 by Titian.

Nine horses were driven a distance of 300 miles by a resident of Ventina, Col., who wished to sell them. A customer bought them all. Some days later the horses appeared at their old home, having esscaped from their new owners, and made the homeward trip unguided.

The sixth marriage of Mrs. Augusta Thistlewood was recently solemnized at Province, R. I. Four of her former husbands were present, and acted as ushers; the fifth sent his regrets and a gift, and invited the bride and groom to spend the honeymoon at his house. The five divorces were secured by the lady, without opposition.

RESISTING TERRIFIC COLD.

That wonderful new substance, liquid air, has recently been employed at the Kew Gardens in London for testing the ability of seeds to endure very low temperatures. Seeds of various plants were enclosed in thin glass tubes which were kept immersed in liquid air. For 110 hours consecutivey they were submitted to a temperature varying from 297deg, to 313deg, were slowly thawed, the operation salt and lemon juice have been added, ball hit him plump on the top of his lasting 50 hours. On seing planted, it was found that their germinative Six months later Nell and I were power had not been appreciably affect-

KNITTING STOCKINGS.

To knit stockings is not so much a matter of economy as formerly; for good stockings can now be bought at very reasonable prices. But it may still save something and the handwork often wears better than the woven. Many a girl and woman is glad of an occupation for spare moments, and there are persons that still Hams which are packed in pulverized have their knitting done by hand; and charcoal will continue fresh for from a gift of one's own manufacture is more appreciated, and certainly more suggestive of thought and affection on the part of the giver, than what she has simply bought.

As many of the directions in the manuals for knitting are very long and not often easily comprehended, even by an experienced person, the object of the present article is to give a few practical directions on the subject that can be followed without the aid of a teacher.

The number of stitches cast on varpurchased an immense tract of land les with the size of the stocking and the fineness of the thread and needles. Thirty stitches on each needle is about an average for a good-sized child with a stout leg or a grown person of ordinary figure, narrowing to seventy-five stock, one even teaspoonful salt, six at the ankle is reached. If one stitch taking one, the bathing machine ex- is put on extra and purled, that is ploded, and so seriously scalded him knitted as a seam stitch, all the way down, the narrowing should be on either side of that. At the top a band should be knitted from half a linger to a finger in length, by knitting and purling two alternately, before the plain knitting is begun. It is simpler to cast the stitches upon one needle and then to divide.

More stitches are required for cotton than for woolen hose. Three balls of knitting-cotton will make two pairs of socks.

Two different heels are as follows: First. When the heel is reached, divide the stocking in two, knit one-half plain and back till about half a finger in length; take the side in which the day of his execution is not named in one stitch has been purled all the side on either side of this seam stitch till about twenty stitches remain; knit to the middle on the right side, double the needles together and bind take up the stitches all around; slip four or five off the front needles at The poison spattered over Miller's each side on to the needles of the heel, four, every other row, till the same number of stitches are on as at the ankle; then knit plain till it is time to narrow for the toe.

For the second heel, divide the stocking into two, as before, and knit one constructed light, as they were to be side a little more than half a finger drawn by Philippine horses, which in length; divide this into three parts; knit back and forth, slipping a stitch on to the next at the first part of the row, the next at the purled row, until all the stitches at the side divisions have been slipped over; knit across and take up the stitches on the side, knit around and take up on the other side; transfer two stitches from the front needle at either end, narrow every other row, the two slitches before these two, until, as in the other directions, there are nearly or quite the Usually same number of stitches on the needles as at the beginning of the heel. The first is sloped to the foot, but has a seam; the second heel is more square. sixth row, knit six rows, and so on, until but a few stitches remain on A terrible shock, like that of an each needle, when the yarn or cotton ly it is used no longer to cool the heatstitches, drawn up and fastened down on the wrong side, or narrowed off by to tumble about their ears. It was knitting until two stitches remain, caused by Harvey, who weighs 380 then turn one stitch over the other, it, vigorously hoping to stir up a litpulling the thread through the remaining one, then fasten the thread.

A pretty open-work silk stocking can heel. With fine needles put on one hundred and thirteen stitches. Knit for a short finger length, than knit about the length of the needle plain, ternate stitch. Get some one to hold the needles, and pull the stocking carefully till the dropped stitches run over with melted butter; lay on a hot broiler, and broil over a moderately clear fire five minutes on each side, turning them twice while cooking. Lay six small slices of buttered toast on a hot dish, dress two mushrooms over each piece of toast, spread one tablespoonful maitre d'hotel butter over the mushrooms, and serve.

Then narrow for the toe, as this for a fancy stocking. It shapes itself to of dollars. knitting may be used for tidies and lected by women. Fashionable dames other fancy knitting.

Baked.-Cut off a part of the stalks carefully and dry with a small piece of flannel and a little salt. Put them into a baking dish, with a little melted butter poured over each one; season with a sprinkle of white pepper, and bake twenty minutes. Serve on a hot dish with the sauce poured over.

Broiled.-Select one dozen medium-Fahrenheit below zero. Then they as cleansed into cold water to which and white pepper mixed, brush them it rather hard.

Saute.—Cut off the ends of the stalks from one and a half pints of fresh button mushrooms, and put them in a dish of water with a little lemon juice. Then take them out of the water and place with two tablespoonfuls butter in saucepan over the fire. Add a teaspoonful pepper and the juice of one lemon. Cover and stew slowly tweny minutes. Add one tablespoonful flour and a sprinkle of nutmeg, and gradually sufficient cream or milk to make the sauce of a proper consistency

In Spanish Sauce.—Cut nearly all the stalks away from one pint of small mushroom buttons; peel the tops or rub them off with salt. Place in a saucepan over the fire with half pint Spanish sauce, described below, simmer slowly twenty minutes; season with a little cayenne pepper, nutmeg, and sait, and serve very hot.

Spanish Sauce. - Place a saucepan with one tablespoonful butter over the fire, add two tablespoonfuls fine-cut raw ham, the same of chopped onion, carrot, and celery. Cook five minutes or till brown; then add one heaping tablespoonful flour, stir and cook three minutes. Add one pint soup whole peppers and a small bouquet; boil slowly ten minutes; then strain. Add half teaspoonful liquid beef extract and use as directed. This will make one pint of sauce. For the mushrooms half the quantity will do. If soup stock is not at hand take water and a little more of the beef extract.

CHILDREN AND REASONS.

Children always want a reason for the doing of the simplest things, said a mother the other day. Psychologists say it is the claims of science working in the mind when it begins to question. To answer these childish inquiries is not always easy, as every one knows, nor is it wise to discourage the questionings. Sometimes it is the simple little interrogations that are hardest to give replies to, such as Why may I eat with my fork and not off the stitches on the wrong side; not with my knife?" and "Why must I take soup from the side of the spoon, instead of from the end?" To this last I have found that a practical illustration serves best, to show why, I put the child beside some one else at the table, and allow him to take his soup or porridge from the end of the spoon. Of course, his elbow, extended as brings the spoon in line with his mouth, will jostle his neighbor or will threaten to do so. The clild can readily see that this is unpleasant, especially if some one will sit on his middle division, one side at the plain other side and incommode him in the same way. He thus learns that the comfort of other people at the table is largely dependent upon his good behavior. If he has been taught from infancy that he must try to make others happy, he can be persuaded to acquire manners that are pleasing.

FANS NO LONGER FOR USE.

Warm as the weather has been this summer, fans have been in but little For the toe, narrow every seventh use. It seems as if the fan had entirestitch, knit seven rows, narrow every ly lost its usefulness and had become a mere article of adornment. Apparentshould be broken off, threaded in a ed person who suffers from the sun's large darning needle, run through rays. If employed for such a purpose a big palm-leaf fan is used, and as often as not it is a man who swings tle cooling breeze.

The fan nowadays is flirtatious, and The paintings in the Royal Gallery be made without this troublesome the flirtatious fan is ripe in winter. It is used in the ballroom after a dance and then more as an aid to coquetry than for the ostensible purpose for next knit a row, dropping every al- which it was devised. It is a part of evening dress, and an indispensable part. It is not vigorously waved, for down as far as the ribbing, when each it is too expensive an article to bear one should be fastened on the wrong such hard usage. Dainty and pretty articles are these, and it is no uncomwill make the stocking long enough mon thing for them to cost hundreds the foot, and it should be worn over As a fad, however, the fan still a thin pair of stockings. It is called holds a place in woman's affections. the "American" or "Railroad." This There is nothing that is so often colhave a fancy for them, and there are many rare collections. The finest THE MUSHROOM, AS YOU LIKE IT. private collections of fans in the world are owned by Queen Victoria, the Empress of Russia, ex-Queen Isabella of twelve medium-sized mushrooms; of Spain who has over 600 specimens; peel the tops and wipe the mushrooms the Countess of Paris, the Countess of Chamburn, Countess of Granville, Mme. Alphonse de Rothschild, Lady Shaftesbury and Mme. Jubinal.

A unique dismissal of a batsman occurred in Ceylon in a match between teams of soldiers of the R. A. and R. A gunner was fielding in the sized fresh mushrooms; cut off a part "country." The ball was hit high in of the stalk, peel the top and rub off the air in his direction. He ran backwith a little fine salt. Drop as soon wards to catch it, but misjudging it, did not get his hands underneath. The say to one quart of cold water add the instead of bouncing off again, it went juice of one lemon and one teaspoonful through, resting on his head inside. salt. Fifteen minutes before serving drain and wine the mushroom drain and wine the mushroom drain and so he caught the drain and wipe the mushroom dry. ball! It was rough on the batsman, Season with half a teaspoonful of salt though the fieldsman probably found