The Brantford "Red Bird"

Is built on the principle of the greatest simplicity without sacrificing the usefulness or the strength of the wheel—that's the aim in all the high-grade wheels to-day. The makers of the "Red Bird" have been quick to note and adopt such features and improvements as have been proven to be desirable, useful and substantial—improvements that experience and a wider knowledge of bicycle construction have demonstrated, and which skill, capital and appliances could reduce to practice. "Red Bird" models for 1900 have these emphasized points, look into them:

Reduced weight—special designs—unique hubs—improved crank bracket—perfect handle bar adjustment—strengthened forks—ideal seat post fastener—new overhanging sprocket—combined coaster and brake.

The Massey-Harris at the Antipodes.

If you want proof of the staunchness of this splendid Canadian-made wheel it is only necessary to state that the Victorian Government of Australia recently purchased a number of them for use in its cycle postal department—at about the same time the New South Wales Government purchased American and other makes for similar service—and Government statistics show that it cost over twenty times more for repairs on the American collection than for the Massey-Harris wheels—DOES THIS CONVINCE YOU?
