Complaints are again made that boys and young fellows who go to Boyle's pond to bathe do not conduct themselves properly. No reasonable person will object to bathing under proper conditions, but as the pond is along side a public road and as there is a family living close by, those who go in the water should have bathing suits, and their conduct should be such that no complaints could be made against them.

When you buy anything here you are not paying the bad debts of some one else. We do a cash business on a close margin. You pay only for what you get, not for what the other fellow gets—cold facts. Atkinson & Switzer.

BE CAREFUL.

The names of about half a dozen young fellows of our village have been handed to Constable Brownlee and Reeve Savage, charged with trespassing on private property, stealing fruit and destroying trees. The complainants first thought of handing the names to Mr. Ellis, J. P., in which case the parties if found guilty might get a free trip over the Don. The rumors in circulation in regard to the matter certainly call for investigation to dispose of the accusations or cause the punishment of those concerned. A number of our industrious citizens depend to a great extent for their livelihood upon their gardens and orchards, and it is unfair that they should be compelled to sit up at night with shot guns, which some of them do, in order to protect their property. The same individuals are also accused of visiting orchards on the 2nd con. of Markham on the Lord's Day.

Fruit jars, best make, all sizes, at lowest figures; sugar, spices, vinegar, best quality and best value in the trade; try our white grape pickling at 10c. quart, the figure that is usually charged for XX white wine vinegar which is not half the strength and does not approach the grape in flavor. Atkinson & Switzer.

MIDSUMMER DELINEATOR.

As this is essentially the vacation time of the year, The Delineator for August is the vacation number. The spirit of midsummer breathes over its pages from its fashions down to the household notes. The daintiest dresses and dress accessories are gathered into this number, just suitable in their materials and their make up for the temporary use to which midsummer clothing is put. The dressmaking article by Mrs. Gorman deals with lace stock collars and open work of various kinds, boleros, etc., which appear to be more popular than ever this season. The kitchen article for the month describes various cold tomato dishes, summer drinks and fruit salads. Three short stories also appear in the August number, one by Francis Lynde entitled "A Vacation Conscience," another by Arabella Kenealy, daughter of the famous Dr. Kenealy, entitled, "Dr. Fordham's Daughter," and a third, a college story written by a college girl entitled, "The Impressionist Picture."
